BOLIVIANS TAKE FORT BOQUERON AFTER FIGHTING

President Hernando Siles Tells Crowd of 20,000 at La Paz That His Troops Have Administered Heavy Defeat to Paraguayan Soldiers in Gran Chaco Region and Occupied a Fortification —Charge Paraguay Concentrated Forces at Many Advanced Positions and "Bloody Encounter" Followed.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—President Hernando Siles told a crowd of 20,000 persons tonight that Bolivian forces had administered a heavy defeat to Paraguayan soldiers in the Gran Chaco region and that the Bolivians had taken Fort Boqueron.

The president's announcement followed publication of an official communique by Minister of War Hector Suarez.

The communique said:

"After the recent bloody outrage which the Bolivian army suffered at Fort Vanguardia—without our forgetting our international duties in the oath given to maintain peace — we declared before the League of Nations that Bolivia was undeniably bound as a duty to demand satisfaction and take military measures of a defensive character.

"This was in view of the fact that Paraguay was concentrating forces at many advanced positions to a point nearby our lines and it was logical to expect new incidents would occur.

"Our logical forecasts were carried out as Paraguayan military detachments menaced our Chaco forts, provoking a bloody en-

COOLIDGE SENDS NOTE BY PRINCE

Son of King George Replies to President's Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Prince George of England, who stopped off in New York enroute to the bedside of his father, sent a message to President Coolidge today, thanking him for the courtesy and kindness of American officials in New York and also for the "kind message given me today by Mr. Prentiss Gilbert, and to assure you that upon my arrival in England I will convey it to the king and queen."

The president's message was not made public. The prince's communication was signed simply, "George."

EXPECT REDUCTION OF PROHIB FUND

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—The $270,622,389 prohibition enforcement fund voted by the senate on Friday probably will be reduced again to the budget figure of $13,500,000 early next week.

Senate and house conferees met on the treasury-postoffice appropriation bill, containing the item, today, and did not finish their work.

CHARTERS INJURED AS AUTO CRASHES INTO STONE WALL

Crashing into the stone wall at Twentieth and F streets about 6 o'clock Saturday evening, R. W. Charters, 145 North Thirty-third street, suffered cuts on his nose and bruises on his legs. His car was wrecked. He was alone at the time of the accident and said the car skidded into the retaining wall as he was turning the corner.

He was taken home by his son, Mike Charters, and was resting easy Saturday night.

Magruder Urges A Larger Navy

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 15—(U.P.)—Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder in a talk here tonight before members of the Buffalo club advocated increasing naval strength from 84,000 to 150,000 men.

This increase, he said, is needed to "uphold the dignity, commerce, prestige and relations of the United States."

Magruder said that he was in accord with the naval policy as outlined by President Coolidge in his Armistice day speech.

A Southern Woman To Die On Gallows

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouff and her paramour, Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, will die on the gallows here on January 5 for the murder of Mrs. Lebouff's husband.

Gov. Huey P. Young today denied them their last chance at life when he declared that "under no circumstances" would he commute their death sentence to one of life imprisonment.

Mrs. Lebouff and Dr. Dreher were convicted for the murder of James Lebouff, shot to death by James Beadle, trapper, on a lake near here two years ago. Beadle turned state's witness, pleaded guilty and said that he was hired by Mrs. Lebouff and Dreher to shoot the man.

MRS. GOODHUE "FAIR."

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, aged mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, was doing "fairly well," it was reported at Dickinson Cooley hospital tonight.

CLEANUP DRIVE BEING PRESSED IN KANSAS CITY

Police Chief Admits Liquor Being Served At 500 Places.

WOMAN'S AXE RAID LEADS TO ACTION

Officers Gird To Restore Virtue To Home Loving Folk.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15—(U. P.) — This city, long known as a home loving community, exemplifying the law-abiding calmness of the middle west, gazed upon its gigantic liquor investigation tonight and wondered what had happened to Kansas City. To the average Kansas Citian it is all very startling.

The last day of legalized liquor selling—back in 1918 when Volsteadism came into vogue—witnessed the closing of 418 places in which liquor had been served under protection of the law.

Now, according to those who are charged with seeing that no alcoholic drinks are sold, there are more open saloons, illegally operated than there were prior to the enactment of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

One is permitted two choices in making the comparison.

Officers Join Forces.

Lincoln Toyne, chief of police, admits there are at least 500 places where liquor is served. He says they will be dried up with the help of the government's anti-liquor agents.

W. Harold Lane, deputy prohibition administrator for the United States government, in charge of the Kansas City area, says 1,000 saloons are operating in greater Kansas City, and with the help of the local police he will suppress them.

The bursting of the civic virtue bubble came this week when Mrs. Maude Wilson, a 1928 edition of Carrie Nation, strode into a saloon and wrecked it with an axe. She

GUARANTY PLAN IS THREATENED

Banks To Bring Suit Against Collection of Assessment.

Say Payments Demanded Amount To Confiscation By State.

Whether the bank guaranty system of Nebraska, one of the late William Jennings Bryan's political ideas and leading platform planks in his third campaign for the presidency in 1908, shall live or die is the underlying question involved in the legal attack which several hundred state bankers are preparing to make upon the guaranty law through the medium of an injunction suit to prevent collection of the latest special assessment levied upon them for the payment of depositors in a large number of failed institutions.

Should the bankers be successful in resisting payment of special assessments, which amount to one-half of 1 per cent on their deposits each year, it will make little difference whether the regular assessments continue or not. The regular levies aggregate but one-fifth of 1 per cent a year—about $240,000—which is only one-third of the sum required to pay accruing interest upon $10,000,000 of depositors' claims approved in the District court, with more claims piling up all the time and no money in sight to pay any part of the principal obligations.

The guaranty law, enacted in 1909, hung up in the federal courts for two years thereafter, became effective in January, 1911, and has functioned continuously from that date to the present. In the intervening period of almost 18 years assessments amounting to $16,000,000, in round numbers, have been collected from solvent banks and the money paid to depositors in suspended ones. Almost $30,000,000 more has been realized from the assets of failed banks and applied on depositors' accounts.

By far the greater part of these losses and assessments have come in the last decade. Prior to 1919, only three small failures occurred entailing drafts upon the fund which totalled less than a quarter of a million dollars.

Last Straw, Say Bankers.

For eight or nine years the state banks which survived the period of national deflation and financial stringency from 1920 to 1922 have been contributing heavy special assessments to the guaranty fund each year, in addition to the regular semi-annual assessments. It was hoped every year that the top of the hill had been reached and the going would thenceforth be made easier; but these expectations were not fulfilled.

Having already paid into the fund, in many instances, more than their combined capital stock and surplus, being unable to see any end

BILL IS FILED TO CONTINUE LIFE OF RADIO COMMISSION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—A bill extending the life of the federal radio commission one year from March 16, 1929, was introduced in the house today by Representative White, republican, Maine, coauthor of the present radio law.

The commission would be required to operate under the same restrictions as at present.

No licenses or renewals for a broadcasting station could be granted for a period of more than three months, and no license or renewal for any other class of station could be granted for more than one year.

WOMAN HIT BY CAR, MISSING

Police Searching For Driver Who Carried Away Victim.

A driver who carried an unconscious woman away in his car after running over her at Thirteenth and L streets about 7:30 Saturday evening was being sought by the police Saturday night.

Police were notified of the accident by a man who gave them the license number and a description of the car which sped south on Thirteenth street after the driver loaded the woman into the machine. He was supposed to be taking her to a hospital but did not report to any of them.

RECALLS MYSTERY HALL-MILLS CASE

Police Believe Couple Was Surprised During A Tryst.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Reminiscent of the famous Hall-Mills murder mystery, a young woman and man were found viciously slain today, their bodies perforated by bullets. They were surprised during a clandestine love tryst, police believed.

In a lonely lane near an abandoned bungalow off the turnpike at Franklin square, Long Island, the pair lay crumpled. Faces pitched forward in a sandpit, limbs taut, separated by many yards, their positions indicated they had fled from the fury of one or more pursuers. Their footprints suggested they had been shot down and shot again, after running from a side door of the unoccupied bungalow.

The victims had been stripped of all identification marks. There was the mark of a wedding ring on the girl's third finer but the ring had been removed. The labels on the expensive clothing of both had been cut away.

Both had been shot with .38 and .48-calibre revolvers. Four bullets had torn through the head of the woman, at least one at close range. Ten bullet wounds were revealed in the head and body of the man.

Many empty revolver shells were scattered about on the ground. There were bullet holes in the wood of the bungalow and bullet scars on the concrete of the stable. Faint ruts on the ground suggested

WATSON TO BE FLOOR LEADER

Indianan Assured of Being Chosen To Fill Curtis' Senate Post.

Senator Jones of Washington Announces Withdrawal From Contest.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U.P.)—Selection of Senator James Watson, Indiana, to succeed Vice President-elect Charles Curtis as republican floor leader of the senate was virtually assured late today by the withdrawal from the contest of Senator Westley Jones, Washington.

Watson and Jones, by virtue of their present positions as assistant leader and whip, respectively, are the most logical contenders to this powerful position of leadership and both have been campaigning for the post since the session started December 3.

Curtis is expected to resign his seat in the senate some time before the end of this session to assure appointment of his successor by Governor Paulen of Kansas, instead of the incoming executive, Clyde Reed, a political opponent of Curtis.

The new leader will be elected at

GRIPPE MENACES BOY INJURED IN FOUR-STORY FALL

His injuries aggravated by an attack of the grippe, the condition of 3-year-old Billie McKee was not regarded as favorable Saturday night. Billie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson McKee, was hurt when he fell out of a fourth story window at the Cornhusker apartments, 1325 L street, Friday afternoon but was saved from serious injury by landing in the soft mud.

While the boy sustained no broken bones it is possible he is injured internally, according to Dr. F. B. Hollenbeck who is attending him at St. Elizabeth's hospital.

GLEN HERRALD PLEADS GUILTY

Given Four Years For Robbery Of Store At Crab Orchard.

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., Dec. 15—Glen Herrald, 26, was arraigned before Judge J. B. Raper in District court here this afternoon, charged with having participated in the burglary of the F. E. Brown store at Crab Orchard on October 18, last. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary.

Herrald was one of the four men two of whom were captured near Kearney and two in Omaha ten days ago and turned over to the state sheriff. They admitted to having robbed many stores in various parts of Nebraska recently and are believed to have taken at least $20,000 worth of merchandise.

Carl Keeling was taken to Wilber and upon pleading guilty to a burglary in Saline county, was given a five year sentence. William Pabst was taken to Geneva and James C. Brock to West Point. The cases of the latter two have not yet been disposed of.

Alleged Gunmen Depart

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Fifteen of the twenty-one delegates to an alleged "gunmen's convention," arrested by police in a downtown hotel here December 5, had left or were leaving the city tonight after pleading guilty to charges of being suspicious persons late this afternoon.

Municipal Judge Charles Selzer order all who pleaded guilty to leave town at once. A suspended sentence of thirty days in the workhouse and a fine of $50 each was imposed on the accused to insure their departure.

The girl became the bride of Roy Smith, 21, a welder.

In applying for the license, Miss May said she had been married four times and that her former name was Mrs. Flernoy Sims.

She did not say what became of her other husbands, court attaches said.

RULER RESPONDS TO EFFORTS OF HIS PHYSICIANS

Hopes of British Subjects, Plunged to a Low Point When Violet Ray Therapy Treatment is Resorted to to Stimulate Heart Action, Mount Again as Doctors Take Departure — Prince of Wales Leaves at 11 O'Clock After Remaining at Palace Almost Continuously Throughout Day and Evening.

LONDON, Dec. 16—(Sunday)—(I. N. S.)—At 3 o'clock this morning King George was sleeping soundly and had "slept considerable since midnight," International News Service was informed at the palace. The stricken ruler's entire night was described as "rather fair."

THE WEATHER.

OMAHA, Dec. 15—The weather outlook for the period of December 17 to December 22, inclusive, follows:

Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: Temperatures mostly above normal, but may become colder toward close of week; probably one or two precipitation periods.

Neb'aska: Probably rain Sunday and Monday, but some cloudiness; much colder Sunday in extreme east portion.

Kansas: Partly cloudy to cloudy, possibly light rain in southeast; colder Sunday; Monday generally fair.

LONDON, Dec. 15 — (I. N. S.) — King George at midnight tonight apparently had responded gallantly to the heroic efforts of his physicians earlier in the evening in their fight to save his life.

At midnight an informant at Buckingham palace told International News Service that the king had "had a little sleep during the evening. Everything is quiet now, Her majesty, the queen, has retired for the night.

Even Sir Stanley Hewett, the only physician remaining at the palace tonight, had retired to get some sleep, the informant said, and only the two night nurses were in attendance on the king.

First indication that the king had rallied from the relapse he suffered earlier in the evening, when violet ray therapy treatment was resorted to to keep his heart in action, was when the Prince of Wales left the palec at 11 p. m. The prince had been at the palace almost continuously throughout the day and evening, and his depafture immediately aroused the hopes of the crowd outside the palace gates that his majesty had rallied to the latest medical treatment.

Hopes Pushed Low.

These hopes rebounded from about the lowest depths to which Britian has been plunged since the king fell ill just twenty-five days ago. When the evening bulletin was posted at 8 p. m., stating for the first time that ray therapy had been employed as part of the physicians' treatment, hope for the

WOMAN CALLS ON SICK MAN; BEATEN BY HIS DAUGHTER

Suffering from a severe bump on her head, abrasions on her cheeks and general body bruises, Mrs. Esther Ellis, 65, 219 South Twentieth street, was carried into the police station Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. O'Connell who said she collapsed in front of the Labor temple at 227 North Eleventh street as they were passing by.

Mrs. Ellis told police she had gone to visit a friend who was ill. His daughter came in while she was there and, according to Mrs. Ellis, grew angry with her, struck her, pulled her hair kicked her downstairs and then knocked her down on the pavement outside.

Dr. George E. Lewis city physician, ordered her taken to her home. He said her injuries did not appear to be serious although they were quite painful. She was suffering some from shock.

SEDAN WRECKED WHEN CRASHES INTO TWO CARS

A sedan which police records show was driven by John Bracelen, 3227 Q street, was found wrecked at Twenty-ninth and Holdrege streets Saturday night after it had smashed into two parked cars at Nineteenth and Holdrege streets. The parked automobiles belong to Louis Gable, Lincoln rural route 6, and Dr. F. C. Kuehne, Room 4, Orpheum building.

$10,000 VOTED FOR INFIRMARY

Regents Decide On Use Of Old Home Of Chancellor.

The board of regents of the University of Nebraska decided at a meeting Saturday afternoon to transform the old chancellor's residence at Thirteenth and R street into an infirmary, and voted $10,000 for its equipment and maintenance, it was announced by Chancellor E. A. Burnett.

The residence is a brick structure and is located just west of Ellen Smith hall on the north side of R street.

Efforts will be made in the future to search out all cases of illness among students who may be financially unable to obtain proper medical care, Chancellor Burnett said.

The project is considered a step ahead both in improving the general health of the student body and in curbing the spread of minor diseases. In cases of serious illness the students will be removed to hospitals in the city.

The rooms will be equipped with beds and other necessary facilities and a nurse and physician will be retained for part time services.

Heretofore the university has maintained an infirmary and dispensary in the pharmacy building but facilities there have been inadequate to meet the needs. Thousands of minor ailments are treated there every year.

The work will be carried on under the supervision of Dr. R. A. Lyman, dean of the pharmacy college.

KILLS HIS WIFE AND HER LOVER

St. Paul Man Admits Double Slaying to News Reporters.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 15.—(UP)—A half hour after Mrs. Sam Nicosia, 40, boarding house keeper, and Patsy Ase, 35, a roomer, were shot to death here today, Sam Nicosia walked up to two reporters who were "covering" the story and said: "I did it."

"Ase was too attentive to my wife and has kept up his love stealing tactics until I just couldn't stand it any longer," Nicosia told The Daily News reporters. "Take me in."

The reporters first had Nicosia photographed and then turned him over to the police.

Both Mrs. Nisocia and Ase were shot through the heart.

Rose, the 15-year-old daughter of the Nicosias, witnessed the tragedy.

King Is Ill In Room Where Father Died

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(U. P.)—King George is ill in the same room where his father, Edward VII, died, it was disclosed today.

At the outset of his illness it was suggested moving the king to another room, but he refused to allow it. Now he is so weak that it would be impossible to move him.

Press Reports Inform Lincoln Man of Death of Sister He Had Seen But Once in Past 64 Years

The story of a widely separated family of orphaned children came to light Saturday evening when Thomas S. Granville, 230 North Sixteenth street, learned of the death of his sister, Mrs. Ida May Baker, at Boston, Mass., through reading a press dispatch in the Lincoln Star from the eastern city.

Mrs. Baker, who was 70 years old, lived at Newton, Mass., but died December 13 at a Boston hospital. Mr. Granville, who told The Star that he had seen his sister but once for a period of six days, during the past sixty-four years, read of Mrs. Baker's death and came to The Star offices to try to get more information.

When he was two-and-a-half years old, Mr. Granville said, his sister, brothers and himself were orphaned and it was necessary to separate the family. His sister was taken to Maine to be reared while he went to live with his grandparents at Philadelphia.

In 1881 Mr. Granville came to Nebraska and has resided in Lincoln since 1918. The only time he had seen his sister since the death of his parents was in 1912, when his wife and himself traveled to Boston, he said. There the family visited together for six days.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville were planning to take another trip east during the coming summer where the family was to have been reunited. The journey will now be abandoned Mr. Granville stated.

Mrs. Baker had never lived in Lincoln her brother said.

She is survived by her husband, Charles B. Baker, and two other brothers, Charles H. Granville of Philadelphia, and J. Franklin Granville of Bangor, Me.

Funeral services and interment will take place Sunday at Newton.

Lincoln Girls Winners In Essay Contest

FLORA ALBIN

MARGARET DEEDS

LA VERNE MARCY

Three Lincoln girls gathered in nearly all the honors in the state-wide essay contest at which was conducted by the federal highway education department at Washington, D. C. The contest was conducted with the national safety campaign.

First honors were won by Flora Albin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Albin, 2611 Ryons. She is a pupil in Sheridan school. Second place was taken by Margaret Deeds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana E. Deeds, 6519 Colby. Margaret is a pupil in the Bethany school. Third place was awarded to LaVerne Marcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Marcy, 2410 South Sixteenth street. She is a pupil in the Saratoga school.

The first prize essay written by Flora Albin will be entered in the national contest as representative of Nebraska.

SCHOOL FINANCE PLAN ATTACKED

F. J. Vogeltance Thinks Scheme Is Blow At Self Government.

Proposed Legislation Would Boost Tax Burden He Says.

The proposed "plan for providing equality of educational opportunity in Nebraska," formulated by a New York educational expert after making a survey of conditions in this state, and now being sponsored by the Nebraska State Teachers' association for consideration by the legislature, is attacked by County Supt. F. J. Vogeltance of Colfax county as a blow at local self-government in school affairs.

In a letter written to Frank Myers of Omaha, a copy of which has been sent to The Star, Mr. Vogeltance declares that the plan, if carried into effect, would mean a greatly increased tax burden upon the people of Nebraska, and would take the control of their schools out of the hands of the people in the various districts and enable state authorities to exercise dictatorial powers over them.

As to Colfax county, Mr. Vogeltance points out that the proposed legislation would compel forty-six of the sixty districts there to increase their present tax levies, which are now sufficient to maintain schools according to legal standards and requirements in Nebraska. Here is his analysis of the plan:

"Schuyler, Neb., Dec. 12 1928. Dear Mr. Myers: The copy of The Schuyler Sun I sent you contains a few objections to the proposed school taxation bill in Nebraska.

Here are a few more objections to it.:

Would Mean Tax Boost..

"First: After four years of operation, this law would require each district to levy 2.7 mills annually on its own property, and in addition to that levy, each district would receive from the state $1,200 for each teaching unit. There are now forty six districts out of the sixty in Colfax county maintaining a good school on less than a 2.7 mills levy. What would the law require such districts to do with the surplus fund thus created? The bill is silent on that point.

Second: The article in The Nebraska Farmer says that after four years a minimum sum of $1,200 per teaching unit would be established below which no district would be allowed to go. The average salary of rural school teachers in Nebraska for the school year 1927-1928 was $740.95. That means an increase of about $500 per teacher each year. There are 6,991 rural school teachers in the state and 6,991 times $500 means an increase of $3,495,500 in taxes each year. This does not include the expense of the additional state officers who would see to it that each one of the 7,083 school districts would receive the proper "guidance." Those who advocate this method of taxation tell us that "No body is going to object seriously to a few more cents on their tax receipt—." The population of this state is something over one million. How many of these men, women and children are taxpayers? Divide the three or four million dollars by the few hundred thousand taxpayers and see how many more cents each one would pay in order to raise this additional sum. For $3,405,500 is no small additional sum for Nebraska to raise each year. Let us look before we leap. There is no "farm relief" in this proposed legislation.

Takes Away Home Control.

Third: The article says, "It would leave the control of education where it has always been, within the district. It would provide for an orderly advance in educational standards with finances to make posible that advance under the guidance of state authority." This is neither humor nor wit, it is a joke. What control would the district have outside of doing the janitor work, cleaning the chimney and stovepipes, hauling coal keeping the schoolhouses and outbuildings in repair, etc.? The state would "guide" the raising of money, dictate the minimum salaries of teachers, and "guide" the district in voting 2.7 mills each year whether they needed it or not. Any district that would refuse to be "guided" would not be allowed the $1,200 per teaching unit each year. The state inspectors of these 7,083 districts would accommodate them with more "guidance" than is mentioned in the bill. State "guidance" means state control.

"This is a government of the people, by the people, for the people. Why not leave the government of the schools in the hands of the people? The greatest asset the public school has is the good will of the people. The people of this country have built the greatest school system on earth. America is now spending more money for education and has more students enrolled in colleges and universities than all the rest of the world combined. Only about 5 per cent of the pupils who finish the common school in Europe enter the high school. In America it is 75 per cent. Why centralize "guidance" as do those countries where educational facilities are the poorest?

American System Best.

"Those who are strong for centralized "guidance" can not point to a single nation with a strong centralized government that has a better educational system than has America. Those nations that did have it at sometime in the past have crumbled into dust, and their history is passing into fiction. This bill is a long step backwards instead of its being a progressive measure. Millions fought, bled, and died to make the world safe for democracy, to retain the government in the hands of the people, and now there are some who would put the government of our schools into the hands of politicians.

"Fourth: The bill as it appears in the Nebraska Farmer would benefit the city, town and consolidated schools at the expense of the one-room school communities. These farmers would be taxed to support the city schools with all of their conveniences and luxuries over which the farmer would have no control. In addition to that, they would be required to pay these high schools $108 per year for each of their pupils that would attend them under the free high tuition law. There were 17,600 pupils attending high schools in Nebraska under that law last year. This would be double taxation, and 100 per cent unjust and unfair to the farmers living outside of high school districts. All leading statesmen know that the farmer needs some "relief" legislation, but the authors of this bill do not seem to know that, because this bill is as unfavorable to the farmer as any legislation yet proposed.

Suggests More State Aid.

"If the state wishes to assist the weak districts only, why not increase the state aid fund a few thousand dollars? Why run it up into the millions, and assist the cities that vote for all the improvements, conveniences and luxuries that are in their schools. They are not the ones who are asking for this assistance and "guidance." It is the schools in the sandhill region whom we wish to assist. My suggestion is to increase the state aid fund and go no further. The law is already in operation, and can easily be modified.

"Fifth: The bill also says: 'In schools having more than two teachers, one teaching unit is added for each additional 30 pupils after the first 35 pupils.' Very few one-teacher schools in Nebraska have more than 30 pupils enrolled. The average number of pupils in Colfax county rural schools is about 15. What benefit would these schools derive from this law outside of increased taxes and state "guidance?" It certainly is not the kind of "farm relief" measure farmers want and need just now.

"This bill, as it appears in the Nebraska Farmer is not practical for this state; the increase in taxes would be greater than would be the benefits derived from it by rural schools.

"Let me hear from you again.

"Sincerely Yours,

"F. J. VOGLTANCE."

P. S. The authors of the bill say it would increase school taxes only $6,000,000.00 (six million) a year "only a few cents on each tax receipt"—Joke No. 2. President Lowell of Harvard university says: "We must consider seriously not only how we can make education more effective, but also how we can render it less costly.'

F. J. VOGLTANCE."

Howard Menhinick to Talk Before Lincoln Planning Committee

A special noon luncheon meeting of the city planning committee of the chamber of commerce Monday will be addressed by Howard Menhinick, a staff member of "City Planning," an official publication of the National Conference on City Planning.

Mr. Menhinick is making a tour of investigation throughout the United States and will discuss points of especial interest which have come under his observation. He expects to make a careful survey of the city planning developments and possibilities of Lincoln, and will offer suggestions and recommendations for the solution of such problems as are involved in the Lincoln city planning program.

Decorated Homes Are to Be Judged On Christmas Eve

Judging in the ornamental Christmas illumination contest, sponsored by the junior chamber of commerce, will take place Christmas eve, Roy Wythers, president of the organization announced Saturday afternoon.

Only those residences which have been entered in the contest will be visited by the judges. Application for consideration may be made by telephone or letter to Dwight Bedell, secretary of the junior chamber, at the chamber of commerce building.

The city will be divided into three zones for the contest. Zone 1 will comprise the district south of South street and east of Seventeenth street. Zone 2 will consist of the sections of the city north of South street and east of Seventeenth, while all residences west of Seventeenth street will be in Zone 3.

Three prizes will be awarded in each zone. They are as follows: first prizes, electric toasters; second prizes, boudoir lamps; third prizes, electric corn popers. In addition, a grand rize for the most beautifully decorated home in the city will be given.

FLU DECLINING NATION REPORTS

Survey Shows Epidemic Well Under Control and Waning.

Fewer Cases Are Being Reported From The Middlewest.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—The epidemic of mild influenza, which appeared first in California several weeks ago, now has spread across the entire United States to gain a foothold in the east, the health department said tonight.

A United Press survey indicated, however, a slight diminishing in intensity of the disease. Health authorities agreed the epidemic was under control and was waning noticeably as it spread across the Appalachian mountains to the Atlantic seaboard.

Closing of Mount Holyoke college in Massachusetts and two educational institutions near Philadelphia, offered the first indications today that the wave of severe colds and influenza had attained the proportions of a nationwide epidemic.

Major cities of the east have yet to report any serious outbreaks. That fact led authorities to believe the epidemic may be dying out. Reports from scattered communities in New York, Pennsylvania and other eastern states, bore out that belief. Bordentown Military academy, Bordentown, N. J., closed early for the Christmas holiday season.

Well in Hand in Midwest.

In the middle west, fewer new cases were being reported and although several colleges and public schools closed down, authorities said the situation was well in hand.

In Chicago, the University of Chicago was the only major school closed. Grade schools still were open, although every precautionary measure was being taken. Five deaths and twenty-five new cases were reported to Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel. Pneumonia has caused nineteen deaths; ninety-nine new cases have been reported, Kegel said.

Health authorities at University of Illinois, at Champaign, reported the epidemic probably had reached its peak. About 200 students were confined to the university infirmary. Monmouth college was closed today until January 1, after discovery of a dozen new cases among girl students.

Fogs Are Blamed.

Unseasonable weather combined with heavy fogs and dampness was blamed by Chicago health authorities for the prevalence of pneumonia and mild influenza.

Dr. O. A. Harper, Wisconsin state health officer, expressed the belief that the epidemic in Wisconsin had reached its maximum and was receding. He estimated a total of 20,000 cases for the entire state. University of Wisconsin at Madison was the only major school in the state to close. Beloit college was closed early in the week. Classes at Lawrence college, Appleton, were discontinued.

Indiana, which suffered probably as heavily as any state of the middle west, reported the epidemic was under control. Reports from Indiana and Purdue universities said those institutions were not affected.

Improved at Denver.

Farther west, health authorities said, the epidemic virtually had disappeared as far as new cases were concerned. Denver reported eight deaths from influenza and pneumonia, but Dr. Jaffa said the situation was improved.

Kansas City and Missouri authorities said fewer new cases were being reported and that many of them were only bad colds. Dr. E. W. Caveness said bronchitis had been more prevalent in Kansas City than influenza. Universities of Missouri and Kansas were closed.

BIDS OPENED ON THREE PROJECTS

Contracts For New Boiler at Hospital and For Wrecking Standpipe to Be Let Monday.

Bids on a new boiler to be installed at the Lincoln General hospital to heat the new nurses home, and bids on wrecking the old water standpipe at University Place were opened by City Engineer Erickson Saturday.

George H. Wentz bid $1,507 and B. Grunwald Co. entered three bids ranging from $1,650 to $2,522 on boilers for the hospital. Henry Roth was low on the standpipe bids with $675. Edwin H. Burr bid $785 and the Northwestern Iron and Metal Co. $800.

Mayor Hedge Saturday received offers from four firms of Lincoln accountants to audit the Municipal court records between now and January 3, when John Polk succeeds E. B. Chappell as municipal judge. McKee and Myers bid $150, Walker and Fulk $175, C. R. Warren and Coe, $15 a day with $185 maximum, and VanBoskirk and Remington, $15 a day.

Action on the bids will be taken at the regular meeting of the city council Monday afternoon.

TO HEAR REQUEST OF MILLING FIRMS FOR REPARATION

Request of several Nebraska milling firms for reparation on account of alleged overpayment of freight charges to the Burlington railroad on shipments of grain and grain products will be heard by the state railway commission at its office Monday forenoon. Commissioner Miller will preside. Those asking reparation are the Gooch Milling & Elevator Co. of Lincoln, the Wells-Abbott-Nieman Co. of Schuyler, Crete Mills of Crete, and Black Bros. Flour Mills of Beatrice.

On Tuesday, a hearing will take place at Louisville before Commissioner Curtis on the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s application of authority to increase rates. It is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a. m.

The Anderson Transportation Co.'s proposed motor-bus route and schedule between Omaha and Wahoo will be taken up before Commissioner Curtis at the capitol Thursday afternoon at 2:30.

Station service of the Missouri Pacific railroad at Cook will be the subject of inquiry at that place Friday morning, to start at 10:30, with Commissioner Curtis in charge. The complainant is J. B. R. Miller.

On the same day at 10 a. m. Chairman Randall of the railway commission will listen to a complaint of the Eggerss-O'Flyng Co. against the Missouri Pacific for reparation on shipments of fireboard boxes and related commodities.

GIRD FOR FINAL DAM BILL FIGHT

Solons Hope River Project Will Become a Law Next Week.

House Must First Concur in the Senate's Amendments.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Backers of the gigantic Boulder canyon project, flushed by their overwhelming victory in the senate, today began formulation of a program under which the Swing-Johnson bill may become a law next week.

The proposal, suggested by Representative Addison T. Smith, republican, Idaho chairman of the house irrigation committee, is to have the house concur in senate amendments and thus permit the bill to be sent directly to the president.

Unless this action is taken, the bill must be sent to conference. Some sponsors of the measure are fearful that if both senate and house are required to act on a conference report, a legislative jam or filibuster in the senate might defeat the measure.

Expect Coolidge Sign.

The action also would place the bill scarcely before President Coolidge for early action. Backers of the bill fully expect that he will sign it in its present form.

"So far as I can determine without having studied all of the senate amendments in detail, they are satisfactory," said Representative Smith. "There is no disposition on the part of the irrigation committee to further delay the measure. The committee will meet Monday and consider the amendments. My present belief is that we should concur in time."

Representative Swing, republican, California, co-autho rof the bill, said that he favored "agreeing with as many senate amendments as possible" but wanted to make an extensive study before deciding upon a course.

A possible difficulty in the house, it was pointed out, lies in the elimination of the Davenport amendment in the senate. This amendment required the government to build the Boulder dam power plant, while the senate left the matter optional

Seven Years' Fight.

This amendment, Smith pointed out, was disapproved originally by the irrigation committee and inserted in a fight on the floor of the house by members who feared the administration would decide against government ownership. The senate amendment is believed to be more acceptable to President Coolidge.

Having waged a hard fight for seven years to enact the measure to dam the Colorado river and provide flood control, irrigation, domestic water and hydro-electric power, sponsors of the bill generally want to take no chances of losing their advantage.

The Boulder dam victory is regarded as one of the most spectacular in recent congressional history. The dam itself would be the greatest in the world and the whole project affects seven far southwestern states.

The whole project, engineers have estimated, can be completed at a cost of $125,000 000 to $165,000,000 and the cost would be repaid from profits of its operators.

Although the bill has passed both houses by large majorities, opponents, it is understood, are planning to use every parliamentary move to prevent the measure from going to the president.

BEATRICE-PERU BUS SCHEDULE GIVEN APPROVAL

Approval has been given by the sttae railway commission for a schedule of motorbus service both ways between Beatrice and Peru to be established and operated by the Golden Rod Transportation Co., of which Fulton Jack, jr., of Beatrice is the owner and manager.

There will be one bus each way daily. The eastbound trip will start from Beatrice on week days at 8 a. m., and on Sundays at 1:30 p. m. On all days except Sunday the bus will stop at Auburn and return from there to Beatrice. On Sunday it will run on to Peru. Westbound, the daily starting time will be from Auburn at 2:30 p. m., except on Fridays, when the bus will leave Peru at 3 p. m. and Auburn at 3:30.

This schedule will accommodate students at the Peru state normal who wish to go home on Friday and return Sunday.

Changes in the Interstate Transit Lines service between Fremont and Norfolk have been authorized by the commission, giving earlier morning service from West Point to Fremont, and connecting at the latter place for Omaha. The present run from Norfolk at 11:15 a. m., which has not been remunerative to the company, will be dropped.

Under the new timecard, northbound busses will leave Fremont for Norfolk at 8:45 a. m. and 12:45, 4:45 and 7:15 p. m. The southward trips will start from Norfolk for Fremont at 7:15 and 9:15 a. m. and 1:30 and 5 p. m.

STOCKS MAKE FEEBLE RALLY

Only Slight Recovery After Recent Shakedown Of Prices.

Trade Reports At The Year-End Are Generally Favorable.

BY W. S. COUSINS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Outside of a few of the high-priced specialty stocks like Radio, Victor Talking Machine and International Nickel, the market made only a feeble rally this week from the recent shakedown of prices which rocked the foundations of the industrial price list.

The 50-point recovery in Radio and the 35-point comeback in Victor Talking Machine had their foundation chiefly in the assurance given to Wall street that a merger was in process of formation. Big blocks of the stock of both companies were sold on Friday as the prices soared an average of more than 30 points for the day.

Trade reports at the year-end were generally favorable, indicating a large increase in retail trade, an expansion of steel and automobile production, an excellent buying demand from the industrial and agricultural sections and a good backlog of orders for the new year. The decline of call money rates to 6 and 5½ per cent this week was regarded as temporary, most of the Wall street houses forecasting a return of high money rates next week.

Temporary Pinch Seen.

If another squeeze in the money market comes, it will be due in large measure to the necessity for preparing for heavy payments at the banks after the year-end. Estimates have placed as high as a billion dollars as the requirements of the money market for interest payments, dividends, income taxes, employes' and workmen's bonuses, installments on maturing bonds, etc. Most of this money will promptly return to the banks, but the gathering of it will pinch the market somewhat.

Industry has slowed down slightly as the period of inventory-taking approaches, though there are of course exceptions to this rule. Weather conditions have been favorable to seasonal distribution, as well as to crop moving. The winter wheat crop has been aided by rains or snows, although there are advices that parts of western Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas are in need of moisture.

The government's final cotton crop estimate placed the year's probable yield at 14,373 bales, which was above the market's expectations, and price broke moderately. From present indications this year's cotton crop will be 1,500,000 bales above last year's, and one of the largest crops since 1914. As an offset to the increased supply the home and foreign consumption of octton has been larger and the price of spot cotton is consequently above that of a year ago.

Tightening Up Likely.

Bankers and brokers look for a tightening up of money rates in the next two weeks. Softening of call money this week was the effect of the temporary piling up of money that will be very much in use in the first part of January, after which it will again return to the banks. Over the longer range, therefore, the prospect of easy money is good.

A slight drop in commodity prices was reported by the business agencies. Bradstreet's food index price of thirty-one articles of foodstuffs for the week was $3.30, against $3.35 last week and $3.35 for the corresponding week of last year.

Bank clearings for the week aggregated $14,307,000,000, a gain of 32.7 per cent over the same week in 1927.

Wheat a Little Lower.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(I. N. S.)—Wheat finished ⅜ to ⅝c lower on the Chicago board of trade today, with selling by commission houses and overnight longs. Cables were steady and weather conditions over the belt favorable. Corn sold up ½ to ⅝c, with active buying on the bullish government crop report, light offerings and unfavorable weather conditions over the belt. Oats were unchanged to ¼c lower with a small trade.

For the week prices of wheat were 1¼c higher to ¼c lower, corn 1⅛ to 1⅜c higher and oats ⅜ to ⅝c higher.

The wheat market hovered within a narrow range the past week. December wheat was strong, gaining sharply on the May. Deliveries of December continued light and have only run about 2,100,000 so far this month. Final government figures on wheat were about as the trade expected. The final yield was set at 903,000,000 bushels compared with 878,000,000 bushels last year. Export demand was moderate. The spot wheat market continued dull and unchanged. Weather conditions were without material change both in this country and Canada and the forecast for the coming week is for considerable precipitation and above normal temperatures. Cables were uneven.

Poland is reported to have removed restrictions against importations of wheat. Primary arrivals for the week totaled 8,941,000 bushels compared with 5,843,000 bushels last year.

Corn was the speculative leader in grains late in the week. The final government crop report was contrary to expectations of traders. These figures indicated a yield of 55,000,000 bushels smaller than last month's estimate and are only 66,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago. General buying was noted at the start today and there was no let-up until scattered liquidation set in. Weather conditions over the corn area were unfavorable most of the week.

Hogs 30c Down for Week.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(I. N. S.)—Hogs finished 30c lower than a week ago, steers 25c to $1 lower, cows and heifers 50c to 75c off. Lambs closed 25c higher.

Demand for hogs was slow most of the week, despite low selling prices. Receipts for the week were 224,000 against 236,000 last week and 230,000 a year ago. Shippers orders were liberal at times while big packers bought slowly. The best hogs topped at $8.75 late and the bulk of the medium to good sold at $8.40 to $8.70. Plainer classes sold at $8 to $8.40. Packing sows brought $7.50 to $8.25.

During the week there were 63,000 cattle received compared with 58,000 last week and 59,000 a year ago. The supply was too heavy for the immediate demand and prices declined. The bulk of plain and medium steers sold at $10 to $14. Better kinds of steers sold at $14 to $15. The supply of cows and heifers was also liberal. Demand was slack. Plain and medium cows moved at $6.50 to $9 with a few heavy tokosher type at $9 to $10.50. Heifers mostly ranged from $8 to $12 with some that were grain fed at $13 to $14. Calves broke $1.50 to $2. during the week and sold at $11.50 to $13 the lowest of the season.

A smaller supply gave the lamb market a strong undertone. The run numbered 65,000 compared with 86,000 last week and 95,000 a year ago. The best lambs sold at $14.35. Most of the good grades moved at $13.50 to $14. Culls went at $10 to $11.50. Ewes gained 50c with an active demand and sold at $5.50 to $8.

Chicago Cotton Higher.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—(I. N. S.)—Cotton closed 338 to 43 points above last week. Prices were erratic during the week. After ruling lower early on liquidation encouraged by the bearish government crop report issued last Saturday, the market strengthened on trade buying based on the expectation of heavy figures when the census November consumption report is issued. The market, however, reacted when the bureau report showed that consumption dropped off. Cables were uneven.

The government weekly weather report stated: "Some progress was made in cleaning cotton fields in northwestern belt. It was rather too cool and damp in some places, however, and rainfall near the close of the week stopped work."

At the close today prices were 7 to 12 points lower. December sold at 19.55; January 19.60; March 19.68; May 19.65; July 19.48; Oct. 19.06.

MICHAEL SHEA, 86, OLDEST SETTLER IN COUNTY, DIES

The death of Michael Shea, who passed away at 12:45 Saturday morning at a local hospital, removed from the Waverly community the man who for several years had been the oldest living settler of Lancaster county. Mr. Shea, who was 86 years old, came to the county in 1858.

He settled in the vicinity of Waverly when 16 years of age, taking out a patent under the old territorial law. Although never very active in political affairs Mr. Shea was widely known in Lincoln and throughout Lancaster county. It was believed that he contributed liberally to various charitable enterprises, although he rarely made the fact known.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made. The body is at the Michael Moran home, north of Havelock. It has been requested that no flowers be sent.

U. S. COLLECTS OVER A BILLION

Income Taxes and War Loan Payments Swell the Coffers.

Use Part to Cut Public Debt; Try to Ward Off Deficit.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 — (I. N. S.)—Uncle Sam collected approximately $1,045,000,000 and paid out $668,000,000 today.

The financial transactions of the last quarter of 1928 indicated that the annual debt reduction has been $711,000,000, about $300,000,000 less than in 1927.

This brings the public debt to an approximate $17,325,000,000, or a cut of over $9,000,000,000. The saving by reason of the 1928 cut is $28,000,000 in interest payments.

Heading the list of receipts was a borrowing of $500,000,000 in two 4¼ per cent certificate issues. Coincidentally the treasury retired $571,000,000 in three short-term certificate issues, and at once started plans for another $570,000,000 refunding next March.

Tonight about $445,000,000 to $455,000,000 in income and corporation tax checks were headed from the offices of internal revenue collectors to the treasury via the Federal Reserve banks. The exact amount of the tax collection will not be known for ten days.

Pay on War Loans.

Nine foreign governments paid the United States $98,612,000 as interest and principal on the $12,000,000,000 war debts. The larger debtors remitted in 3½ per cent treasury notes, and the others in case. Most of the payment went to cut the public debt.

Great Britain headed the list with a remittance of $94,200,000.

Others paid: Belgium, $1,500,000. Czecho - Slovakia, $1,500,000. Esthonia, $100,000. Finland, $183,460. Hungary, $39,773. Latvia, $40,000. Lithuania, $48,970. Poland, $1,250,000.

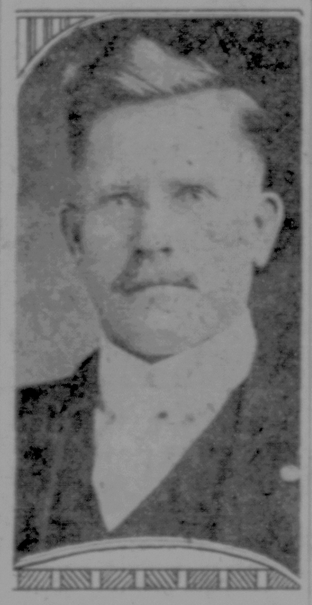

The treasury sent out $96,000,000 interest on the public debt.

Following the quarterly financing, attention will be turned to the probability of a surplus or deficit June 30, the end of the government year. Treasury experts, despite the fact that there is on paper a probable deficit of $18,000,000, still feel that the receipts will exceed the expenditures.

They base this contention on the fact that business throughout 1928 has been highly productive and that the income and corporation tax, other internal revenue, and customs yield will be considerably higher than the estimate.

The exact result of the 1928 revenue act cannot be determined until the inspection of income and corporation tax returns March 15. The corporation reduction affecting incomes of 1928 will not reduce government revenues until next year.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 15—Fred Chipman, barber of this city, was severely cut and bruised Friday afternoon when his car slid into the ditch a few miles north of Cortland, badly damaged. He was brought to a hospital here for treatment. He was en route to York when the accident occurred.

QUIZ OHIO MAN IN WIFE'S DEATH

Husband Of Girl Who Killed Coal Operator Now In Jail.

CANTON, O., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—The state of Ohio suspects that Wilbur Heldman may have killed his pretty young wife rather than surrender her to the law for murdering her traducer.

On the strength of that suspicion Heldman has been jailed. He sat in his cell here tonight meditating upon the strange fate that had overtaken him and recounted for reporters how his wife had confessed to the killing of Vernard Fearn, a coal dealer, and later committed suicide while he was taking her to the sheriff's office in his automobile.

Heldman's story was the same one police had accepted since Thursday night when Heldman drove up to the jail with his wife's body.

Today, however, discrepancies were discovered in the young salesman's story. He was ordered brought in for further questioning and as he stepped into the sheriff's office he was arrested and charged with "suspicion in connection with the death of Margaret Heldman."

Doubt Suicide Story.

Henry Harter, the county prosecutor, demanded high bail but refused to reveal the nature of the evidence which led to Heldman's arrest. Bond was fixed at $25,000.

On December 6 Fearn was called to the door of his home by a young woman and his body riddled with steel jacketed bullets. The girl was Margaret Heldman. She had known Fearn, himself married and the father of a 9-year-old girl, before she married Heldman.

The next episode was explained in a suicide note written by Mrs. Heldman to her husband. He found t in a waste basket, crumpled, apparently cast aside when the gun girl became panicky.

The note revealed intimacies between Mrs. Heldman and Fearn, and said Fearn had "threatened her and "made her life a hell on earth." It intimated Mrs. Heldman killed the coal dealer, and Heldman confronted her and obtained a confession.

Then began the trip to the sheriff's office. On the outskirts of the city, according to Heldman, his wife whipped out the gun with which she slew Fearn and killed herself.

Her relatives refused to believe Margaret would take her own life. They insisted Heldman's story be carefully scrutinized.

LICENSED TO WED.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 15—A marriage license was issued here Saturday to Harold R. Wallzer, 29, and Avis E. Crannell, 21, both of Blue Springs.

LINDBERGH ASKS CONGRESS HELP BUDDIES IN AIR

"Stagnation in Promotion" Has Created Serious Condition, He Says.

His Statement Issued By Furlow Who Has A Bill Pending.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U.P.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh deviated from his usual publicity dodging policy today to issue a signed statement urging congress to do something for his buddies in the army air corps.

"Stagnation in promotion," has created a serious condition, the New York-Paris flier said, urging a separate promotion list for commissioned officers of the corps to build up morale.

Representative Furlow, republican, Minnesota, who made public Lindbergh's statement, has pending in congress a bill to create a separate promotion list. It would make possible quicker promotion of experienced flyers who are now leaving the service in large numbers to go into the more remunerative fields of air mail and other commercial flying.

Lindgergh's statement follows:

Military Work Hazardous.

"The army air corps is facing a serious situation in regard to its commissioned personnel due to stagnation in promotion.

"At present, the average army corps officer is holding a command far above his rank. His prospect of promotion is discouraging and the opportunities afforded by commercial aviation are far greater than those of his army life.

"Military flying is more hazardous than commercial flying and will become more so as safety appliances are developed which cannot be used in combat planes. Also the physical strain on an army pilot in carrying out military missions is not comparable to that of commercial transportation.

"It is of utmost necessity at the present time to take steps toward building up the morale of our air corps if we expect to maintain its past standard of efficiency.

Statement Voluntary.

"Rank commensurate with command is of prime importance. A number of our best officers have already resigned and unless steps are taken to relieve the present situation we will lose many more in the near future.

"In my opinion a separate promotion list will accomplish much in building up an efficient air corps in the United States."

"Colonel Lindbergh's signed statement was given voluntarily because of his personal knowledge of the critical situation in the air corps," Representative Furlow said.

"The original air corps promotion bill as passed by the house has now been incorporated in a senate measure and will be acted upon without delay by the house. In view of the fact that this bill has already passed the house unanimously I have every reason to believe that the bill will receive favorable consideration."

Legion Backs Bill.

"As soon as the house has disposed of it the bill then will be in a position for action by the senate and it was to this opportunity for action on the proposal that Colonel Lindbergh's attention was directed."

The National Aeronautical association at its convention in Los Angeles adopted a resolution which urged the "fundamental justice of the Burlow bill in its original form and recommends its enactment into law at the earliest possible date." The American legion, at its annual convention in San Antonio, adopted a resolution favoring the Furlow bill as passed by the house.

As Rogers Sees It

NEW YORK, Dec 15—Say, didn't I always tell you that the Prince of Wales was quite a boy? He can do a whole lot besides look good and dance. He stood responsible for that operation that his own younger doctor performed. If he had been allowed to come in an airplane he would have saved his father two weeks earlier. I do hope we are smart enough to stay out of this boundary dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay. Any nation that will argue over land as cheap as land is today ain't in their right mind, anyhow. Oklahoma and Texas been arguing over a boundary and Oklahoma won. We made Texas take the land. I wish my neighbor would want my farm. He would certainly get it.

Yours, WILL.

Needy Will Receive Christmas Baskets From Salvation Army

The Salvation Army issued the following statement Saturday afternoon.

"Many calls for aid have come in during this month. Father and whole families down sick, unable to care for each other. The Salvation Army has been able to be of great aid to families in such circumstances.

"Among many visited recently was a widow with a large family. Their home is a small tar covered house, papered with newspapers. And by many ways the mother has planned and worked to make a living for her fatherless children. Being kept in by sickness for days she had gotten along with very little.

"The Salvation Army by the support of Lincoln people has been able to cheer many broken hearts, and help many from the way of least resistance to a self supporting basis.

"The Salvation Army is also spreading the Christmas spirit by caring for the needy with Christmas baskets. These baskets are not only for one day, but also contain lasting supplies. All families cared for are investigated and found worthy."

Hundley Arrested In Double Murder Carbondale, Ill.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Dec. 15—(U.P.)—Victor A. Hundley, 39-year-old Carbondale coal dealer, was arrested here this afternoon, after he had attended the funeral of his father and step-mother, former Mayor and Mrs. J. Charles Hundley, and charged with their murder.

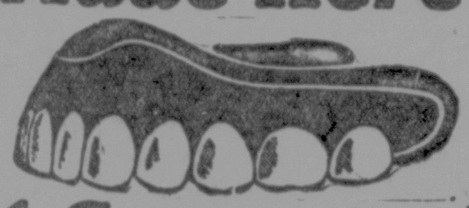

It was the second time Hundley had been arrested in connection with the slayings, but the first time any formal charge was made against him. He was held without bond.

Tomorrow, authorities will question him again regarding the murders of the aged couple, who were shot to death in their home here at midnight Wednesday.

At first, it was believed that the Hundleys had been slain by a burglar, but all valuables were found intact. Bloodhounds went over the house and were turned loose outside. Four times they stopped outside the son's home. Wednesday he was arrested but after seven hours' questioning was released. Hundley protested that he knows nothing of the crimes.

CANVASSERS TO MEET MONDAY

Board Will Report On Presidential Vote In Nebraska.

Legislature Must Pass On Outcome Of Poll On Amendment.

When the state canvassing board meets Monday at Secretary of State Marsh's office to make an official survey of official returns from the recent state election, its formal action will be confined to certifying that the figures reported by county clerks and compiled by the secretary of state are correct, and that Hoover and Curtis received a majority of the votes cast in Nebraska for president and vice president.

The board is not empowered by law to canvass the vote and declare the result on anything else. That function is reserved to the legislature when it meets in January, so far as candidates for United States senator, congressmen, governor and other state offices, supreme and district court judges, state senators and representatives are concerned.

The vote cast for and against the proposed constitutional amendment transferring jurisdiction over the state schools for blind and deaf from the board of control to the state university regents must also be passed upon by the legislature, and not by the canvassing board.

In view of the apparently illegal procedure followed in the official publication of the amendment, which many lawyers hold to be void on that account, Governor McMullen has asked the attorney general's office for a ruling as to whether or not it was adopted in a constitutional manner. He did this upon receipt of a resolution adopted by the board of control on December 6, asking to be advised on the status of the amendment and whether the board should continue its supervision of the institutions as heretofore.

The question has been referred to Assistant Attorney General Dort, who is looking up judicial rulings and legal interpretations that may apply to the present situation. He will have an opinion ready within two or three days.

Unless the legal department finds that the amendment was submitted and ratified in the way the constitution and statues require, Governor McMullen will not issue a proclamation declaring it to be a part of the Nebraska constitution, as he would otherwise do in accordance with one of the provisions of the election laws.

RAILROADS ABLE TO PREVENT ANY CAR SHORTAGES

No car shortages in Nebraska, Colorao, Wyoming, Utah, southern Idaho, or eastern Oregon were reported at the regional conference of the Central Western Shippers' Advisory board held during the past week at Ogden, which Railway Commissioner John E. Curtiss of this state attended. Commodity representatives from each of the states named declared the transportation conditions highly satisfactory in the territory.

This was the annual meeting of the organization and about 200 persons were present more than half of railroads were complimented for efficient and prompt service being given by them. From the carriers themselves, reports were given showing that they have a surplus of motive power and different kinds of cars, so that they can promptly supply any traffic demands. Additional equipment for both passenger and freight service is being purchased.

The report filed by H. G. Taylor, former Nebraska railway commissioner, now manager of the car service division for the American Railway association, showed heavier loading of cars with an increase in the tons per car of loading; an increase in the cars per train; a decrease in the fuel per car and an increase in the speed per train. For the year 1928 the speed per train has averaged 309 miles per twenty-four hours as compared with 259 miles per twenty-four hours in 1927.

The next meeting of the board is to be held at Kearney, Neb., in June, 1929.

BLAME KLAN FOR ANTI-ALIEN BILL

Proposed Measure Cited As "Evans Amendment" by N. Y. Republican.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—(I. N. S.)—Charges that the Ku Klux Klan is fathering an anti-alien drive in congress were made in the house during rapid-fire debate today.

A constitutional amendment proposed by Representative Hoch, republican of Kansas, eliminating aliens from the census upon which congressmen are apportioned to the various states, was denounced as the handiwork of Dr. Hiram Evans, imperial wizard of the klan.

Representative La Guardia, republican of New York, who assailed the amendment, declared during debate that the immigration department "is being administered by the Ku Klux Klan."

The Anti-saloon league was accused of co-operating with the klan in the movement, by Representative Schafer, republican of Wisconsin.

Heatedly denying that the klan had anything to do with his amendment, Hoch asserted that under proposed reapportionment plans New York state would be given four members of congress based solely upon the presence of 1,600,000 aliens in the state.

Calls It "Evans Amendment."

"The state of New York excludes aliens in apportioning members of the state legislature, among the various districts; why shouldn't the United States do so with respect to congress?" asked Hoch.

"I am proposing to vote for a reapportionment bill which would take one congressman from my state of Kansas while New York has four representing aliens," he said

LaGuardia persistently referred to the amendment as "the Evans amendment."

"This proposal is being urged throughout the country by Dr. Evans, of the Ku Klux Klan," said LaGuardia. "The New York provision referred to was imposed by the same bigotry which controls the klan—by upstate New York."

Would Stump Congress.

Representative Green, democrat of Florida defended the amendment, declaring that most of the 1,600,000 aliens in New York were here legally.

"Many of them will be better citizens than the imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan," shouted Representative Schafer.

La Guardia charged that naturalization inspectors demanded that aliens answer questions which even members of congress could not answer. He cited as an example a question as to who was secretary of state under President Benjamin Harrison.

NOTORIOUS JOE GIVES SELF UP

Saltis, Chicago Beer Baron, To Serve Gun Toting Term.

Police Had Been Searching For Him Since Last May.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—"Polack Joe" Saltis, most colorful of Chicago's select group of "beer barons," surrendered to the police today after a seven months' hiding.

Like a child grown bored with the monotony of his game, the 250-pound cock of the south side beer walk strutted into the federal building and said with a tired smile, "Well, here I am."

For 208 days the Chicago police department had been hunting for Joe, who disappeared last May after he had been fined $50 and sentenced to serve sixty days in jail for carrying a concealed weapon.

Each day the metropolitan press reminded the police that "Polack Joe" was still missing. The newspapers counted off the days with a deadly precision that was embarrassing to the police. They printed accounts of Joe's frequent appearances in his south side haunts, of his lavish expenditures for protection and his occasional hot spots at rival beer runners.

Has Been "Out of Town."

When he gave himself up today Saltis was careful to return the compliment to the police department by announcing that he had been out of town all the while.

"The Chicago police are all right," Joe said. "They would have got me if I'd been here, but I was not. I was in Wisconsin and Canada taking treatment for gastritis. I thought I was going to have an operation, and did not want to surrender until afterwards."

Saltis will be kept in jail over the weekend. On Monday he will be taken to the Bridewell to serve his sixty days sentence and then he will have to answer to two federal indictments charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Still A Gangster.

"Polack Joe" appeared to have gained about fifty pounds since May and he was much better dressed than usual. He wore a purple striped tie, a mixed blue suit, green socks and tan oxfords. The seven karat diamond which he was in the habit of wearing to gang funerals prior to becoming a fugitive was missing.

"I am surrendering" said Saltis, "because I have a great deal of respect for the United States government and for the people who signed my bonds." (His reference to bonds referred to his indictment on the federal liquor charge.)

Although he claims to have been away from Chicago during the last 208 days, Joe's business interests in the stock yards district did not suffer from inattention. He is said to be stronger in that sector than ever before.

Several "Off Color" Killings.

Saltis once had ambitions to rule the beer running business for all of Chicago. Several off-color murders, some preceded by mistreatment and torture, were credited to him and he fell into disrepute with his fellowmen.

In a south side alley at one time a rival beer runner held a gun to Joe's head and threatened to kill him, but Joe dropped to his knees and pleaded for his life so effectively that he was let go. Shortly after that episode, Saltis withdrew to the stock yards district. He has confined his activities to that locality ever since.

None Hurt When Part Of Large Bridge Plunges

NEWARK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Dozens of lives were jeopardized tonight and a tragedy of appalling proportions narrowly averted when a thousand-ton section of the recently constructed Lincoln highway "jack-knife" bridge over the Hackensack river between Newark and Jersey City suddenly collapsed and plunged into the river below.

A streetcar, several automobiles and a tugboat missed destruction by a few yards.

Narrowly Misses Tugboat.

NEWARK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Newark police tonight confirmed reports that a section of the recently constructed Lincoln highway bridge of the Hackensack river had collapsed, but were unable to state whether or not there was any loss of life. The bridge, which was completed during the past year after four years of work, is heavily traveled.

The section which tumbled into the river, narrowly missing a tugboat, weighed 1,080 tons. A trolley car and several automobiles on another section of the bridge were not damaged.

The bridge, of the "jack-knife" type to permit lowering or raising by sections to accommodate river traffic, had just been raised to let a tugboat through when the raised section crashed into the river while descending into place.

AIRPLANE FIRMS IN HUGE MERGER

Three Of Nation's Greatest Aircraft Concerns Consolidated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Three of the nation's greatest aircraft and air transport concerns have been consolidated, according to announcement here today.

The three companies, said to be valued at twelve million dollars, are the Pratt-Whitney Aircraft corporation, motor builders of Hartford, Conn.; the Chance Vought corporation, plane manufacturers, and the Boeing Airplane & Transport corporation of Seattle, Wash.

The name of the new corporation will be the United Aircraft & Transport Co.

It is understood market values of securities of the new corporation will be $150,000,000. A controlling interest of stock in the Pacific Air Transport of San Francisco was also included in the consolidation.

Largest In World.

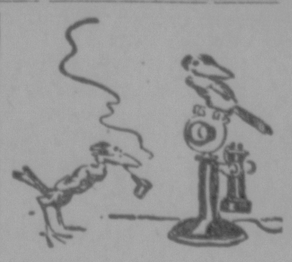

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—The formation of a gigantic corporation to be known as the United Aircraft & Transport, through the merger of five leading companies was announced tonight in financial circles. The organization is understood to have been effected by the Pacific National bank of Seattle and the National City Co., of New York.

The units to be controlled by the new corporation are reported to be the Boeing Airplane Co., the Chance Vought corporation, the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co., the Pacific Air Transport, and the Boeing Air Transport, Inc. The Seattle bank is said to have obtained control of more than 70 per cent of the stock in the Pacific Air Transport.

United Aircraft & Transport will be the largest aviation organization in the world. Through its subsidiaries it will function without outside aid, building its own motors and planes and conducting its own airlines for passengers, express and mail.

WOULD RETAIN BANK GUARANTY

Jefferson County Farmers Pass Resolution At Annual Meet.

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., Dec. 15—The Jefferson County Farmers' union held its annual meeting at the Mary-Etta hotel here Thursday. Following a noon luncheon, A. C. Millington of the Farmers' Union Co-operative Insurance company of Omaha, gave an address. Chris Milius of Helvey who has served the organization for several years as its president was re-elected. Other officers who were also re-elected were John Schroeder, Plymouth, vice president; A. F. Hansmire, Thompson, secretary. R. N. McCord was elected delegate to the state convention to be held at Omaha in January. L. S. Hiatt was elected as legislative committeeman.

The organization adopted resolutions favoring the retention of the bank guaranty law. It also adopted resolutions favoring an increase of one cent in the gasoline tax, provided the increase be returned to the county in which collected, and used on farm to market roads only.

The semi-annual meeting of the managers and directors of all farmers' union co-operative activities in Jefferson county was held at the Mary-Etta hotel Wednesday evening. A banquet was served at 7:30 p. m. P. D. Peterson of the Farmers Union Co-operative Creamery company here acted as toastmaster. An interesting discussion on matters pertaining to auditing, farm legislation, livestock and grain marketing took up the greater part of the evening. Mr. Millington also addressed this meeting.

Five Generations Here

(Special to The Star.)

The quintet ranges in age from Charles Stanley Catlett, one and one-half years, to Mrs. Mary E. Sailor, 83, the great-great-grandmother. Others in the group include the great-grandfather, J. T. Sailors, 66; the grandmother, Mrs. Leona Catlett, 37, and the father, Ralph Catlett, 20.

The eldest of the five was born Feb. 18, 1845, in Indiana, where she was married to William H. Sailors. In 1870 the couple moved on a farm in the vicinity of Barada. An extensive land owner and stock raiser, Mr. Sailors died 20 years ago and four years later Mrs. Sailors moved into Barada. She has five children living, J. T., J. W., Omar, Fred and Mrs. Ida Percival, all of Barada; 42 grandchildren, 51 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Pawnee County Fair Association Elects

Receipts At Annual Show Slightly Exceed Expenses, But Old Debt Still Exists.

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Dec. 15—New officers of the Pawnee County Fair association are K. S. Wherry, president; Dr. A. B. Anderson, vice president; D. W. Osborn, secretary; J. A. Petrea, treasurer; directors, A. J. Niles and Fred Woods for one year; C. T. Barton and Joe Vance for two years; George M. Miller and George Avery, jr., for three years.

The election occurred at the annual fair meeting here at which a new constitution and by-laws were adopted in conformity with a recent state law, which requires county fair charters to meet approval of the state board of agriculture. The report, also submitted to the meeting, of finances of the 1928 fair, showed receipts of $12,454.66 and total expenses of $12,435.28; and closed with a report on the association's indebtedness which amounts to $4,655.47.

PAWNEE CITY TO TAKE ACTION TO GET MORE WATER

(Special to The Star.)

PAWNEE CITY, Neb., Dec. 15.—Uncertainty of supply of water in city wells here and consequent shortage in city mains several times lately prompted a statement by Councilman F. S. Colwell, a former mayor, this week that Pawnee City will soon take steps towards relief of the water situation. Engineers will likely be called upon, the council stated, for reports on advisability of either a filtration plant or a deep well system. The present supply is from wells ranging from 25 to 55 feet deep, mostly located in the low land adjoining Turkey creek, in the southwest part of the city.

Mrs. William Lawrence had charge of the devotionals.

SMALL CHILD IS BENEFICIARY OF WILL OF VETERAN

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Dec. 15—A jury in District court has upheld the will of Charles C. Wills, Civil war veteran, in which his estate, amounting to about $400, was bequeathed to Dorothy Woodin, small daughter of Dr. J. G. Woodin of this city. Cass Wills, a merchant at Ashland, son and only heir, had contested the will, he being left entirely out of it. Dr. Woodin had treated Wills for a number of years prior to his death and in this manner the old man had become acquainted with Woodin's small daughter.

ODD FELLOWS OF LIBERTY WINNERS

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 15—At a district meeting of Odd Fellows held at Liberty this week the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, I. F. Baker of Blue Springs; vice president, J. T. Briggs of Liberty; secretary-treasurer, Leslie Noble of Beatrice. Liberty was awarded the banner for the most efficient team work. About 100 delegates from Beatrice, Blue Springs, Wymore and other points attended the meeting, which closed with a banquet held in the Christian church.

FARMERS OF GAGE HOLD THEIR CORN

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 15—Requests from farmers in the western part of the state for shipments of corn from this locality for feeding purposes have been received here. Prevailing prices do not appeal to the armer at the present time and those who have plenty of corn are inclined to hold it. Farmers in some sections of the western part of the state were unable to raise much of a corn crop the past season because of lack of moisture.

CHEVROLET

The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History

-with Marvelous New Bodies by Fisher!

Only a short time has elapsed since The Outstanding Chevrolet was introduced—but already it has swept on to one of the greatest triumphs in automotive history. Never before has the American public so overwhelmingly endorsed a new Chevrolet—for never before has there been provided, at prices within the reach of everyone, such a generous measure of beauty, comfort, performance and dependability!

New Fisher Bodies

The marvelous new bodies by Fisher—longer, lower and roomier, with all closed models equipped with adjustable driver's seat that may be moved forward and back for proper driving comfort—represent one of the most valuable contributions ever made to motor car comfort and beauty. The hood streams back from the voguish new chromium plated radiator in straight, unbroken lines and blends flawlessly into the body contours. Body mouldings divide at the cowl line—giving a paneled effect to the cowl and hood that is both distinctive and pleasing. Concave front pillars lengthen and smarten the profile. And distinctive new Ternstedt hardware lends a final touch of custom elegance.

New Six-Cylinder Motor

The great new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine was developed from more than a hundred motors that were built and tested over a period of four years by Chevrolet engineers. Not only does it develop 32% more power than any previous Chevrolet engine . . . not only is it sensationally faster and swifter in acceleration—but it performs with a smoothness and quietness of operation that are almost unbelievable in a low-priced automobile.

It idles along in the traffic line with remarkable ease and quietness. It leaps ahead at the signal light like an arrow from a bow. It takes the hills, no matter how steep, with truly astounding ease. And it delivers this amazing performance with an economy averaging better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline!

New Comfort and Handling Ease

But sensational as this performance is—it is matched in impressiveness by the marvelous comfort and handling ease that have been engineered into the chassis. The heavy, rigid, channel steel frame extends beyond the entire length of the body and rests on four semi-elliptic shock-absorber springs—set parallel with the road. The front springs are 36 inches long and the rear springs 54 inches—while all spring shackles are equipped with Alemite fittings.

The steering mechanism is designed with ball bearings throughout, with complete lubrication at all points of contact. Brake pedals are correctly spaced for easy and safe manipulation. The two-beam headlights are controlled by a foot button located on the floor boards. And a slender, flat-type steering wheel fits snugly into the hands.

BOSTON FORBIDS COLLEGE DRAMA

Officials Are Told Play Was "Degrading of Womanhood."

Cast Included Harvard Students and Society Debutantes.

BOSTON, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Receiving with "amazement" the edict of Mayor Malcolm Nichols, who banned "Fiesta," a Mexican moonlight drama with Harvard students and Boston debutantes in the cast, members of the Harvard Dramatic club tonight decided to consult with their attorney with a view of possible legal action on Monday.

While decision was made not to attempt to put on the play tonight in violation of the mayor's instructions to police and officials of John Hancock hall, members of the club through the president, Charles P. Leatherbee, New York, defended the presentation of "Fiesta," and declared that in a spirit of fairness they should have been given a hearing before the drastic decision was made. He said that it would have been kind to the ladies of the cast, at least.

Leatherbee expressed the opinion that a single, "evil minded" person in Cambridge had taken the wrong meaning from the dialogue and started the whole trouble. Eugene O'Neill and Lee Salisbury, two men famous in the dramatic world, were quoted as having approved "Fiesta."

Fearing disciplinary action by university authorities if they were quoted, members of the Dramatic club had Leatherbee speak for them. First, he said, it had never been the policy to present plays bordering on the limits of moral turpitude or provocative of official action. "We only followed the practice of producing new dramas which had never before been acted in public," he added.

Says Play Classic.

In defense of the play, Salisbury was quoted by Leatherbee as stating that "Fiesta" was "sure to become a classic," and Leatherbee quoted a letter from O'Neill to the Dramatic club's advisory board as stating "it is the best picture of Mexican peasant life I have read, and the first play to put real Mexicans on the stage and not stage Mexicans."

Michael Gold, author of the play and editor of the "New Masses" Journal of New York, who was here tonight, refused to comment other than to praise the high quality of acting by the students and the Boston society girls.

Regent Mathew Luce of Harvard said the university authorities would take no action as the dramatic club advisory board has "okeyed" the play. Leatherbee said that this board consisted of Prof. G. P. Baker, Prof. F. C. Packard, Winthrop Ames, Prof. J. S. U. Tatlock, Walter Prichard Eaton and others.

Among these students in the cast was J. Franklin Eddy, Seattle, Wash.

Another Threat Made.

Three Boston society women, Mrs. Robert Whitman Atkinson, Mrs. John Chapman Gray and Mrs. Philip B. Rust, had withdrawn as patronesses. As far as could be learned, only one of the patronesses, Mrs. Thomas B. Allen, had seen the play and she said it "should not have been put on the stage." Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, sister of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, said that "censoring is sometimes a bad thing as it features the lines that it is desired should be suppressed."

Mayor Edward H. Quinn of Cambridge, where the play was presented for two nights, said he was "shocked" and "surprised," and that he would have stopped it if the objectionable features had been brought to his attention.

A man who signed himself "Father and Citizen" in a letter to Boston police made the original objection to "Fiesta." Another complaint reached Mayor Nichols, and complaints that the play was "degrading of womanhood" and "blasphemous" were made to Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today by a man and woman whose names were withheld.

CLEANUP DRIVE BEING PRESSED IN KANSAS CITY

smashed everything in sight while crying out that the proprietor was selling hooch to her husband and 18-year-old daughter.

That was indeed, a shock, as well as good news for the papers. There is no night life here worthy of the name. One may search in vain for "gilded dens of vice and pleasure." Nor are there institutions that encourage flaming youth to strut itself and flame the limit.

"A home loving, industrious, sane, progressive city of 100 per cent Americans" is the boast of the chamber of commerce.

Surprise to People.

So discovery of the 1,000 or 500 saloons was a surprise, perhaps, because they flamed so little, being mostly sordid holes in the wall or drug stores on the corner by day and saloons at night.

But they serve corn whisky made in nearby corn producing states. The price is 25 cents per "shot," $1.50 per pint, $3.00 per quart or $10 a gallon.

With the spectacular raid of Mrs. Wilson came the results of the present raids. A rum raid was inaugurated. Law enforcement officers organized and arrests are being made.

And in the meantime, in a comfortable side line position, the average Kansas Citian is hoping it ends soon, restoring virtue to his town and permitting a return to a comfortable fireside where he may read contentedly about the sins of Chicago, New York and Philadelphia before retiring to bed at the locally conventional hour of 9 p. m.

BURTON SWORN IN AS SENATOR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Theodore Burton, republican of Ohio, was sworn in today as United States senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank B. Willis.

Burton, a former senator and more recently a representative, was elected to take the place which Cyrus Locher, democrat, filled temporarily on appointment of the governor.

Vice President Dawes administered the oath.

TWO KILLED AT DESERTED HOME ON LONG ISLAND

that an automobile had driven up with the murderers.

Despite the bullet wounds which disfigured her face, the woman's features appeared regular and finely chiseled. She was about 25 years old, with jet black hair and a good figure. She weighed about 135 pounds.

She was dressed stylishly in a blue cloth coat, trimmed with black fur, a brown satin dress, a brown helmet hat, brown stockings and brown suede pumps. She wore tan lingerie of the finest quality.

The man wore a smart brown suit, brown soft hat, tan shoes and brown socks, all of excellent material.

Mrs. Alfred Averell, who lives in a bungalow near the vacant house, said she heard the rattle of gun fire early today. She said the firing continued several minutes and that fifty shots must have been fired. At the time she attributed it to back-firing from an automobile.

As Joseph Stinghit, employe of a gravel company, climbed to the top of a sand hoist in the light of dawn, he noticed the body of the man on the east side.

Dropped in Tracks.

The mingled footprints leading from the side door of the bungalow indicated that the man came running out of the house first, closely followed by the woman. They apparently came hand in hand for a while and then broke in opposite directions. They had gained but a short distance from the house before the barrage of bullets dropped them in their tracks. The murderer, or murderers, then is believed to have poured further volleys into their prostrate victims.

The finding of ten gallons of wine in the stable behind the bungalow suggested a secondary theory of a bootleggers' feud. Also, to determine a possible connection of the double murder with the "dope trust" investigation, Assistant United States Attorney John Blake, in charge of the Arnold Rothstein narcotic probe, sent a federal agent to the scene.

Salvatore Esposito, proprietor of a spaghetti restaurant about two miles from the bungalow was questioned today by police, as were Esposito's wife and employes. Detectives believed the victims may have visited the restaurant before going to their ill-fated rendezvous.

Further investigation tonight disclosed that four of the shots apparently had been fired in the cellar of the bungalow, shells being found there by detectives. There were no blood stains found in the cellar.

Although the murderers thought they had removed all possible identification marks, a manufacturer's trademark on the neckband of the shirt worn by the murdered man was discovered by police. An effort was begun to trace the sale of the shirt.

The finger prints of both the man and woman were sent to New York police headquarters for possible identification.

Honeymoon Yacht Sails; Barrymore And Bride Absent

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Although sailing without her owner, the departure today of the "Mariner," palatial yacht of John Barrymore, for Panama gave rise to reports that the stage and screen actor and his bride, Dolores Costello, would board the ship at a canal port and cruise the South Seas on a belated honeymoon.

The Barrymores were reported to have engaged passage on a steamer leaving here within two weeks.

HOOVER DEEPLY IMPRESSED BY LATIN WELCOME

minds of all. State and formal occasions attendant upon the presence of Mr. Hoover were handled with all the grace and easy tact of the Latin race.

There was every indication of a friendly interest that went to the heart of every one as it pointed toward a close, comradely feeling among the nations of the western half of the world.

An impressive delegation of talking movie picture men, imported from New York, waited upon Mr. Hoover at the American embassy this morning. The president-elect greeted the foreigners cordially.

Smiles Broadly.

"Good morning," was the extent of Mr. Hoover's "see-and-hear" conversational venture as he stood before the grinding cameras and spoke for the recording microphone. He smiled broadly and posed for other photographers from Buenos Aires newspapers.

Allen Hoover, son of the president-elect, stood by his father on the embassy steps and the newspapers prominently published these pictures.

Mr. Hoover closed his visit to Buenos Aires by attending a brilliant performance at the opera house tonight. The establishment occupies an entire block and has a seating capacity of 3,500. It is furnished in the French style and the decorations are in red plush and gold.

The president-elect plans to leave here at 8 a. m., Sunday on the Argentine cruiser Buenos Aires for Montevideo. Arrival at the Uruguayan capital was planned for 6 p. m., Sunday. The Hoover party will remain at Montevideo all day Monday.

Receives Delegations.

Mr. Hoover spent the morning receiving various delegations and diplomatic representatives at the embassy.

A delegation of three prominent Paraguayans, headed by Dr. Eligio Ayala, an ex-president of the republic and former minister at Washington, paid its respects to Mr. Hoover.

Mr. Hoover told the United Press that the Bolivian-Paraguayan crisis was not mentioned. There was an interchange of good will. Mr. Hoover took great enjoyment, apparently, from the many contacts he made during the day.

Buenos Aires was in carnival spirit and at night Mr. Hoover visited the brilliant lighted statue of George Washington and admired Palerma park, aglow with beautiful lighting effects.

The American embassy, where Mr. Hoover, was quartered, was decorated gaily. The establishment is furnished with many valuable pieces of furniture and objects of art. The building is surrounded by a lovely park dotted with magnificently executed works of sculpture. Mrs. Hoover spent a large part of the day doing Christmas shopping. On a tour through the stores of the city she bought many Christmas presents.

Gold Medal Presented.

A gold medal, a gift of the city, was presented to Mr. Hoover.

The continuous stream of visitors that poured through the embassy today gave Mr. Hoover a complete cross section view of Argentine life. The roster of callers included: Newspaper proprietors, the Agricultural Association of Argentine heads, the good roads club, various engineers' associations, university heads, the chief justice of the Supreme court, the Italian ambassador, the head of the National bank and many others from all manner of organizations. Several of the associations made Mr. Hoover an honorary member.

A special telegraph key was installed in the embassy and Mr. Hoover communicated directly with Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, at the state department in Washington. He sent four messages which were published in Washington.

Receives Former Envoy.

Mr. Hoover received Honorio Pueyrredon, former ambassador at Washington, and his wife this afternoon and made a tour of inspection of the port with the Brazilian and Argentine ambassadors. Mayor Cantilo accompanied the party.

The Hoovers visited the tomb of Gen. San Martin, the South American liberator. Mr. Hoover laid a wreath on the tomb.

After this ceremony Mr. Hoover bade a formal farewell to President Hipolito Irigoyen at the government house.

Eager crowds followed Mr. Hoover everywhere he went and often made movement difficult.

Has "Sold Himself."

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 15—(U.P.)—The impression gathered from representative leaders in the Argentnie republic, including government officials and leading executives of the press, indicates Herbert Hoover undoubtedly has "sold himself" to Argentina.

The feeling which prevailed before Mr. Hoover's arrival that he possessed a cold personality has been dispelled.

South Americans find him warm and pleasing. One of the most frequent observations is that he combines a friendly presence with a modest manner and frank straightforwardness which are coupled with a display of intimate knowledge of the basic economic problems of South America.

Mr. Hoover's speech at the dinner given last night by President Irigoyen wherein he stated that the people must work out their own form of government, although they might suffer in the process of the evolution, met with favorable reaction. It is a doctrine which long has been advocated by the influential newspaper La Prensa.

La Prensa also heartily endorsed Mr. Hoover's Chilean speech in which the American president-elect laid down the axiom that foreign loans applied to any other purpose than a roductive one constituted deadweight for the borrower. It used Mr. Hoover's words as a text to criticise both national and provincial governments, which, La Prensa said, "too often have borrowed merely to make up deficits—a policy we never failed to oppose."

Praise From Press.

The newspaper La Razon of Buenos Aires said editorially:

"This man of quiet countenance, affable manner, simple and human, who smiles and shakes hands warmly, will depart from Argentina tomorrow leaving behind him many sympathies.

"Without doing anything to do so—and precisely because of it—he has gained general good will from all who have come in contact with him. He is made of the same stuff as those whom destiny leads to great positions. He is careful to observe a modesty of demeanor only comparable to the greatness of the nation over which he is called to rule.

"With the juvenile expression of a young boy, he displays an insatiable ease. Since Mr. Hoover arrived he curiosity and puts everyone at his began to make friends and has continued to do so. Tomorrow when he departs he will leave a host of them behind. He is a man whom Argentine likes and when he returns to Washington he can say he has left kindly thoughts in a land whose spiritual conquest is not easy."

Newspapers which have heretofore criticised severely the American government's policies have been giving pages to Mr. Hoover's visit.

Similarly Mr. Hoover has been making favorable impression upon the general public. It occasioned much approving comment when he insisted in riding about the city in an open automobile with the secret service escort remaining a block behind him, riding motorcycles.

Bootleggers With Guns Face Prison Terms Under Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—A unique prohibition bill to provide prison sentences of six months to ten years for bootleggers who carry firearms was introduced today by Representative McKeeown, democrat, Oklahoma.

McKeeown's measure provides the same penalty for any person manufacturing intoxicating liquors who has firearms or explosives in his possession or within his reach.

The bill provides a six months to five years sentence for any person who sells or gives away under any device of sale, intoxicating liquors to a minor.

GUARANTY PLAN IS THREATENED

to the drain upon their resources, and, as they contend, to protect their institutions from confiscatory taxation to pay losses for which they are not responsible, the bankers have finally banded together to ask relief in the courts.

L. A. Flansburg of Lincoln, F. H. Gaines of Omaha, and S. S. Sidner of Fremont have been retained as counsel to represent them in the forthcoming litigation. The pleadings have been made up in rough form and will be ready for filing within a few days. It has not yet been decided whether to file the injunction suit in the Federal court, the state supreme court, or the District court of Lancaster county. In any event, it will be directed against State Commerce Secretary Bliss to prevent his taking steps to collect the special assessment from individual banks. Notice of this assessment has been mailed out by Bliss to all solvent banks under date of December 15. It is the second one of its kind for the year 1928, being one-fourth of 1 per cent on deposits, calculated to raise $622,000.

Canvass Made for Suit Funds.

A bankers' committee, comprising A. L. Schantz of Omaha, William Seelenfreund of Lincoln and Dan V. Stephens of Fremont, has been making a canvass among all state banks of Nebraska, requesting them to join in the suit and appropriate an amount equal to one twenty-fifth of 1 per cent of their deposits to pay lawyers' fees and other costs of the litigation.

This committee will get together and the attorneys will also hold a conference on Monday or Tuesday. The committe is empowered to act for all of the 450 banks which have agreed to participate in the suit, and for others which may come in. Mr. Seelenfreund declared Saturday evening there is no doubt whatever that such an action will be brought.

The guaranty fund is practically at the vanishing point, only $2,000 remaining in it. Unless replenished by assessments, it can no longer function as the law provides. However, the guaranty fund commission has been making partial payments from time to time to depositors in banks not yet under receivership, out of moneys realized from assets of those particular institutions.

There are still $165,000 of receivers' certificates outstanding against failed banks, which are held by solvent banks and other creditors who advanced the money to pay the depositors. It is reported that the resisting banks will not object to paying their proportionate shares of an assessment large enough to redeem these certificates, if the court taking jurisdiction in the case should see fit to order that portion paid while the rest is held up by the litigation.

WATSON TO BE FLOOR LEADER

a party caucus as soon as Curtis resigns.

Election of Watson would place President-elect Hoover in the position of carrying on his senate nominations with one of the bitterest of his pre-convention opponents.

The jovial Watson, himself a candidate for the presidency, was one of those who opposed Hoover up to the last hour at the Kansas City convention. After the nomination, however, Watson campaigned for Hoover.

Jones Hopped Aboard Early.

Jones, on the other hand, was one of the first to get on the Hoover band wagon.

The reason Jones gave for withdrawing was that the duties of leadership would require his resignation from the chairmanship of the powerful commerce commission. Whether Watson will resign from the chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee to assume the leadership is not known.

Jones' statement, issued late today, follows:

"Many of my colleagues have kindly urged me to stand for the leadership of the senate at the next congress. I appreciate this very much, but this procedure would require me to give up my place on the commerce or appropriation committee. Both of these committees are of vital importance, especially to my state and its people. I could not properly discharge the duties of both positions at the same time. The interest and welfare of my state must come before any personal interest or preference of myself, and so I have decided, after most careful study, that I cannot permit my name to be used for the leadership. I have discharged for several years practically the duties of assistant leader, as well as those of whip. Whether I have done this well is for my colleagues to say. If I should be tendered the position of assistant leader, I will accept it and discharge its duties to the best of my ability."

HARD TASK TO CLEAN STREETS

Snow Froze to Pavement And Weather Hindered City With Work.

Asphalt Damaged On Main Thoroughfares Says Commissioner.

The job of cleaning Lincoln's streets of the heavy snow which fell Thanksgiving has been one of the most difficult in city's history, according to Frank Harm, commissioner of streets. The way the snow froze to the streets, the continued cold weather, and the lack of equipment made the task an especially arduous one.

The snow, which commenced to fall early Thanksgiving morning, had been preceded by a rain and a sleet. This froze the snow tight to the pavement and automobiles and trucks passing over it served to pack it down tighter than ever. Shortly after the snow fell, when the streets were the roughest and the sloppiest, a representative of a large street equipment manufacturing company visited Commissioner Harm.

Mr. Harm asked if there was any additional equipment on the market that would facilitate cleaning the streets in such weather. He was informed this morning there was none and that the condition of the snow and ice on the city streets was not only unusual but was the worst the representative had seen in the middle western territory.

Did Not Get Co-operation.

As soon as the snow had fallen, Commissioner Harm asked all merchants to pile it up on their sidewalks and not push it into the streets to clog the gutters. He did not receive full co-operation, he says, and it was heaped higher than ever at the edges of the streets. A score of extra men and a squadron of trucks were organized into a night shift which worked to clear the gutters of the downtown section of the city.

Hundreds of loads of snow were hauled away and the gutters finally cleaned. But still the streets were filled with deep ruts and the ice remained on several inches thick. It did not melt and the streets were bumpy, and very slick.

There is absolutely no machinery which can take off this ice, Mr. Harm says. It simply has to melt or be dug off with bars. This latter method was used in some cases where the streets were in the worst condition.

Once the ice and snow began to melt, the streets changed to rivers of slush. The slush was so thick it could not be flushed and the street sweepers were unable to pick it up. Commission Harm also delayed flushing because he feared a freeze following a flushing would make the streets worse than ever.

Still the night crew worked to keep the gutters clean the day crew's duties were mostly in the residential district and in clearing the crossings with "puddle jumpers."

Crew Works at Night.

When the weather became warm enough and enough of the slush had been pushed to the sides of the street the flushing process began. That was last Monday night. Every night since then twenty men have been at work. The flusher clears the streets and sweeps the muck to the gutters. These men with shovels scop it into push cars and others who follow sweep the gutters clean.

Saturday night it was possible to use the sweeper in some places but owing to the gummy constituency of the slush, it is impossible to use either the sweepers or puddle jumpers extensively until the streets are nearly dry, Mr. Harm points out.

He believes that he has done the best at cleaning the streets that could be done under the unusually difficult circumstances which arose following the last snow. His budget does not permit the expensive purchase of new equipment and without any more equipment he declares it would be a waste of money to employ any more men.

The ice was so hard and so tightly packed on the streets that on the main thoroughfares the asphalt was damaged. This is especially true on O street between Sixteenth and the Rock Island tracks. The ice has been pushed into the pavement so that the asphalt has been bulged in many instances and will have to be patched in a great number of places, according to Commissioner Harm.

ARTICLES WORTH $50 STOLEN FROM J. S. DAVIS HOME

While the family of J. S. Davis, 2323 South Twenty-second street, was away from home betwen 6:30 and 10:45 Saturday evening burglars entered the house and made away with a number of articles.

The marauders gained entrance by breaking the glass in a west basement window and unfastening the latch on the inside. The stolen articles included: a man's gold watch, an incense burner, a Chinese puzzle, handkerchiefs, a silver set, a toilet set and several articles of wearing apparel. The value of the loot was given to the police as $50. The robbers left by the front door.

Lieutenant Joe Rymer and Detective Robert Davis investigated for the police.

JOLSON AND BRIDE OFF FOR HONOLULU

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Al Jolson, blackface comedian, and his new bride, Ruby Keeler, sailed today on board the City of Honolulu for the Hawaiian islands.

Jolson said the voyage was "sort of a continuation of our honeymoon" and that he had not decided how long he would remain in Honolulu.

MOVIE ACTRESS WEDS.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Alice H. Mills, screen actress, was married today to William H. Davey, Hollywood investment broker, at the home of the bridegroom's mother. The couple will spend their honeymoon in Honolulu.

Deaths

Anna May Elliott, 34, died at 11:30 Saturday evening at the home, six miles northwest of Lincoln. She is survived by her husband, James, and four children. The body is being held at Henry Brown's chapel pending word from relatives in California.

Slayer Of Wife Is On Way To Memphis

C. S. Taylor, Captured in Louisiana Reiterates Confession of Brutal Murder.

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Charles S. Taylor, 55, a barber of Memphis, Tenn., tonight is speeding back to the scene of the brutal slaying of his wife, Mrs. Irene Taylor, 43, who was beaten to death with a poker and her body placed in a trunk in their barber shop home in Memphis.

Taylor left here early tonight over the Kansas City Southern railway in custody of Sheriff Will S. Knight of Shelby county Tenn., who came here today to claim the prisoner. The slayer is returning of his own volition having waived extradition.

Sheriff Knight may alter his plans for arrival at Memphis due to fear of violence, he indicated before leaving here.

Following reiteration of his confession made Friday night, Taylor spent a quiet day in jail here. He ate heartily, drank coffee frequently and smoked incessantly.

RULER RESPONDS TO EFFORTS OF HIS PHYSICIANS

king's life was all but despaired of among the ranks of thousands who stood since early afternoon outside the gates.

The report that one of the heart specialists called today for the first time had restorted to massaging the heart region to stimulate heart action, further depended the gloom of the crowds.

However, with the midnight report that the king had obtained some sleep, together with the fact that all the physicians but Hewett had left the palace and all was seemingly quiet in the palace, official and unofficial London took new hope. Many of those who had braved the hours of cold and fog turned away from the palace gates for their homes.

From now until the issuance of the next bulletin will be a period of watchful waiting.

Reported Sinking.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—(I. N. S.)—King George was reported late tonight to be sinking. Two more doctors, one a heart specialist, have been called in.

In hope of combatting the extreme exhaustion and inducing a rally the attending physicians have decided to employ violet ray therapy as part of the treatment. It is also rumored that his heart is being massaged in order to maintain life.

The following medical bulletin was posted at Buckingham palace at 8 o'clock:

"His majesty has had a quiet day with some sleep. Though the pulse remains steady and fever is moderate, the exhaustion persists. It has been decided to employ ray therapy as part of the treatment."

This bulletin was signed by the following five doctors: "Sir Stanley Hewett, Dr. Robert Stanton Woods, Dr. Frank D. Howitt, Sir Hugh Rigby and Lord Dawson of Penn.

Of the two new physicians, Dr. Woods, is a heart specialist and Dr. Howitt an authority on physio-

Belief was expressed in outside medical circles that pus from the right lung cavity had penetrated the outside membrane of the heart with a sensational rumor current that the heart was being massaged.

Gloom pervaded all circles. It was feared that the crisis was at hand.

Anxiety Increases.

There were developments throughout the afternoon indicating that the anxiety of the attending physicians and the royal family had increased.

Two medical consultations were held at the palace. It was at the second consultation that Dr. Howitt and Dr. Woods were called in for the first time.

Princess Mary cancelled an engagement to attend the opening of the Windsor bazaar. It was explained in her behalf by the dean of Windsor that her father's condition was so grave she did not care to remain away from the palace for any length of time.

The Prince of Wales spent most of the afternoon and evening at the palace to be near his father's bedside.

The morning bulletin, which was signed by only three of the doctors, had made no mention of heart weakness nor any extension of the toxic condition.

This bulletin, which was issued at 11 o'clock, said:

"The king had several hours sleep. The local condition is so far satisfactory. There is no increase in exhaustion. The Pulse remains steady.

Throughout the entire day and evening a crowd stood in the icy wind outside the palace gates awaiting the latest news from the bedside.

Despite the more cheerful tone of the morning bulletin a feeling grew deeper as the day advanced that a crisis was approaching in the king's condition.

Feeling Intensified.

This feeling was intensified when it was learned that two additional doctors had been summoned. This brought the number to eleven who have treated the stricken monarch from time to time since he took to his bed on November 20.

There was obvious dejection upon the part of palace officials. They made no effort to minimize the gravity of the situation.

In the face of the prevading gloom, hope was expressed that the ray therapy would stimulate the king's power of resistance.

In this new treatment to buoy up the remaining strength the doctors were aided by the courageous intention of the king himself to get well. The monarch has proved a cheerful and gallant patient. Though so feeble he could barely speak above a whisper, he expressed his confidence in his own recovery. His fortitude has won the whole hearted admiration of the physicians.

A statement from sources close to Buckingham palace said tonight's bulletin was "regarded as satisfactory under the circumstances."

The fact that the king's temperature has moderated is a good feature, this authority said. But the struggle must continue, and there are still many difficulties to be faced.

The ray therapy treatment will be employed as a new method of attack against the effects of the general infection, the informant said.

At 9 o'clock tonight all the attending physicians except Sir Stanley Hewett had left the palace. The Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York dined at the palace.

BOLIVIANS TAKE FORT BOQUERON AFTER FIGHTING

counter with our troops who heavily defeated the Paraguayans, after which we occupied Fort Boqueron.

"The Bolivian army carried out its duty.

"La Paz, December 15, 1928."

Report Air Bombardment.

The newspaper El Norte announced tonight that Bolivian troops captured Fort Rojas Silver after a bitter encounter.

The newspaper said that Bolivian airplanes bombarded Paraguayan positions on the banks of the Pilcomayo river.

Great excitement prevailed throughout the city after the announcement.

After President Siles told the huge crowd gathered before the government house of the occupation of the Fort by Bolivian soldiers the strains of the national anthem rang through the city and 20,000 voices joined in song.

Military bands gathered quickly and everywhere about the capital groups marched to war tunes and the national anthem.

The announcement came at a time when renewed warlike activities had been evident throughout the day. Crowds had gathered to read the governments replies to the League of Nations council and the international permanent commission Montevideo.

Notes from both bodies had urged that Bolivia and Paraguay avoid disastrous conflict and mediate their boundary difficulties which had come to a climax over the Fort Vanguardia incident, December 6, when twenty-two Bolivian soldiers were killed in a sudden fight with Paraguayan troops in the Gran Chaco country.

Satisfaction Demanded.

Replied to both notes sharply said that Bolivia must have a "satisfaction" and "proper reparation" from Paraguay for an "unexpected attack upon the national honor and dignity," and on Bolivian military forces.

President Siles, addressing the great throng that gathered in front of the government house, said:

"The Paraguayan minister Ayala left his post and is on his way to Buenos Aires. He declared: 'We await the Bolivian soldiers on the right banks of the River Pilcomayo,' where Bolivians captured Fort Boqueron and Paraguayan troops."

Colonel Ayala during an interview added that there was "no division in Paraguay, that men and women were like-minded, and that all Paraguayans were brave people, which is true.

"But without words we will prove that we are also brave.

"Viva the army; Via the commander of our forces in the Chaco; viva Bolivia"

Foreign Minister Elio addressed the crowd when the president ceased speaking. He said:

"There is nothing I can add to the president's words.

"Notwithstanding our victory, I recommend that you maintain a serenity that will take us to victory, either in the diplomatic field or on the battle field.

"Viva the president; via Bolivia."

Peace Outlook Dimmed.

BUENOS AIRES, Arg., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Tonight's dispatches from La Paz containing the statement of War Minister Correas that the Bolivians had captured Fort Boqueron, and newspaper reports from Chaco of a Bolivian aerial bombardment against Paraguayan positions greatly reduced the chances of a peaceful settlement of the Bolivian-Paraguayan dispute.

All news from La Paz indicated the population was aroused to warlike fervor.

Bolivia's apparent reluctance to submit to mediation by the League of Nations council, the Pan-American arbitration conference or the Montevideo diplomatic commission assembled under the Gondra convention of 1923, seemed to leave the matter solely between the two countries unless a last minute intervention is atken by some neighboring South American country.

It would appear that Argentina would be the most logical country to make such an offer, as the Pilcomayo river also constitutes a portion of Argentina's Paraguayan and Bolivian frontiers.

Many were speculating here tonight whether President-elect Herbert Hoover of the United States and President Hipolito Irigoyan of Argentina, discussed the Bolivian-Paraguayan question when they met for half an hour privately today, at the request of Mr. Hoover.

"Reparation" Exacted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—By administering a heavy defeat to Paraguayan soldiers in the Gran Chaco and by capturing Fort Boqueron, Bolivia has exacted reparations demanded from Paraguay for the "attack upon her national dignity" and may now be in a better position to accept proposals of conciliation, Bolivian Minister Eduardo Diez de Medina declared tonight following receipt of reports from La Paz.

The minister said he had received advices from his government briefly outlining the most recent development, but he declined to make the information received public.

Asked for an opinion as to the probable effects which today's events in the Chaco would have upon attempts being made to effect a pacific cettlement of the Bolivian Paraguayan dispute, the minister said:

Forced To Act.

"Bolivia was bound to require reparations from Paraguay for the attack on Bolivia's national dignity and inasmuch as the government of Paraguay did not seem disposed to offer such reparations, Bolivia, without abandoning her attitude of willingness to submit the issue to any of the conciliatory means suggested, had to exact from her aggressor the moral reparations required.

"I believe that now that this prior demand of Bolivia has been fulfilled by the events that took place today, that my country will feel in a better position to accept any of the offers which have been made to her for a conciliatory settlement since this would be in accord with her invariable policy of international justice and American concord."

Special Meeting Looms.

Prospects of an extraordinary session of the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration or of the special mediation committee of the conference being convoked tomorrow, was the subject of immediate speculation among delegates.

Victor Maurtua of Peru, chairman of the special mediation committee of the conference, confined to his bed in the hotel Mayflower with a severe cold, told the United Press in a message relayed by Senora De Maurtua that the convoking of an extraordinary session of either body was unlikely.

"It is our intention to await the replies of both Bolivia and Paraguay to the notes sent by Secretary Kellogg as chairman of the conference yesterday, before taking any further action here," he said.

Don Manuel Foster Recabarren of Chile, another member of the special mediation committee, listened attentively to United Press dispatches telling of the battle and characterked the news from La Paz as "very bad."

A Big Decrease In Stock Sales

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Stock sales on the big board today were just about one-third as large as in last Saturday's record breaker, and the movements of prices correspondingly narrow, in one of the quietest sessions of the year. Sales ran under 1,300,000 shares in contrast with 3,744,000 shares last Saturday.

Outside of the two airplane stocks, Curtiss and Wright, which flared up about 10 points near the close, the high-priced industrials lost ground. Radio closed 12 points lower at 338, Victor was ff 2 points, International Nickel down 6 and Montgomery Ward down 3½. Chicago Great Western preferred led the speculative rails, reaching a peak price of 50, up 14 points for the week.

Though there has been an unusual softening of the money market, call rates declining to 6 per cent on the board and 5½ per cent in the outside markets, the brokerage houses and bankers look for tight money over the year-end and as high as 15 per cent is predicted for the final week of the year, due to the very heavy requirements of the market for the January financing. This is perhaps the most important factor in the speculative markets today, and is largely responsible for the unsettlement in stock market circles.

The curb market displayed a firm tone in a slow and featureless market. Boeing Transport sold up about 5 points at 93. New Jersey Zinc was in demand at the highest prices of the week and most of the high grade utility stocks sold at higher price level. Oil stocks lagged and mining stocks were well bought.

Eugene O'Neill Sails

SHANGHAI, Dec. 15.—(UP)—Eugene O'Neill, the American playwright, who has been convalescing here from lung trouble, sailed Wednesday abroad the President Monroe.

It was thought he was going to Hong Kong, but it was reported today that he was going to New York. The steamer reached Hong Kong today and O'Neill was not seen among the passengers who disembarked there.

Outwits Chicago Gangsters on Ride

Charles Fox of Kansas City, Mo., a member, according to his own statement, of Chicago-Kansas City "Alky syndicate," as he appeared at detective bureau after being taken for a ride by gang, shot four times and left lying on Chicago sidewalk when he pretended to be dead. Transforming Cow Pasture Into Play Field Wins Prize For Kearney in National Contest

MARY BENNETT.

(Harmon Foundation.)

Transforming a cow pasture into a well patronized and beautiful play field within the period of three years has won a prize of $250 for the city of Kearney in a recent playground contest. This competition, in which Kearney placed third, was conducted by the Harmon Foundation of New York among the 102 fields which it has assisted in establishing throughout the country.

The chief aim of the foundation in sponsoring these play spaces has been to further the movement for getting recreation land set aside permanently in advance of city growth. That Harmon fields shall be used forever for the purpose of play and recreation is specified in each grant. As a further incentive to progress on these playgrounds the foundation also conducts an annual improvement contest, the one just closed having been the third. The awards given are not large, many being as small as $50, but they have served as the incentive to remarkable achievement. Kearney, which in 1924 received financial aid from the foundation in establishing its permanent playground, has won an award in each of these annual contests. Its record this year in being third among thirty-nine winning communities in twenty different states was particularly outstanding.

Wading Pool Donated.

Some features of Kearney's field are a wading pool donated by the Kiwanis club, and accompanied by an attractive dressing house; a pond which is stocked with fish in the summer and turned into a skating rink in the winter; trees which afford not only shade and beauty but a living museum of thirty rare varieties for the student and lover of plant life; shrubs and a winding hedge; a twenty-four compartment martin house; a sundial and drinking fountain. Most of these improvements were added to the field between March, 1927, and May, 1928, the period covered by the contest. Work was also begun on a band shell, to be located where the sloping field forms a natural amphitheater capable of seating several thousand persons.

An elaborate piece of equipment on the field is the huge double slide, cost $400, toward the purchase of which last year's $200 award from the foundation was applied. This is one of the features which makes the play space so popular among children that "many people from surrounding towns now bring their children here regularly for a good time," it is reported. Not only is the field popular with children, but it has been made safe for them by provision that automobiles are forbidden there so that boys and girls at play are completely protected from traffic accidents.

Not only children, but grown-ups as well enjoy Kearney's field. Three new tennis courts donated by the Cosmopolitan club were constructed within the period of the competition. Five evenings a week the baseball diamond was occupied by the twilight league ball teams, composed of bankers, railroad men, merchants, firemen and others.

Evidence Of Progress.

An unusual requirement made by the Harmon foundation in this contest was that all evidences of progress of the field should be submitted in the form of newspaper and magazine clippings and photographs. The resulting collection of news stories, features, editorials, programs, reports and posters submitted by the competing communities presented a colorful and varied panorama of playground activity. Here in a western town hammers fly and saws shriek as the school children build a stadium; there in an Ohio village men and boys fill the playground and the evening air with their participation in kitten ball; in Texas a corn stubble blossoms into a beauty spot—not miraculously, but under the muscular impetus of an energetic and public spirited Lions club; on a shaded southern playfield scissors and thread, knife and paint brush, fashion enough gay wares to fill an exhibition hall; everywhere appear new grids, diamonds, courts, and on the older and more sophisticated fields, lily ponds, pergolas, and ornamental archways.

Organizations that backed these playground programs in the various communities included: American Legion, Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, the Women's clubs, chambers of commerce, city councils, school boards, high schools, Boy and Girl Scouts and Camp Fire girls, literary societies, parent-teacher associations and churches. All of them were not only helping their towns to win prizes, but were helping also to emphasize the value of play in community life, and the need for lands dedicated permanently to recreational purposes.

The highest award of $500, went to Fremont, Ohio, which reported a total attendance of 7,601 children on its two-acre field during the previous summer. This field also serves as the athletic center for the local high school, so that the resources and co-operation of the school board are added to those of the Federated Women's club and Kiwanis club. A new field house, fence and gate and cinder track and baseball diamond cost the sponsors about $7,000, an unsually high expenditure. But this amount was secured through community cooperation and interest, rather than from an overflowing exchecpuer.

Number Winning Fields

The complete list of winning fields in the competition is:

Fremont, O., $500; Paragould, Ark., $400; Kearney, $350; Hillyard, Wash., $300; Bicknell, Ind., $200; Bluffton, O., $200; Decatur, Tex., $200; Lebanon, O., $150; $100 each to Talladgea, Ala., Fayetteville, Ark., Coffeyville, Kan., Houma, La., Bellefontaine, Paulding, Wellsville and Wauseon, O., and Okmulgee, Okla; Worthington, Minn., $75; $50 each to: Eureka Springs and Stuttgart, Ark., Alamosa, Colo., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Canton, Ga., Mayfield, Ky., Sturgis, Mich., Herkimer and Oneida, N. Y., Tyron, N. C., Granville, Miamisburg, Sidney and Wapakoneta, O., Lawton and Waurika, Okla., Bend and Vermonia, Ore., Souderton, Pa., Martin, Tenn., and Stamford, Tex.

The sponsoring of permanent playgrounds by the Harmon Foundation is the result of an entire business career in real estate subdivisions by its founder, the late William E. Harmon. He deplored the American tendency to neglect provision for play space until the growth of the city has made land almost prohibitively expensive. "The time to secure recreation space," declared Mr. Harmon, "is when a town is new and land is easy to secure." In his own real estate company he demonstrated the practicability of setting aside play lands in new subdivisions for community park and playground usuage. This he found to be not only highly desirable from a humanitarian point of view, but also actually good business for the real estate operators, for land containing permanently protected open spaces is worth more to buyers. To encourage this practice more generally among operators, Mr. Harmon shortly before his death set aside $40,000 for awards in 1928 to those who deed part of new subdivisions to the community in perpetuity for public recreation. The money granted is to be used in improving the area. The following six awards have so far been made from the fund:

Cartrell Realty Co., Ashland, Ky., Ralph B. Bradford Co., developers of Dune Forest, Gary, Ind.; Will County Realty Co., developers of Westminister, Joliet, Ill.; Estates Realty Co., developers of Broadway Heights, Lorain, O.; Carl O. Johnson & Co., developers of Rolling Green, Rockford, Ill., Boundary Realty Co., Inc., of New York City, developers of Elmwood at Westwood, N. J.

Pictures of Harmon field at Kearney, which placed third in a recent national play ground development contest, are shown above. The upper left scene shows the children's wading pool which was donated by the Kiwanis club and the dressing rooms which were completed this summer. The double thirty foot slide which delights the children of Kearney is shown above to the right. The lower left picture is of the view looking toward the Third Ward park connecting lot between Harmon field and the park while the other scene shows the connecting lot between Harmon field and the Third Ward park at the time the park was purchased and before any development took place.

Decree To Husband—Judge Fred Shepherd of the District court has granted to Cornelius T. Curran a decree of divorce from Lucille B. Curran, to whom he was married in Council Bluffs on July 30, 1924. He testified that she had treated him with extreme cruelty and had finally deserted him. There is one son, of whom plaintiff was granted the custody.

Ask Stock Permit — Request has been made by the Elkhorn Valley Power Co. of Scribner for authority to issue and sell $70,000 of bonds and $50,000 additional stock. It now has $122,000 of stock outstanding. The bonds are wanted to take up short time notes, and the extra stock is for hte purpose of constructing 60 miles of rural electric lines to serve 120 farm customers.

Songs Entered In Contest—Chamber of commerce officials feel gratified over the interest shown in the Lincoln song contest. Some forty requests for information have been received and about half as many songs. The interesting feature to officials is the large number of inquiries from parties outside of the city and state. Requests have come from Iowa, Kansas and Colorado in addition to towns in Nebraska.

Boys to be Prosecuted—W. Bruce Shurtleff told Captain of Detectives Anderson Saturday afternoon that he would prosecute the six youths who are alleged to have stolen the Christmas tree from in front of his store at 1335 L street Friday night. He will get a complaint from County Attorney Towle Monday, he said. The tree, decorated with a number of colored lights, was more than 25 feet high and was erected only a few days ago. The $100 reward offered by Mr. Shurtleff for the recovery of the tree will be paid to Roy Randolph and Charles Jones.

Back to Industrial School.—Peter Staki, 18, arrested Friday by Secretary Gohde of the police department, while attempting to pass a worthless check for $17 on the Wells & Frost shoe store, is being returned to the boys' industrial school at Kearney for parole violation. Captain Anderson said Saturday night. Staki was paroled from the industrial school about a year ago.

Linoleum For House Chamber.—The legislative hall at the capitol which is to be used this winter by the house of representatives will have its temporary board floor covered with linoleum during the next two or three days. The material is to be laid by an Omaha firm which received the contract in a letting held some weeks ago. After it is down, all desks, chairs and other furniture will be put in place for the session.

Wants Decree Modified—Perry J. Donham has petitioned the District court for modification of the decree of divorce granted to Stella Donham last April. By the terms of that decree he was required to pay the plantiff $80 per month as alimony, and aso to pay her attorney a fee of $100. He alleges that he has made the payments to date, but to do so has been a hardship. The situation at present, however is not the same that it was at the time the decree was entered. At that time he was receiving a salary of $235 per month and no one was dependent upon him. Now he is receiving only $200 per month and has his invalid mother to care for, it being necessary to hire a woman to attend her. He asks that he be relieved of further payments.

Order Xmas Cards early. George Bros.—Adv.

BIG CROWDS SEE NEW CHEVROLET

Interest in The "Six" Is Greatest In Chevrolet History.

The new Chevrolet "six" is stirring interest and enthusiasm exceeding anything in Chevrolet history following appearances of the new machine in Chevrolet salesrooms in New York and Detroit.

Each day of the past week has found thousands pouring into the show rooms to see the new car which marks a new epoch in Chevrolet history. Statements of thousands of automobile critics who have seen the new valve in head, six cylinder Chevrolet offer outstanding testimony of the public's confidence in the new machine and surpass of most enthusiastic claims of the Chevrolet men.

Having the same price range as the four cylinder machine and same guaranteed economy, the new "six" has won acclaim in New York and Detroit from automobile men from all parts of the country who have traveled as much as hundreds of miles to see the car.

Interest manifested in the latest General Motors achievement has been so insistent that Chevrolet officials are planning to show the new car in the near future in thirty-three key cities of the United States.

Several Lincoln people already have placed their orders with the DuTeau company, it is announced. This fact is considered ample evidence of the public trust in Chevrolet. The new machine is on exhibition this week end at the Rome hotel at Omaha. It will be exhibited at DuTeau's in Lincoln in the latter part of the month.

Lincoln Man Obtains Rare Japanese Stamps

Three stamps ocmmemorating the imperial coronation of Japan — prizes already so rare that heavy premiums are paid for them—have been received in Lincoln by J. L. Pierce, clerk of the County court and an enthusiastic collector.

They reached him via his son, Roy, a scientist employed in the blister rust control work of the agricultural department at Washington, D. C., who received them in turn from R. Kent Beattie an American pathologist at Taihoku in the province of Talwan.

The stamps, used as postage on an ordinary envelope, are in oriental tints of blue, green and red. Two of them bear identical representations of what seems to be a portion of the imperial palace. The other depicts an armorial, bird-like device. The cancel marks are of the same ochre-red seen in one of the stamps, and contain images and alphabetical characters.

In Big Demand.

Portions of Mr. Beattie's letter give an interesting picture of conditions in the island empire. He says:

"Japanese commemoratives are not easy to get as, after a sale of a small supply on the day of issue, the rest go into the hands of the dealers who, I believe, put them in cold storage until the price has advanced. However, I got some. If I had been in Tokyo, probably by standing in line for several hours I could have gotten one or two stamps of each kind. But down here at the jumping off place there are not so many Japanese. The bulk of the population is composed of illiterate or at least ignorant Chinese with some of the other type, and the demand either wasn't so great or it got started later in the morning. Anyhow, I got in on the ground floor for all but six sen stamps which were almost exhausted before I got there at 8:30.

"I am down here after Castanopsis seeds and must go tomorrow morning to the center of the island, and then go down to the extreme southwestern end within twenty miles of Cape Garambi. I am now in the only foreign hotel on the island and it isn't all that foreign hotels ought to be, though reasonably comfortable. After tomorrow, I will live in Japanese style until about the end of the month. But I'm used to it—to sitting and sleeping on the floor, to hot baths without any more privacy than is nececsary, to food entirely different from ours, and to numerous other things. But they are not so bad as you think when you get used to them and know how to be comfortable. I can speak enough Japanese to let the servant girls know what I want, to buy railroad ticketc and in general to travel alone anywhere.

"Just think, I'm so far off that I didn't know until this morning what the electoral vote was and I don't know yet how a single state went. Today's boat will bring a Tokyo paper which may tell." (The letter was written November 10.)

About People

Mrs. Corol E. Brown entertained at a 1 o'clock bridge luncheon Saturday at her home, 1725 South Twenty-third street. Luncheon covers were placed for twenty guests at small tables arranged with poinsettias, and red tapers. In the bridge games which followed the luncheon, high score was made by Mrs. Harold Vifquain, second high to Mrs. R. R. Livingston and consolation to Mrs. Franklin C. Hamer.

B. B. club was entertained last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Margaret Hall acting as hostess. Miss Frances Virgil won high score at bridge. Consolation honors went to Miss Hulda Gessner.

Guests were Miss Hulda Gessner, Miss Clara Jones, Mrs. Edna Minger and Mrs. Elmer Crane. The next meeting will be held with Miss Grace Hauchildt.

A Christmas party, sponsored by the six Camp Fire groups of the Trinity Methodist church was held in the church parlors yesterday afternoon. The program consisted of individual skits by each group. Featuring the program by Miss Ceeting's group were readings by Katherine Lindblad, Anna Lorraine Tibbles, Elita Jane Morris, Evangeline Imhelder, Marion Kathe and Doris Smith. Ramona Hansen gave the program for Mrs. Lieser's group and a pantomine by Donna Jane Raymond. Mary Schricker, Laura Huey, Betty Bauer and Muriel White was offered by Miss Finske's girls. Miss Green's group furnished refreshments for all present at the party. Mrs. Ada C. Malcolm, executive in charge of camp fire work in Trinity church introduced the group guardians.

Dr. Rea Buchanan returned Saturday from Logansport, Ind., where he was called three weeks ago by the death of his mother.

Pythians Revive a Lodge at Bridgeport

Fifty Candidates Receive Three Ranks and New Officers Are Installed.

(Special to The Star.)

BRIDGEPORT, Nez., Dec. 15—After several years during which time the organization here was allowed to lapse into inactivity, a reorganization of Khorassen Lodge No. 66, Knights of Pythias has been completed, and initiation ceremonies for about 50 candidates and installation of officers, with a banquet occupied the time of an all night session under direction of Pythians from Crawford, Alliance, Hemingford and other towns in this vicinity. Three ranks were conferred upon the candidates, and Jack Wehner was elected chancellor commander; W. B. Atwater, vice chancellor; V. Anderson, prelate; Thomas Ishmael, master at arms; E. L. Davis, keeper of records and seals; Carl Bauer, master of finance; Floyd Creswell, inner guard; Earl Fraser, outer guard; W. A. Canaday, master of exchequer; E. K. Milmine, F. F. Hamilton and Lew Gilbert, trustees; and Ray Ryason, C. G. Perry, Mark Spanogle and Amos Hanway, past chancellors.

VICE PRESIDENCY FIREMEN SOUGHT

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Dec. 15 — Alliance firemen are planning to send a large delegation to Fremont on January 15, 16 and 18 to attend the state convention of volunteer firemen. County Attorney P. E. Romig, an Alliance fireman, is being boosted by the departments of western Nebraska cities as candidate for the office of second vice president. Mr. Romig is a veteran fireman and has been very active in the work of the state association. Approximately 30 delegates will go from Alliance.

EARLY RESIDENT FREMONT CALLED

(Special to The Star.)

FREMONT, Neb., Dec. 15—Albert Eddy, 68, for many years conspicuous in business here, died suddenly at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He had been in poor health for the last few years. Mr. Eddy was a member of Eddy Bros., who conducted a department store for nearly forty-five years in the same location, it being during most of that time Fremont's largest retail establishment. He was a native of Hamilton, New York and came here in 1878. His wife and four children, George Bernard, Mrs. Harriet Cain and Mrs. Elanor Blakeslee, survive him.

CRETE NOTES

(Special to The Star)

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 15—Following the death of Mrs. Dina Kalkwarf, aged 79, her daughter, Mrs. Will White, at whose home she died, also passed away from pneumonia Friday morning. Mrs. White was exhausted from caring for her mother, it was stated. She was about 52 years of age. She leaves her husband and two small daughters, besides a little granddaughter, the daughter of an elder daughter, who died a few years ago. Mrs. Kalkwarf leaves five sons, Frank, John, Albert, Dick and George, all farmers of the Crete vicinity, and a daughter, Mrs. John Steiner. Her funeral wes held Saturday afternoon and that of Mrs. White will be held Monday afternoon, both at the German Congregational church, Rev. J. E. Schaatz in charge.

Clyde Noyce, 30, son of Rev. and Mrs. G. T. Noyce, died from pneumonia at Duluth, Minn., where he was head of religious education of the Congregational church. He is survived by his wife, who is also very ill, his parents, four brothers and one sister. Interment will be at Duluth. He was a Crete boy, graduate of Crete high school and of Doane college.

The streets of the business section of Crete look very gay wtih the large community tree in the center of the square and small trees in front of each business house. These will be lighted every night the two weeks of the holidays.

The annual election of the Crete fire department this week resulted as follows: President, A. C. Davis; vice president, George Mitchell; secretary, Matt Mullner; treasurer, Frank J. Kobes; chief, Joe Piouzek; assistant chief, Sam Best; delegates to state convention, Howard Burrus, Harry Mallory, Will Norton. The firemen will hold their annual ball January 11.

E. L. DePeyster and C. R. Davenport attended the meeting of Royal Arch Masons at Omaha the past week.

The Crete Woman's club met Friday afternoon, at which time it had been planned to have the annual Christmas party. So few were able to attend, however, that all but the prepared program was dispensed with. The program opened with the singing of Christmas carols, the last being, "Joy to the World." A piano duet, "Les Sylphes," Machmann, was rendered by Mrs. Charles V. Kettering and Mrs. E. Spadt, and a reading from Henry VanDyke, "Mansions," was given by Miss Mary Ellen Inglis of Doane college. Mrs. Fred Boekel sang a double number, "Vale," by Russell, and "There's a Song in the Air," by Speaks. At the close of the program a short social time was enjoyed, during which tea was served, wiht fruit cake and Christmas candies.

Santa Claus In Person at Seward

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., December 15—One thousand five hundred children were given gifts of sacks of candy and nuts by Santa Claus in Seward Saturday afternoon, Santa appearing there with real live reindeer and sleigh loaded with presents. This was the first time in history of the city that the old fellow arrived in such a manner, a very large per cent of the childrn never before having seen a deer.

A fine lodge has been built in the court house square for his headquarters and a corral constructed for his favorite reindeer, Blixon and Dixie. Santa will be at his lodge every afternoon until Christmas and will distribute treats to the children every Saturday afternoon until Christmas.

PLATTE VALLEY'S DAIRY INDUSTRY SHOWING GROWTH

(Special to The Star.)

BAYARD, Neb., Dec. 15.—Good prices for butterfat have been an incentive to expansion of the dairy industry in the North Platte valley this fall, and the number of cows is increasing steadily. Cream buyers are paying for cream at the rate of 46 cents a pound for the butterfat content, while the North Platte Valley Co-operative Cheese company has been paying at the rate of 55 cents a pound for butterfat in whole milk. Cows have been shipped in from eastern Nebraska, Wisconsin, and from Colorado. Farmers are purchasing these cows on long terms and paying for them from the milk and cream produced.

CHRYSLER BEAUTY

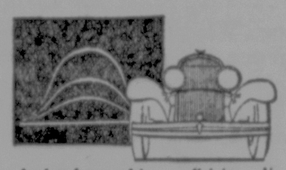

not a chance inspiration

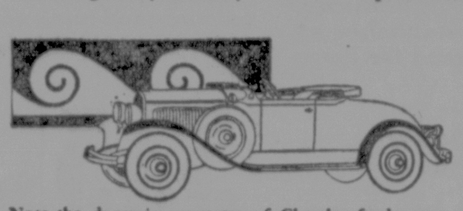

The most modern thing in motor car design—Chrysler's matching of slender-profile radiator with cowl-bar moulding—has its origin in the motif in the historic frieze of the ancient Parthenon.

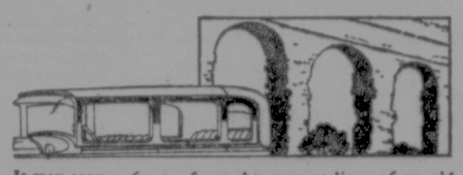

The Chrysler front elevation indicates the influence of the Egyptian lotus leaf pattern. Applied with consummate artistry in blending beauty and utility.

Artists know this as a "rising, diminishing series." The level road, bumper, tie-rod and radiator, form an artistic series in perfect harmony.

Note the dynamic symmetry of Chrysler fender contours and wheels, counterparts of the "wave border" of the classic masterpieces of architecture and design.

It may seem a far cry from the correct lines of an old Roman aqueduct to the "arched-window" silhouette of the Chrysler of today. Here it is, an indication of the artistry with which Chrysler lines are developed.

But a Careful and Conscious Design Based upon the authentic Classic Beauty That Has Lived Through the Centuries

The enthusiastic acceptance of the new Chrysler style is, after all, a tribute to the innate artistic sense of the American people.

Because the new Chrysler style is the first and only deliberate and conscious effort to apply the canons of the classic forms to automobile design.

It is perfectly natural therefore that the new Chrysler style has so rapidly been accepted by people everywhere.

The inborn and correct sense of the fine and beautiful—the appreciation of the truly artistic is at the bottom of it all.

Chrysler design which deliberately applies to every single detail—with an eye to the finished whole—the principles of true artistry, cannot fail of complete and unqualified success.

The beauty-consciousness which lies in each and every one of us is responsible for the acceptance of the breath-taking loveliness of Chrysler.

Nebraska Picketts are Family of Printers

HENRY ALLEN BRAINERD.
(Nebraska Press Association Historian.)

I have read in the various periodicals of the country, which are devoted to the exploiting of the doings of printers, publishers and those engaged in the printing industry, where the father and from one to four and five sons have followed in the same channel, but the honor must be given to the Pickett family of Nebraska for never have I heard where the father of five sons and the grandfather of four boys and the great grandfather of one boy who were and are actually engaged in the publishing business in Nebraska unto this day.

It is known that Thomas Johnson Pickett was the father of five stalwart sons—Horace Greeley Pickett, George Bernard Pickett, Charles Yarbow Pickett, Thomas Johnson Pickett, jr., William Lincoln Pickett.

Way back in the fifties, before the war between the north and the south, now known as the "War of the Rebellion," was brought about, Thomas Johnson Pickett was brought upon the newspaper screen in the office of the Louisville Courier Journal, published at Louisville, Ky. by George D. Prentice. After receiving his commission as a journeyman printer he took a hand at writing and reporting for the paper, until he branched out for himself as a practical newspaperman, editor, reporter, cub and devil (all of which was required to make a prominent newspaperman of that day.)

Wrote To Lincoln.

We next find him at Peoria, Ill., where he was the publisher of the Peoria Journal, which afterwards became the Transcript. Next he was located at Rock Island, Ill., where he was editor of the Rock Island Register. While in that city he brought his name before the people in the writing of a letter to Abraham Lincoln, stating that he had been in communication with the leaders of the various surrounding states and had been commissioned by them to write to Mr. Lincoln with a request that he would allow his name to be brought before the people as a candidate for the presidency of the United States.

An abstract of Mr. Pickett's letter to Abraham Lincoln follows:

"Rock Island, Ill., April 13, 1859.

"Dear Mr. Lincoln:

I am offering a request that you come to Rock Island in the near future and deliver an address on the vital questions of the day. I would like to have a talk with you on political matters as to the policy of announcing your name for the presidency, while you are in our city. My partner and myself are about addressing the republican editors of the state on the subject of a simultaneous announcement of your name for the presidency."

Lincoln's Reply.

To which Mr. Lincoln replied:

"Springfield, Ill., April 16, 1859

Yours of the 13th just received. My engagements are such that I cannot at a very early date visit Rock Island to deliver a lecture or for any other object. As to the other matter you so kindly mention, I must, in candor, say, I do not think myself fit for the presidency. I certainly am flattered and gratified that some partial friends think of me in that connection, but I really think it best for our cause that no concerted effort such as you suggest, should be made. Let this be considered confidential.

Yours very truly,
A. LINCOLN.

Newspaper Family.

Mr. Pickett was the father of five sons who spent their lives at the newspaper game—

Horace Greeley Pickett commenced his newspaper career in his father's office in Illinois and wound up his career as publisher as publisher of the Akron Pioneer Press at Akron, Colo., where he now resides.

George Bernard Pickett who was connected with several papers in Iowa and Nebraska, is now deceased.

Charles Yarbow Pickett spent his life as a journeyman printer. He was a charter member of Lincoln Typographical Union No. 209 of Lincoln, Neb., and died at the Printers Home at Colorado Springs a few years ago. All the Picketts here mentioned were at one time or another connected with a union body.

Thomas Johnson Pickett, jr. started life as a publisher of the Nekomas Gazette at Nekomas, Ill. when 19 years of age. He also published papers at El Paso and Fulton, Ill. When but 25 years of age he was "Printer Expert for the State of Illinois." After his term of appointment had expired he was married and shortly after emigrated to Nebraska in 1879 and established a paper at Nebraska City—The Nebraska City Sun, where there were already a half dozen papers. This venture lasted about a year. He then moved to Ashland, Neb. and became the owner of the Ashland Gazette. His father, becoming aged, sold his interests in Franklin county, Neb. and came to Ashland to live with his son where he died a few years later. T. J. Pickett, jr., remained in Ashland fifteen years thence moved to Wahoo where he purchsaed the Wahoo Wasp, which was started by John A. MacMurphy, the first constitutional secretary of the Nebraska Press association in 1873, who purchased the Wahoo Independent and the Tribune and consolidated them into the Wasp. The four sons of Mr. Pickett, jr. at the time of moving to Wahoo were in school and as soon as it was time for them he entered them, one by one, into the printing office and made printers of them. Mr. Pickett retired a few years ago and is now enjoying the comforts of life at the Lindell hotel in Lincoln, where he and his wife celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary Sunday, November 11, 1928, with their four sons and families as guests.

Worked In Lincoln.

William Lincoln Pickett, the fifth son of Thomas Johnson Pickett sr. did not own any papers but worked on several papers in Nebraska and was managing editor of one of the early Lincoln papers, operated by Webster Eaton (president of the Nebraska Press Association in 1875-6, and afterwards started a paper at Kearney, "The Kearney Nonpareil Press.)

Of the five sons of Thomas Pickett, sr., only one was the father of printers, Thomas Johnson Pickett, jr. and he had four sons who are now comfortably installed in their own printing houses in the following towns:

Stanley Pickett— Emerson Tri-County Press, Emerson.

William Thomas Pickett—The Wahoo Wasp.

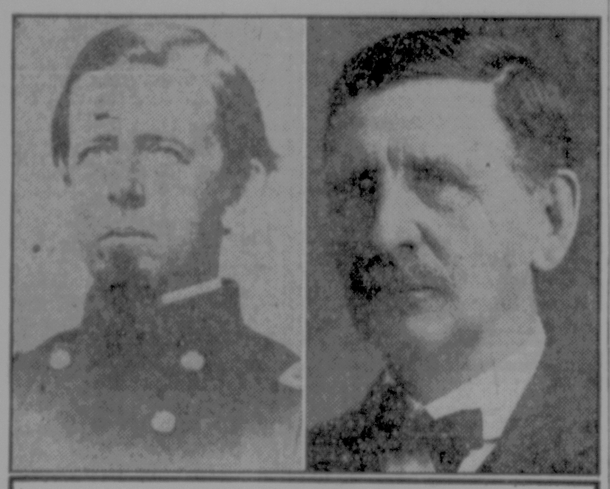

Henry Pickett—The Sterling Sun.

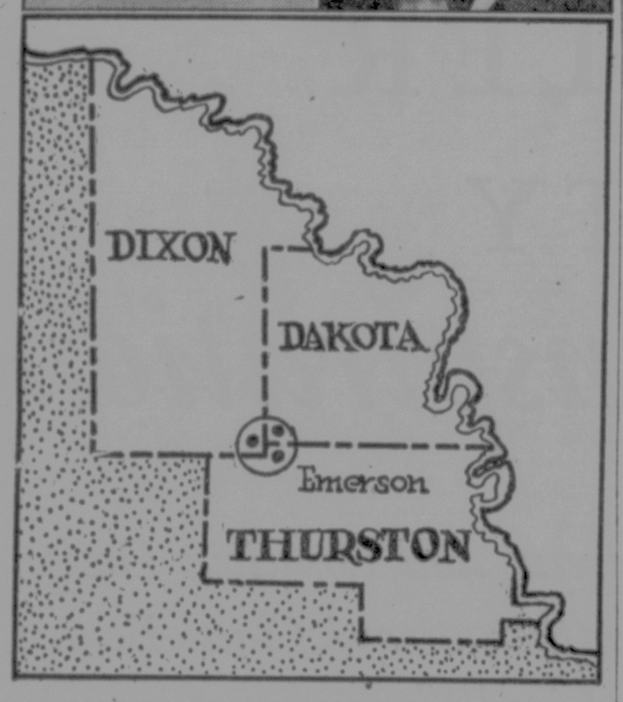

James S. Pickett—The Cedar Bluffs Standard, Cedar Bluffs.

They "as father so is son"—Thomas Johnson Pickett sr. was elected to the senate in Illinois the same year that Abraham Lincoln was elected to the presidency of the United States. Thomas Johnson Pickett, jr. was elected to the senate in Nebraska in 1889, and Henry Pickett represented the same district in Nebraska in the senate as his father did in 1919-20.

Henry Pickett's son while only 12 years old, knows the cases and is deviling in his father's office at Sterling. He is Thomas Johnson Pickett, the third. He told the writer when in Lincoln that he was going to make a good printer and also was going to be on the "Cornhusker" football team when he got a little older.

The town of Emerson is located in a corner of three counties, namely—Dixon, Dakota, Thurston. Standing in the printing office you can readily see into each county. When you go after your mail, or to the depot, or to the printing office you go into a different county. The town of Emerson claims to be the only town in the United States so situated.

PIONEER NATIVES TO BE HONORED

Persons Born in Nebraska Before 1867 Will Be Guests at Banquet.

Territorial natives of Nebraska, persons born in what is now Nebraska before March 1, 1867, will be especially honored by the Native Sons and Daughters of Nebraska at the annual dinner and program Monday, Janury 7, at the Lincoln hotel.

It is requested that all persons eligible to attend the banquet regardless of whether they intend to do so, promptly send their name and address to President N. C. Abbott of Nebraska City or to Secretary Margaret E. Thompson of Lincoln.

Names are requested since it is desired to make the enrollment of natives as complete as possible. As names are received they will be given for publication in future announcements.

The Nebraska Historical society will hold its annual meeting and program, Tuesday, Jaanuary 8, following a dinner.

ENGINEERS CLUB TO MEET MONDAY

The Engineers club of Lincoln will hold its monthly meeting Monday, December 17. A short business meeting will follow the dinner which begins at 6:15.

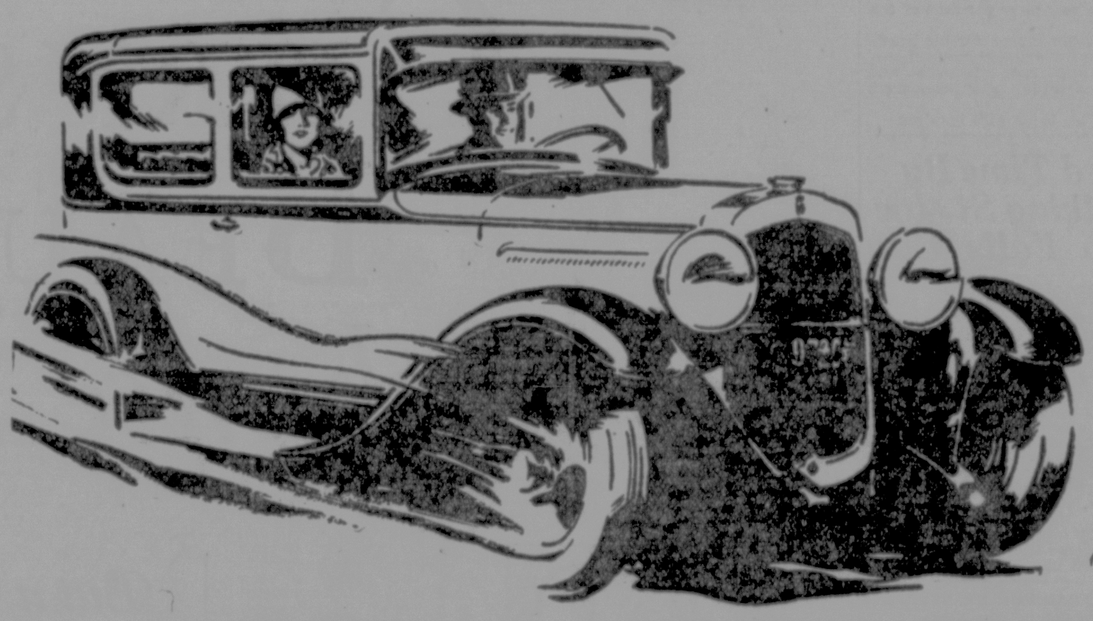

H. L. Wallace, research worker in engineering at the university, will discuss tests made on tractors at the university agricultural college, accompanying his talk with illustrations.

Methods used to test horsepower of tractors on the drawbar and on the belt will be shown. All tests in the discussion were made at the university.

The new Superior Whippet

with the New "FINGER TIP CONTROL"

Greater Beauty-Larger Bodies in complete line of Fours and Sixes

Sweeping beyond all accepted ideas of light car beauty and performance, the new Superior Whippet sets advanced high standards of its own.

The Superior Whippet is distinguished by grace of line, richness of color and artistry of finish such as have never before been associated with inexpensive cars.

With longer bodies, higher radiator and hood, sweeping full crown, one-piece fenders, new artistry of finish and perfection of detail, the Superior Whippet definitely establishes an ultra-modern style trend for Fours and light Sixes.

Bigger bodies—more comfort

Maximum riding and driving comfort in the new Superior Whippet is assured by more spacious interiors, with 3 inches added leg room; wider seats, heavily upholstered, with improved contours conforming with natural body curves, longer springs both front and rear, full balloon tires and snubbers.

Faster—livelier—more powerful

Mechanically as well as artistically the new Superior Whippet is so far ahead that it surpasses even its own predecessor. A higher compression engine gives more than 20% added horsepower, with far greater speed. Higher second gear speed gives faster pick-up. Low consumption of gas and oil, and dependable performance, result in marked operating economy and minimum service costs. Order now for early delivery.

The most notable advance in driving convenience since the self-starter

The Superior Whippet is the first car to offer the new "Finger-Tip Control"—a single button conveniently located in the center of the steering wheel, which controls all functions of starting the motor, operating the lights and sounding the horn.

This ingenious device does away with all troublesome foot fumbling for the starting button, usually located in a somewhat inaccessible position, and obviates a change from the comfortable driving position to reach the light switch on the dash.

While everyone will welcome this new feature, it will appeal particularly to women drivers. Its simple operation is clearly explained by the illustrations above.

Fighter Never the Same After Socked By Ace

"Wildcat" Treats 'Em Plenty Rough

Battling Bozo From Lincoln Has "Rep" Doling Punishment Which Saps Vitality of Every Foe.

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—"Meet Ace Hudkins—and meet your finish."

So much might top the publicity posters in behalf of the "Nebraska Wildcat" if it were not for the modesty of his handlers who prefer to have Ace say it in the ring instead of in print.

Hudkins doesn't win all his battles—but his foemen always are losers. If Ace doesn't outslug 'em to victory, his ripping, tearing methods leave the winner with nothing but aches and pains from which they never fully recover.

For Benjamin's Farewell.

Ace wrote "farewell" upon the career of Joe Benjamin a few years ago, just as Joe was comebacking as a welterweight. Joe, who had toyed with other cyclonic attacks with little more than nonchalance, never likes to speak much about that battle. But when he does a bit of uttering, it is along these general lines:

"I thought I had a sucker, but I drew a cage full of wild animals. That Hudkins threw punches at me so fast that I'll never think other than that I was fighting his whole family, as well as Jack Dempsey, Benny Leonard, Mickey Walker and six wild-eyed boilermakers.

Hit By a Crowbar.

"He started off shooting for my body and every time he landed I thought he was using a crowbar. Finally I said, 'Scatter your punches, you little stiff,' and he did. He hit me almost everywhere from the soles of my shoes to the dandruff department and, if I turned and did some scuttling, he lammed me on the back."

It was Joe Benjamin's last fight.

Others who have face the "Wildcat" have continued in the ring—but they have never been the same.

Makes Them All Over.

No man ever is the same whose stomach has been punched up into his chest; whose liver has been driven down into one hip and whose heart has been pounded lopsided.

Joe Anderson was a star out on the coast. Then he gave Ace Hudkins a chance to do his stuff. When Ace finished up, Joe looked like a lad who had tried to halt an express train. In his next fight, Anderson, who was great at taking a socking before the Hudkins outing, went down and out before the attack of Tuffy Griffiths.

Ditto Serreant Sammy.

Sergeant Sammy Baker was a lallapalooza. Then he fought Hudkins a few times. He has never been the same slashing, dashing Sammy Baker since then—and he never will be.

Phil McGraw tried conclusions with Ace—and has been pretty much of a deuce ever since. Ace pounded Ruby Goldstein off the heights with a few punches at a time when Ruby was New York's most sensational lightweight. And what he did to Stan Loayza is nobody's business.

Sticks to His Style.

Most ringmen argue that a battler seeking success really ought to cultivate several styles of fighting. Ace Hudkins has but one. But it seems ample for his needs.

When the first bell rings, the "Nebraska Wildcat" sallies forth with the idea of chasing the other fellow through the ropes, out of the arena, along the streets to the seashore and then chasing him right over the top of the waves to Europe, Asia, Africa and points east.

Punches From Everywhere.

If the fighter decides not to leave the ring, that's his bad luck. For Ace, now greatly angered by the refusal to "beat it," proceeds to throw punches from here, there and everywhere, with the prime purpose of having them find lodgement in the other fellow's amidship region.

If Ace misses a few, it does not discourage him. He tries and tries again. If he lands a few it delights his soul and he tries to land some more. So, whether he hits or misses, he keeps on swinging, much to the everlasting discomfort of the poor lad who thought he was going to fight one man with two hands, only to learn that he has drawn a sort of fistic centipede.

METHODISTS ON STARTING MARK

Wesleyan's Cage Season Under Way Thursday With Tarkio.

No let-up was in store for Coach Dow's Wesleyan varsity squad last week, as he sent them through a long siege of signal practice Saturday afternoon and followed this with a short session of scrimmage.

The Methodists will open their season Thursday night, Dec. 20, when they meet the Tarkio Turks on the Wesleyan floor. The Yellow and Brown basketeers are working hard perfecting plays and developing an eye for the basket, and while they look good on the offense, the cagers are quite the reverse on the defense.

Coach Dow had three teams in action before the afternoon was over, the first team being composed of Loder, S. Johnson, H. Killenger, Lally and Deuser; the second of Hannum, Dixon, Miner, Miller and Fleming; and the third of E. Killenger, Dewey, Brayman, Fitz and Fellers.

The Methodists have a 17-game schedule, eight of the games being at home and nine away. The schedule follows:

Wesleyan's Schedule.

Dec. 20—Tarkio at Wesleyan.
Jan. 4—Morningside at Sioux City.
Jan. 5—Wayne at Wayne.
Jan. 7—Western Union at LeMars.
Jan. 11—Grand Island at Wesleyan.
Jan. 17—Cotner at Wesleyan.
Jan. 19—Midland at Wesleyan.
Jan. 26—Doane at Crete.
Feb. 1—Cotner at Bethany.
Feb. 7—Grand Island at Grand Island.
Feb. 8—York at York.
Feb. 12—Midland at Fremont.
Feb. 16—Hastings at Hastings.
Feb. 21—Doane at Wesleyan.
Feb. 23—Still at Wesleyan.
March 1—York at Wesleyan.
March 2—Hastings at Wesleyan.

Gish States View On Curator Plan

Athletic Director H. D. Gish of the University of Nebraska in a Saturday statement declared he believed the "curator" plan, explained by Dean T. J. Thompson last week, to be theoretically correct but expressed the doubt if the present was the logical time to place the plan in operation. Director Gish's statement follows:

"I have been asked by the Daily Nebraskan to make a statement regarding my opinion of the 'curator' plan, which has been proposed for the University of Nebraska and which has been under discussion for some time. A very thorough explanation of this plan was made by Dean T. J. Thompson in last Friday's issue of the Daily Nebraskan and the other daily papers and therefore needs no further explanation.

Theoretically O. K.

"I have never been authorized by the committee to make a public explanation of the plan, but it has been known to representatives of the press that I was a member of the committee and furthermore I have stated to them my opinions as herein set forth.

"The plan, as drawn up by the special committee of five, of which I was a member, is theoretically correct. I say theoretically because to my knowledge no university or college in the country has an organization plan such as the committee proposed for the University of Nebraska. Any new method of organization or administration is always an experiment and the resulting failure or success of the plan is not due to the plan itself but to the man or men heading up the organization.

Time Not Ripe.

"I believe the plan should ultimately be put into effect at the university, but I doubt if the present is the logical time. This is because of our limited finances and facilities, not only in athletics and physical education, but in the academic side of the university as well. However, this is a matter for the board of regents to decide and with the best interest of the university as a whole at stake, I am sure they will act wisely and at the proper time."

HIGH BASKETBALL.

At Sapillion—Weeping Water, 13; Papillion, 7.
At Stella—Stella, 20; Verdon, 18.
At Plattsmouth—Plattsmouth, 49; Blair 8.
At Mascot—Stamford, 30; Mascot 8.
At Benedict—Benedict, 27; Milford 15; Benedict reserves 15; Milford reserves 13.
At Bertrand—Bertrand, 22; Arapahoe, 7.
At Waco—Waco, 24; Garland, 15. Garland reserves, 14; Waco reserves, 13.
At Sabetha—Sabetha, 37; Hiawatha, 15. Sabetha reserves, 6; Hiawatha reserves, 2.

Imperial Hi All-Victori ous.

One of the few undefeated teams in Nebraska high school competition during the past season was Coach "Buck" Gruhling's Chase county high school eleven of Imperial. The Imperial gridders won the Frenchman Valley title, scoring 301 points to 25 by opponents during the season.

A feature of the Imperial play was the fact that the coach did not strive to develop outstanding stars, but emphasized, instead, team play. High spots of the Imperial record include a 6-0 win over McCook and victories over Holyoke, Colo., and Bird City, Kas. The squad:

Lower row—Myers, Newman, Fredrickson, Harshbarger.
Middle row—Rhoads, Pribbeno, Satchell, Miller, Burke, Goddard, Collins, P. Belau.

BASKET SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

Nebraska Cagers Ready For Court Inaugural At Coliseum.

Brookings Quint First Up On Nebraska U. Cage Slate.

Coach Charley Black's University of Nebraska cagers will make their bow of the 1928-29 basketball campaign Thursday night when the Cornhusker quintet meets South Dakota State college on the coliseum court.

The contest is the first of a 16-game schedule which calls for eight games at home and eight games on foreign courts. Teams to display their wares before Lincoln fans include Missouri, Kansas, Iowa State, Oklahoma and Kansas Aggies of the "Big Six" conference and Drake, South Dakota U. and South Dakota State from outside the conference fold.

Ticket Sale Monday.

Season books and individual game tickets will go on sale Monday at Latsch Bros., 1118 O street. According to John K. Selleck the season book is priced at $7.50 and the individual game tickets will sell at $1.

As usual, all seats in the coliseum will be reserved, the only change in the coliseum arrangement being the addition of a series of overhead flood lights. These lights are similar to those used for night football and will flood the court with brilliant light, while leaving the crowd in darkness.

Outlook Is Brighter.

The basketball outlook at the university this fall is better than last season. While some valuable members of the squad have been lost by graduation and failure to return to school there are some promising youngsters in the sophomore ranks which promise to speed up the varsity comination.

Kenneth Othmer, former Omaha Tech athlete who was elected basketball captain last spring, failed to clear the scholastic hurdle and the 1929 tossers will choose a new pilot. Other members of the 1928 varsity missing this year include Tom Elliott, "Jug" Brown and Bob Gothe.

Trio of Forwards.

The three leading candidates for the forward positions appear to be Harvey Grace, Mascot; "Dutch" Witte, Lincoln, and Morris Fisher, Lincoln.

Grace broke into the scoring column during the middle of the 1928 season as one of the Missouri Valley's leading point-getters. Witte, a former Lincoln high athlete, saw

Brass Tacks by Cy Sherman

That 1929 Schedule. Who the New Coach? Wanted: A Leader! Again In Log-Jam.

Business of growling at Nebraska's 1929 football schedule is somewhat slack this year. The chief complaint heard to date involves the suggestion that the slate for next fall, if anything is wrong, burdens the Cornhuskers with too many tough ones.

Schedule-growling, it seems, is inevitable. Last winter, for instance, the Husker management booked Syracuse and Pitt on the intersectional circuit, slated the five traditional rivals of the Big Six conference and added Montana State as a breather. That breather was the unpardonable sin, and the commotion persisted until the Cornhuskers stepped out to date themselves with the Army.

All the while, the Nebraska slate actually did not require the addition of the Army game to measure up to the standard of a first rank schedule. It was plenty tough with the eight games already on the card and quite as much as the Husker squad could, in justice, have been asked to undertake.

That Nebraska fell for the lure of that Army affair was not surprising. Most everybody in Cornhuskerland was for it and the public applauded the announcement that the game was on the book. Nevertheless, Nebraska's prestige was jarred by the affair at West Point. Whether justifiably or not, the Huskers were rated as possible victors over the Cadets and when they failed to come through, Nebraska's stock sagged a trifle on the football exchange.

In dating a ninth game on a far distant field, coming on the heels of five major contests, Nebraska invited disaster and the blow which came Nebraska's way was a crusher to its pride.

Reverting to the slate for next fall, the prophets are foreseeing a titanic campaign for the Huskers—and with excellent reason. Three intersectional frays with foes of top rank to start the season, followed by the annual round robin within the Big Six circle.

But there seems to have been no other way than to line things up just as they stand. The Nebraska management first dickered with Pitt, but could get nothing definite. The chance to book Southern Methodist, a leader in its section, was presented and the Huskers took on the Mustangs as a substitute for the Panthers. The next development restored Pitt to the schedule. The Panthers had failed in an expected plan to book Notre Dame and proposed to carry on with Nebraska, the Huskers giving their o. k.

Award of the date to Pitt which S. M. U. wanted put Nebraska in a hole. To have turned down the Mustangs would have branded the Huskers as welchers. Not being in that class, the Mustangs were dated for the season's opening game.

Scanning the slate from every angle, there is no escaping the conclusion that the Cornhuskers will have just a plenty on their hands next fall. And so will their new coach. Even with 15 sessions of spring practice under his belt, the coach will begin the campaign with only a scant acquaintance with his squad. That, in itself, may be a serious handicap.

Meantime, the Nebraska football public should let that schedule sink in — Southern Methodist, Syracuse, Pitt, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Kansas State and Iowa State. Four games at the kick-off with foemen rated right up with the elite of the entire college realm! An eight-game card not surpassed in any conference or region where the gridiron game is played! A high hurdle for every Saturday of the season! Ouch! And then a few groans!

Choice of the new coach may be coming out of the hopper within a week or two—and then the selection may be delayed until well after the start of the new year. The special committee nominated by the Nebraska athletic board is making haste slowly and, most commendably, refraining from making public announcement of its plans.

Consideration of the coaching problem is a matter which will have the committee's serious attention. Loyal Husker adherents will agree that the committee can perform its best service if not hampered by ballyhoo or boosting campaigns on behalf of any given candidate or candidates.

The committee, as a matter of fact, has authorized no formal outline of its plans, other than to make known its desire to procure for Nebraska a first-class coach.

PROSPECTS PERK UP AT LINCOLN

Basketball Outlook Has Bright Hue In Camp of Brownemen.

Candidates Flash Skill In Working Out For Opening Games.

Lincoln high school will launch its 1928-'29 basketball season ticket drive Monday with high hopes of recovering some of the financial losses incurred during the recent grid season. According to Coach W. H. Browne the adult cage tickets will be $2 and the student tickets, $1.50. The adult ticket includes eight home games, while the student ticket gives entrance to eight contests and one other athletic event.

Coach M. T. Swenson's Scottsbluff quintet is due in Lincoln next Friday for the initial encounter of the season, while Dan Hickey's Creighton Prepsters of Omaha invade the Red and Black camp on the following evening for a Saturday game. In addition to these two affairs, which represent the only contests for the Brownemen before the first of the year, the home cage card includes contests with Omaha Central, Omaha Tech, Crete and East Senior high of Sioux City, Iowa. Although but 14 engagements of the 18-game card have been filled, Coach Browne expects to announce the contests for the four open dates next week. At least two of these will be home games.

Games at Whittier Gym.

The Whittier junior high gymnasium, where the local clashes will take place, has been the scene of the Red and Black practices during the past week. The Brownemen have been making rapid strides during the workout sessions and early indications justify the hope that Lincoln will give to the indoor game a formidable quintet.

Coach Browne has directed some 25 quintet aspirants during the week, and within a few days will select about 15 of the number to represent his first squad. He intends to organize three quintets to keep in action throughout the winter campaign. The remainder of the group, together with a few who have not worked out as yet at Whittier, will form the reserve squad. Under the direction of Coach Ivan C. Overman, who will begin with the reserves Monday, the "scrub" outfit will play a schedule as a member of the Greater Lincoln league.

Coach Stuart Baller and his University Place high school football squad are celebrating the winning of the Greater Lincoln league football title. The young Methodists also gained possession of the "gold brick," traveling football trophy in league competition. Members of the University Place squad:

Lower row—Barnes, Kanzler, Richardson, Nordgren, Hufnagle, Beach, W. Kierstead, Lindquist, Duffy, Japs, Hazelrigg, Enyeart, Filley, Teachman, L. Amos.

Second row—Assistant Student Manager Horton, Duey, Gurn, McDaniels, H. Amos, Pixley, George, Captain-elect Mangold, Captain Allyn, Culwell, Powers, Coffman, Conaway, H. Kierstead, Stith.

Upper row—Principal R. S. Mickle, Jordan, DeTar, Wolfenbarger, Bowen, Hansen, Brokaw, Reed, Hallock, Bickle, Dworak, Pitcaithley, Taylor, Applegate, Student Manager Young, Coach Stuart Baller.

Lincoln Lines Up In New Conference

Capital City Takes Membership In Organization Including Leading Highs of Midwest Region.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 15—Preliminary steps for the organization of a Missouri Valley High School Athletic association were taken today at a meeting of representatives of Lincoln, Omaha Tech, Omaha Central, Sioux Falls, S. D., Sioux City Central and St. Joseph Central.

Complete plans of organization were not perfected, another meeting being called for Dec. 29 in Omaha at which time a constitution will be considered and a permanent association probably perfected.

At Least Six Schools.

The present arrangement calls for a conference of six of 12 schools, with the possibility that the circuit may be split into two divisions, with final games or contests for the various sport titles.

If the league is organized, the first official competition will be a track and field meet to be held next spring. Football and basketball championships will not be decided until 1930 and 1931, being held up until existing contracts with other schools have expired.

Lincoln Represented.

Principal Will French and Coach W. H. Browne were the Lincoln high representatives at the Omaha meeting. Principal French was named along with Principal Porter of Omaha Tech and Ira Jones of the Omaha public schools on the committee to draft the association constitution.

Other representatives in attendance at the Omaha meeting were Wood, Sioux Falls; Heitman, Sioux City; Utz, St. Joseph; Knappie and Bexton, Omaha Central.

According to Coach Browne, the tentative plan of organization calls for a round robin schedule of football and a double round robin basketball slate.

Students of the six high schools will enter contests leading up to the selection of the official name for the new association.

'BIG SIX' READY FOR CAGE SPORT

Conference Squads Hard At It In Basketball Workouts.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 15—(Special)—Basketball courts in the Big Six conference will be busy this week as coaches and players are going through daily practice schedules in preparation for the practice games that come this month and for the opening of the conference season early in January. At Missouri and Kansas, Coaches George Edwards and Dr. F. C. Allen are drilling their squads twice daily, both universities having been dismissed on account of a threatened influenza epidemic.

In the first year of the newly formed Big Six conference, Nebraska carried off honors in football, but the road to a championship in basketball this winter appears to be the hardest in years. Oklahoma won last year, with Missouri the runner-up. Nebraska and Kansas are boasting improved prospects this winter, and Missouri's prospects for a winning five have never been better.

New Mentor at Ames.

Only one new coach makes his debut this year—Louis E. Menze of Iowa State, formerly of Kansas City Central high school and former coach of the Ivanhoe club team and the Kansas City Athletic club team. Dr. F. C. Allen will again direct the Kansas squad and George Edwards will coach the Missouri Tigers for the fourth year. Hugh V. McDermott is back at Oklahoma again and Charles Black again is tutoring the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. Charles W. Corsaut again will direct the destinies of the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan.

A double round-robin schedule will be played in the Big Six this year and since each team will have but 10 conference games, several non-conference contests and intersectional affairs have been carded by Big Six members. Several of the old Missouri Valley conference members appear on the schedules of the Big Six, and Kansas is even playing California, Notre Dame and Washburn college.

Sooners Lose Vic Holt.

The Oklahoma Sooners will feel the loss of Vic Holt, towering all-American center. LeCrone and Norris guards. Tom Churchill, the Sooners' all around star is back again this year as is Capt. Drake. Noble, Culbertson and Kiergen, all lettermen. In addition Coach McDermott has some excellent sophomore material in Myers, Shearer, Howell, Seaton and Stagletary.

At Kansas, Coach Allen has Rub Thompson, sensational forward;

Lincoln Tankers In Daily Drills

With daily workouts that do not exceed 15 to 20 minutes the Red and Black swimmers of Lincoln high are making preparations for the 1929 tank season. Jack Minor and Fred Krause are co-captains of the team, which will be under the direction of Sed Hartman, a new member of the high school athletic staff this year.

With a wealth of both new and veteran material, Hartman hopes to develop a strong team during the coming season. Minor is the state inter-scholastic diving champion and Krause one of the best distance swimmers in the state. Paul Markham, a junior, is probably the foremost plunger in Cornhusker prep circles. The Lincoln tankster broke the state record last year in the state meet, only to have his teammate, John Keriakades, establish another over his head. Keriakades was graduated from high school last spring.

Personnel of Squad.

Among the other tankmen on the squad and their specialties are: Edgar Dobbins, free style; Donald [illegible] and fancy diving; Lewis LaMaster, back stroke [illegible] Homer Turner, breast stroke; Neal Hall, free style; and Harvey Lanman, backstroke.

A stiff schedule is on the line for the swimmers with meets including Omaha Tech, Omaha Central, Creighton Prep, Fremont and other rivals of recent years. The Tech meet probably will be the toughest of the season, as the Maroon swimmers have a winning streak of 53 uonsecutive victories. The Lincoln squad of last season proved a strong aggregation, losing but once during the year, and that to Omaha Tech. In the state meet the Maroon Techsters were first, with Lincoln second and Omaha Central third.

Kenneth Sutherland of Fremont will be supervisor of the swimming work for the beginners this year. Sutherland, a freshman in the Teachers college at Nebraska university, holds a number of swimming records himself.

College View Hi Squad Banqueted

Members of the College View high school football squad were entertained Thursday at a banquet given by the "Pep girls" of the suburban school.

Announcement was made at the banquet of the election of Marion Scott, center, as captain of the 1929 team. S. M. Loomis served as toastmaster and called upon Coach M. Robson, Principal Torval Johnson, Supt. M. E. Transchell and Captain Bob Chase.

Coach Robson was presented with a gold football charm by members of the squad as an appreciation of his sertice during the season.

The College View-Sterling basketball game, scheduled for Dec. 20, has been postponed.

Hi Swimming Meet Booked For March

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 15—The 1929 Nebraska high school swimming meet will be held in Omaha Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, according to announcement made in Omaha interscholastic circles today.

BLUE TO COACH TEMPLE SQUAD

Cornhusker Gridman Due to Break In as Tutor of Temple Team.

With "Blue" Howell scheduled to act as coach, cagesters at the Teachers college high school are preparing for the coming basketball season. Howell at present is on his way west for the East-West football game Dec. 29 in San Francisco, and consequently will not take up his duties until after the first of the year. Meanwhile, Ralph Dexter, Nebraska track man, will coach, with Emery Cummings as assistant. Cummings was the football coach for the Teachers college gridders.

Howard Neal, forward, and William Schreiner, guard and center, are the only two veterans, although some 15 new players have reported for practice. The schedule includes seven games, six of which will be played with members of the Greater Lincoln league. Aggie high is the only team carded for a home game, the remaining games scheduled to be played on foreign floors.

Cummings, who prepared the schedule, is desirous of filling nine open dates on the card, all of which he desires to be played away from home. Cummings states that the Temple cagesters will play any team within a radius of 50 miles of Lincoln. The open dates are Jan. 4, 5, 9, 25 and 30 and Feb. 1, 6, 8 and 20. The schedule:

Jan. 11—Bethany at Bethany.
Jan. 16—Aggie high at Uni. Coliseum.
Jan. 18—Wesleyan Prep at Uni. Place.
Jan 22—Havelock at Havelock.
Jan. 26—College View at College View.
Feb. 13—Beatrice Res. at Beatrice.
Feb. 16—Uni. Place at Uni. Place.

Why Golf Game Is Luring So Many Americans

Owes Its Popularity to Fact Linksman Plays Only Against Himself

Have you ever noticed that golf is the only major sport in the world without really competitive contest; that the man or woman plays not against the other, matching agility, speed and endurance, but rather plays to show his greatest skill and curb his weaknesses?

After all, golf is but a glorified game of croquet for, like in that game men do not combat each other or try to outplay the other in golf. They just play to do their best against their own weakness, hoping that their best exceeds the best effort of the other.

The Violent Sports.

In violent sports, like football, pugilism and wrestling, there is ever the element of combat; ever the test of the power of a man or a group of men opposed to the other; the test of speed, of skill, of strategy, resourcefulness, lion-hearted courage and the ability to take punishment and still carry on.

In baseball, tennis, hockey polo, swimming, footracing, sculling, handball—even in ping pong—there is always combat; a man or a team of men trying to outspeed and outgeneral and outwit and outgame the other.

Different With Golf.

Victory goes to those who are most skillful, who have the greater speed, the greater strength and who are the better schooled in strategy and have the finer fibre of physical courage.

But so much is not true in golf.

As far as actual combat is concerned, a man is in no lesser fight playing alone and trying to make a good score, than he is when galloping the course in the company of a rival. The golfer, whether going it solitaire, in duo or in a foursome is ever playing against himself — fighting his own weaknesses.

Not Contest with Rival.

He is no more in combative contest with his rival than is a croquet player, for there never is physical clash, never a call for brawn, never the necessity for speed and never the need for cunning that will lure foeman into some trap which puts him at your mercy.

And yet this game, ridiculed and jeered at years ago and placed in the same category as croquet, within a few generations has come from the nowhere to a place where it now numbers more actual players than any other known sport in America —or in the world.

Plays Against Himself.

All of which perhaps proves what one of its earliest devotees said:

"Golf requires that a man control his muscles and his nerves and his temper; it necessitates schooling in co-ordination of eye, mind and muscle. And, because it forces a man to play against his own weaknesses to improve himself, it ever goads him on to play—and play—so that he can prove to himself that he is as good as he thinks he is.

Why the Game Lures.

"And because man—and woman—like nothing better than to demonstrate improvement, first to themselves and then to others, golf beckons to them and when they follow and embrace it, golf clasps such man and such woman in such a way that death alone can shatter the union."

Texas U. Honors Fallen Gridster

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 15—In the hour of their victory as football champions of the Southwestern conference, the University of Texas Longhorns paused to remember a fallen comrade.

Molte McElroy, 19, of Houston, who was killed in a fraternity initiation stunt here shortly after the football season opened, was awarded an honorary letter. McElroy was a member of the squad and was considered a promising athlete.

Manush Declares Luck Big Factor In Batting

"Hitting them where they ain't" is much a bit of luck, according to Henry Emmett (Heine) Manush, who batted .378 during the 1928 campaign and was runner-up to Leon Goslin for the American league batting championship and to Gordon Cochrane for the most valuable player award, being just one point behind Goslin in the batting averages and two points behind Cochrane in the vote of the valuable player award.

Manush carried off the batting championship in 1926 with the mark of .377. A year later saw him drop to .299 and Detroit traded him to St. Louis, whereupon Manush came through with an average that all but gave him the championship once more.

Luck a Potent Factor.

"Change of scenery?" said Manush. "Not a bit of it. Luck! The line drives that were caught in 1927 fell safely in 1928. Did you ever stop to think that a dinky single hit with the handle of the bat counts just as much in the averages as one of Babe Ruth's home runs?

"And, what do you get when you hit the ball on the nose and it looks like a triple until some outfielder sprints over the ground, sticks out one hand and catches it? Nothing but a time at bat. Possibly, the next time up, you hit one that ought to be an easy out, but the outfielder fails to get the break and it falls just out of his reach. You must be lucky to hit better than .350.

"Of course, it helps some to have the power in your swing. And, it does not hurt if you study other batters and also pitchers, of course."

Baseball In the Family.

Heine is a member of a baseball family. His brother Frank was an American league third-sacker 10 years or so ago, while his brother George served several years in the minors. It was Brother George that induced Heine to leave the parental roof at Tuscumbia, Ala., when Heine was a boy of 17 to learn the plumbing trade in Burlington, Ia.

Two months of plumbing, however, were enough for Heine. Perhaps he was too tall and big to crawl under low-slung bath tubs. At any rate, Heine left Burlington flat and went west. He planned to go to the coast, but when he reached Salt Lake City, he found employment with an oil company and played semi-pro ball on the side.

Signed By Portland Club.

Along came Walter McCredie to sign him for the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league. But Heine was too green. He warmed the bench two months, managed to sub for Lu Blue at first base in a couple of games and then was released outright.

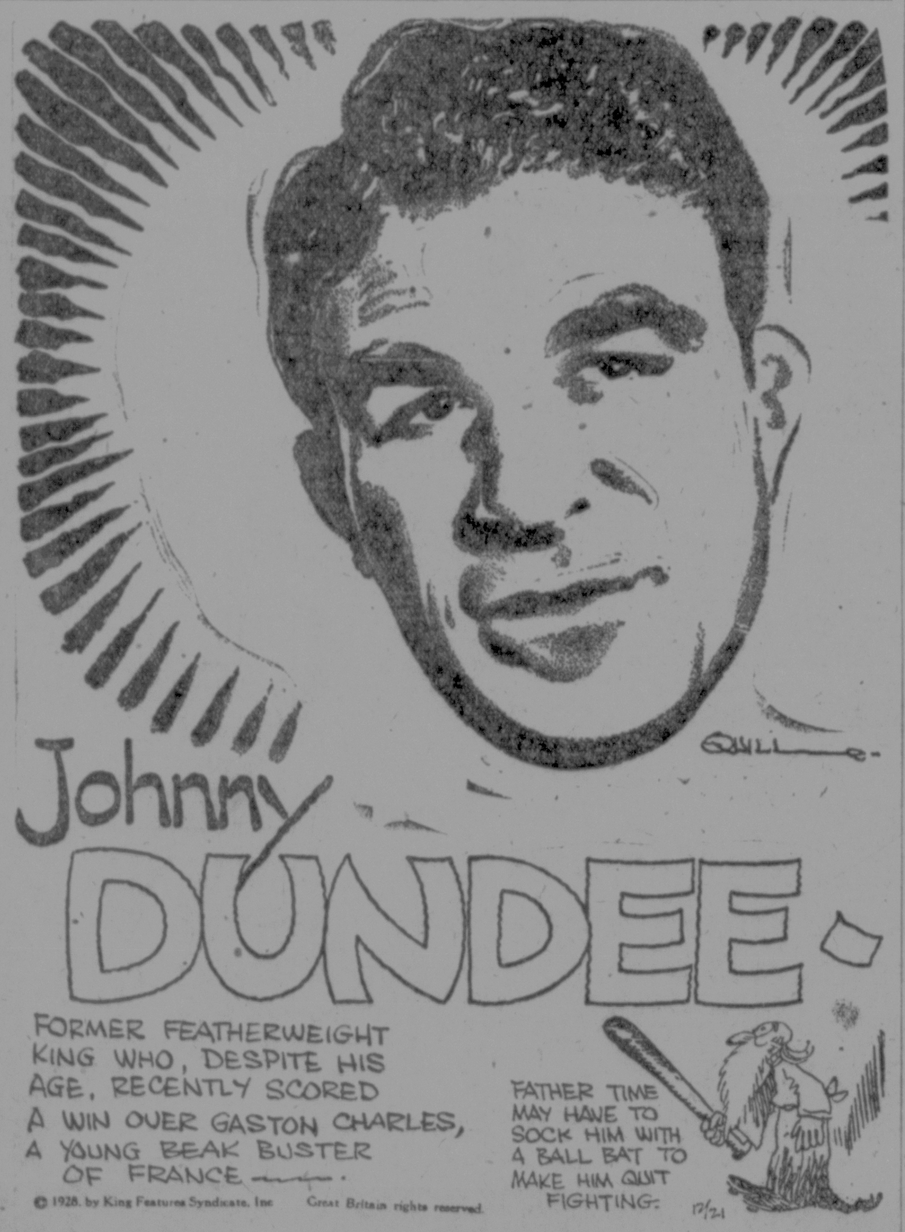

But a newspaper man came to his rescue that winter, when Heine was playing in the winter league in southern California. Matt Gallagher, the baseball scribe in question, recommended him to Detroit, the Tigers signed him, sent him to Edmonton and later to Omaha for development and Heine has been an American leaguer ever since.

Helped Youngster Along.

"Don't know if Gallagher ever got anything for his tip," says Heine. "I think he turned the trick just to help a youngster along, and it cost him $1 to get in touch with me."

And the season of 1928 found him traded, along with Lu Blue, his Portland teammate of 1920, to St. Louis. Heine was married in midseason and his added responsibility caused him to bat better than ever. In fact, he celebrated by making six hits in six consecutive times at bat in a doubleheader the day after his wedding.

Old War Horse of Prize Ring.

BY QUIN HALL.

When Santa Claus makes his rounds next week he might just as well leave a pair of boxing gloves for Johnny Dundee, because if we're not mistaken, Johnny is going to be a box fighter if he ever grows up.

Seriously speaking, Johnny has been campaigning in the cauliflower industry and it is likely that he will continue to box as long as he can lift his hand high enough to sign up for a bout or climb into a ring without the aid of crutches. Johnny is one of these oldsters who just refuses to give up, and if Ol' Father Time is going to do anything about it he'll probably have to use a baseball bat to sock Johnny down and put him entirely out of the picture.

The former featherweight king came back in New York recently and won a decision over Gaston Charles, a youthful Frenchman, and once a fighter of the Dundee type tastes victory it is difficult to keep him from continuing in his chosen profession.

The old fellow groped his way through the early rounds and in the eighth he came to life with enough of his old time magic to score a decision and while the victory has no significance in the current fistic pattern it proved that Dundee, under a handicap of old age, still has more fighting brains than 99 per cent of the present crop of so-called beak busters.

The old snap and dash for which Dundee became noted is sadly lacking but the old masterly judgment of pace is still functioning. But the ringsiders who orbed that melee hope that Dundee will not fight again. On the other hand, Dundee says that he will continue to bound off the ropes and mystify his opponents.

There are two sides to why Dundee still continues to seek bouts and refuses to stay out of the game. One has to do with the fact that he loves to fight. The other centers about the rumor that he is short on funds and refuses to have benefits staged in his behalf. Dundee built up a fortune for himself before the days of heavy gates and salted it away for his old age. The present rumor has to do with the subject of bad judgment in investments and the information seems to show that the little fellow is pretty well "cleaned." Sad, if true, because Dundee, personally, is a likable soul and when a fighter has enough sense to guard the coin when it is coming in and then loses it through an error of judgment or bad advice it is rather pitiful. If Dundee is really fighting to get a new stake he deserves to get a break because he always gave the public a run for its money when he was in his prime and deserves a lot of credit for not giving up, even now.

On the other hand it is a known fact that Dundee has always liked the game. Even when he was flush with money and yet past the age where he could expect to do his best fighting, he always visited a gym every day and kept himself in the pink of condition. And he was constantly nibbling for a chance to get in a ring. He liked to fight and he loved the glamor of it all.

It got so that Joe Humphries, the official New York announcer, when introducing Dundee from the ring always stated that Johnny had retired. This got under Dundee's hide and he used to insist that Humphries would eliminate that part of the introduction before he'd agree to be introduced.

"I haven't retired and I don't intend to for a long time," says Johnny in that husky voice of his. And it may really be a long time before he hangs up the gloves.

Hi-School Basketball

HUMBOLDT PROSPECTS DARK.

HUMBOLDT, Neb., Dec. 15—Prospects for the basketball season are rather gloomy at Humboldt. Three lettermen are back from last season and the reserve squad from last winter is depleted by graduation and possible ineligibility.

The squad numbers 32 candidates and the most promising new material includes Donald Armstrong, Dale Reid, Frank Jenkins, Walter Jenkins, Karl Schuler, Austin Glathar, Harold Hudson, Robert F. Philpot, Robert L. Philpot, Armand Hunter, Bertram Randolph, Edwin Bentley, Merriwell Hodap pand Wilber Bourne.

The lettermen back are George Dorland, Willard Randolph and Jess Fryberger. The schedule announced by Principal M. C. Huff:

Dec. 20—Falls City at Humboldt.
Jan. 2—Bratton Union at Humboldt.
Jan. 4—Pawnee City at Pawnee City.
Jan. 4—Homboldt reserves at Rule.
Jan. 4—Salem at Salem.
Jan. 11—Stella at Humboldt.
Jan. 15—Verdon at Verdon.
Jan. 18—Shubert at Shubert.
Jan. 23—Dawson at Humboldt.
Jan. 25—Bratton Union at Bratton Un.
Jan. 29—Peru Prep at Humboldt.
Feb. 1—Pawnee City at Humboldt.
Feb. 5—Stella at Stella.
Feb. 8—Shubert at Humboldt.
Feb. 15—Falls City at Falls City.
Feb. 20—Salem at Humboldt.
Feb. 22—Dawson at Dawson.

STROMSBURG, Neb., Dec. 15 — Coach STROMSBURG, Neb., Dec. 14—Coach Oberhauser has sounded the basketball call at Stromsburg high school and a squad of 20 candidates has reported. Five lettermen were lost by graduation last spring and the Stromsburg coach faces the task of grooming a new quintet. The schedule:

Dec. 19—Central City at Central City.
Jan. 11—Benedict at Stromsburg.
Jan. 18—David City at David City.
Jan. 19—Benedict at Benedict.
Jan. 23—Osceola at Stromsburg.
Jan. 25—Exeter at Stromsburg.
Feb. 1—Clarks at Stromsburg.
Feb. 6—Osceola at Osceola.
Feb. 8—Waco at Waco.
Feb. 15—Silver Creek at Stromsburg.
Mar. 1—Clarks at Clarks.

DOANE SEEKING GUARDS.

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 15—Coach Roy Pierce is seeking guards for his Doane college basketball team this week. There is an abundance of forwards and a number of boys trying out for center. Guard material, however, is scarce.

Men from the 1928 squad reporting this season include Captain France, Lauritsen and Weatherholt; centers, Scheer, Smith, Kind, Campbell, Seder, forwards; Spielman Culver, Sereck, Pitton, guards.

New men of promise include Werner, Parker, Peterson, Lamborn, forwards; Willet, center; Aller, Osborne, Davis, Nash, guards.

WEEPING WATER HI WINNER.

WEEPING WATER, Neb., Dec. 15—Weeping Water high won a 13-7 victory over Papillion last night. Weeping Water is scheduled to play at Springfield next Tuesday evening.

WACO RALLY BEATS GARLAND.

WACO, Neb., Dec. 15—Waco high basketeers rallied in the second half last night to beat Garland, 24 to 15. Garland led 11-10 at half-time. The Garland reserves edged out the Waco seconds, 14 to 13.

SUCKER PICKING RISKY BUSINESS

Many a Fighting Guy Has Learned Danger Lurks In Easy Marks.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Pete Latzo has joined that vast army of ringmen who mutter grimly the advice: "Never pick on a seeming sucker."

The estimable Peter either never had heard or refused to listen to that bit of wisdom exuded by the oldtimers and thus he sustained a broken jaw, lost perhaps $50,000 in prospective fights and may have wrecked his career.

Only a few brief weeks ago Latzo was offered an outing against Jimmy Braddock of Jersey. Pete knew in advance that the bout wouldn't draw much and that he wouldn't grow very rich as the result of his endeavors. But Pete looked at it this way:

Braddock Just a Sucker.

"Braddock's only a sucker for me. Fighting him will be just a warm-up for the others and no matter how little I get it will be easy pickin's."

So Pete took the match.

And Braddock broke Pete's jaw.

Pete got $700 for the fight, part of which went to his manager and another part for expenses.

It will cost Pete $1,000 or more in doctor bills. Furthermore, Pete has had to cancel battles with Charlie Belanger, Joe Anderson, George Courtney and Tuffy Griffiths—four duels that would have netted him $50,000.

Jaw May Never Heal.

There is no certainty that his jaw ever will heal so that it won't crumble under the easiest of blows.

All this happened because Latzo picked on a "sucker," as he thought, and aspired to pick up a little change.

Jack Dempsey considered Willie Meehan a "sucker" late in 1918. He took the match, a benefit affair, and never trained. Beyond all that, he went into the ring with Willie with an almost useless left hand.

Meehan Fooled Dempsey.

Willie promptly beat Jack to a four-round decision and that defeat almost cost Dempsey his chance at Jess Willard.

They told Jim Corbett that Tom Sharkey was a "sucker" back in the days when Jim was champion. Jim took the folks' word for it. He agreed to meet Tom in a four-rounder and never trained a single minute for the fight.

Tom, a lion-hearted character, a man of limitless energy and bulldog aggressiveness, made so terrific a fight of it that the best Jim could get was a draw.

"If that mixup had been scheduled for six rounds," related Jim, "I'd have fallen down from exhaustion before the finish came."

John L. and Tug Wilson.

John L. Sullivan was accused of dodging Tug Wilson, the said accusation being made by Wilson. John L. took a look at Wilson about half his size, and figured that there was the biggest small-sized sucker in the world. So he agreed to take on Wilson in a handicap match—promised to knock out Wilson in four rounds.

Imagine John's surprise when Wilson was up on his feet at the end of the duel and collected a handsome bonus—at John's expense.

Jeffries and Armstrong.

Jim Jeffries thought Bob Armstrong was so much of a sucker that he agreed in 1898 to knock out Armstrong and another fighter in the same ring on the same night.

Armstrong went the full route with Jeff and Jeff was so badly bunged up that he didn't take on the second man. They hooted Jeff out of New York because of his poor showing and it took him a long, long time to live down the "razzing" over his exhibition against a "sucker."

Jack Learned His Lesson.

"Meehan cured me of the 'sucker' notions I used to have," says Dempsey. "After that I came unswervingly to the belief that the only sucker in the world is the fellow on the floor who has just had a referee yell 'ten' over him."

And Latzo murmurs "amen."

MEYER BACK TO GRIFFITH TEAM

Washington Club Trades String Players For Third-Sacker.

BOSTON, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—In a trade for five high class players, Buddy Myer stellar Red Sox shortstop, goes to the Washington Senators, according to an announcement tonight by Bob Quinn, president of the Red Sox.

Horace Lisenbee, right-handed pitcher; Aleck Gaston, one of the best backstops in the American league; Bob Reeves and Grant Ellis, infielders, and an outfielder named Bigelow come to the Sox from Washington in exchange for Myer.

Confirmation of the trade was received from Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators, late this afternoon. No money was involved in the trade, according to Quinn.

First Offer Rejected.

Griffith had originally proposed a number of mediocre players and money for Myer. However Bill Carrigan, manager of the Red Sox, wanted players, the Red Sox owner declared.

Quinn said he thought the trade was off, until receipt of the confirmation late today.

Lisenbee was sent to the Minneapolis club last year on option, as was Grant Gillis. Gaston and Reeves were regular members of the Senators, while Bigelow had been sent to the Birmingham club on option.

With the acquisition of Aleck Gaston, the Red Sox will have a battery comprised of two brothers. A month ago, announcement was made of the purchase of Milton Gaston, right-handed hurler, from the St. Paul club of the American association.

CAMPUS WAS TRACK.

The campus of Stanford university is located on the former site of the famous race track founded by the late Leland Stanford, sr., in 1876, to experiment in the cross-breeding of thoroughbred racers and the American trotting strain. He had 70 professional trainers on his 9,000 acre stock farm.

Lexington Gridders Compil e Fine Record.

Lexington high school was undefeated during the 1928 football season, although held to tie scores by Omaha Tech and Gothenburg. Members of the Lexington squad:
Lower row—Parkhurst, Hanson, Saehlenou, Ransdell, George, Robinson, McMillan.
Middle roy—Coach Bryan Harrell, Kopf, Swanson, Nelson, Taylor, Wallace, Barrett.
Upper row—Pinkerton, Captain Milroy, Jeffrey, Spear, Meyer, Shaw, Chadwick, Stuckey.

"Goalie" In Hockey Takes Punishment

BY AL DEMAREE.

Last summer I indulged in a little discussion with Mike Gonzales, the Chicago Cubs catcher, on just who took the most punishment and which position was the most dangerous, the catcher on a baseball team or the goalie on a ice hockey team. We finally decided the goal tender's job was the toughest to life and limb, as he has to stop the puck with all parts of his anatomy while the catcher can usually stop the ball with his hands.

A goalie's injuries are mainly caused by stopping the puck with his face or head while the catcher's occur from foul tips that hit his "meat" hand.

"Chief" Meyers, the old Indian catcher, once "wished" an injury on himself during the world series of 1913.

Manager John McGraw had peeved the Indian by insisting that he catch a double header after the pennant had been clinched.

"I hope I get a split finger and can't catch the world series games," said the Chief to me just before the series started.

By a strange coincidence, "Chief" got his wish. At the beginning of the first game, a foul tip hit him on the thumb and it required five stitches to sew up the wound and the big Indian watched the entire series from the dugout.

The Way Side Tee.

BY GRANTLAND RICE.

Several golf widows have written in, asking for suggestions along the line of Christmas gifts that might appeal to a golfer.

Several golf widowers have also made the same request. Today there are about as many golf widowers as there are golf widows. And often enough the female of the species is more virulent than the male.

Something connected with golf undoubtedly makes an ideal gift for a golfer. Golfers are still golfing in their dreams, even when the snow is on the turf. Here are a few suggestions that might help:

1. A stuffed dummy, arranged in an attentive attitude, who will listen for hours at time to a full description of every shot played, without attempting any counter attack.

2. A new golf story that isn't fourteen years old.

3. An opponent or a partner for the next year who won't say, "You lifted your head on that one," or "You took a peek" every time you flub one.

4. Some form of relaxation powders that won't leave you four times stiffer that a hydrant as you address the ball.

5. A device that will present a golfer from throwing his weight forward before the club head picks up any momentum.

6. A partner or an opponent who doesn't try to show you how to correct a certain fault—even thought he can't break 95.

7. An automatic attachment to the locker room telephone that will say, "Oh, he left twenty minutes ago and ought to be home any minute now."

8. A caddie more interested in looking for a lost ball than in whistling or in discussing Spinoza with his mates.

9. A brand of golf ball that hates and despises bunkers.

10. A pass to the electric chair for an opponent who says "Tough luck; I'm sorry," when you drive out of bounds or plunk on ein a pond.

There are probably more gifts for golfers than any other tribe. There are several dozen varieties planned for the duffer who has to inhale some form of golf while snow is on the ground. For there is no ther bug quite as violently infected as the golf bug. He will wall with a crash for anything that pertains to the game that drives him into cuckoo country from April to December. A golf book, a club, a box of balls, a putting device, a trick cure for slicing, a pivoting machine—any device that has some remote connection with his sport is sufficient to start him crooning.

Almost any average golfer ought to be able to prune away nine or ten strokes from his score, but 90 per cent of those who have checked upon the situation will discover their scores through the late season about where they were a year ago. The average golfer doesn't seem to change his ways to any great extent, but the chance for improvement is always there. The trouble is that most of them overlook the essentials—the fundamentals—and tie themselves into knots over the unimportant frills. And the first of all fundamentals is to keep control of the club head through the hands. This is one retail that some 4,000,000 golfers might consider at greater length through the long winter evenings on ahead.

Defeat of 'Tuffy' Griffith Tragedy of Ring

Failed Learn Lesson of What to Do When Floored By Opponent

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16—Gerald Ambrose, otherwise "Tuffy" Griffith, had everything a fighter needs to achieve enduring greatness—everything, except the knowledge of how to conduct himself when unceremoniously splattered upon the canvas.

The men who tutored this young fellow in jabs and hooks, crosses and uppercuts, feints and side steps, overlooked schooling him in one thing. And that blunder cost the kid a fight, made him a knockout victim and stopped him right on the threshold of Tommy Loughran's championship abode.

Taught to Take Dive.

Way back in my younger years, I wandered into a gymnasium, small and obscure, with only two fighters in the whole place and an old timer refereeing their bout. All of a sudden he yelled:

"Take a dive, Bill."

One of the youths promptly relaxed and flopped to the floor. The old-timer leaned over him, and yelled:

"Now look around—look for the other man. Now you've got him spotted! Fine! The count is 'five.' Start picking yourself up—now it's 'six.' That's fine—get on one knee. Now it's 'seven.' Look at your corner for instructions—now look at your opponent again. Now it's 'eight.' Get ready to leap up—and keep your eye on the other guy. Nine—get up."

Knew What 'Twas About.

The procedure was strange, unique and provocative of curiosity. Waiting until the bout was over, I approached the old-timer and asked:

"What was that all about?"

"I'm teaching those kids one of the most important of all things necessary to fistic greatness," he answered. "These hifalutin' teachers of today aren't doing it. They just tell a kid how to win fights. I'm teaching my boys not only how to win, but how to keep from losing.

"Any guy that's on his feet and not hurt knows what to do. But when that bird gets bumped on the chin and hits the floor and hasn't been taught what to do in that crisis, he is liable to blow the fight right then and there.

Drill and More Drill.

"When a man goes down under a blow he is hurt—he is confused—he isn't clear in the brain. If you've drilled him and drilled him as to what to do in such an emergency, he will do it by instinct. He will take the full count and when he gets up he will be facing the oncoming enemy—he won't be risking a charge from behind."

The fate of "Tuffy" Griffith the other night brought back memory of that old-timer. And it proved the solid truth of his theory.

"Tuffy" Untaught.

No one ever had taught Griffith what to do when he landed on the floor. Facing Jimmy Braddock, he was sent slithering in the resin for the first time. A panic hit him. This was a new experience—a desperate one! What should he do? If the old man had been his teacher, "Tuffy" would have known what to do.

He would have taken it easy, climbed leisurely into a kneeling position, looked to his corner for instructions, located the exact spot where Braddock was standing, taken "nine" and then jumped up, faced the Braddock rush, stemmed it and perhaps have gone on to victory.

Got Up Too Quickly.

But, as it happened, Griffith hit the floor bounced around, got up all rattle-brained and couldn't find Braddock until Braddock had banged him some savage jolts and floroed him again.

When Griffith went down the second time, the story was the same as on the occasion of his first meeting with the canvas. He climbed up, met another attack without knowing where it was coming from—and down he went a third time.

Lacked One Vital Thing.

Boxer's tutors might learn a lesson themselves from the tragic fate of "Tuffy" Griffith, who had everything—except the knowledge that a fighter needs when he runs into a vicious jolt and bounces onto the floor. Lacking that one seemingly inconsequential bit of knowledge, Griffith was knocked out instead of being now the the outstanding challenger for the light heavyweight title.

The eight American league clubs will try out 72 young ball players in the spring. A few of them are not really youngsters, for they have been up before.

Jones of Cornell is the only college runner to win the eastern cross country event three times. Cox of Penn State failed this fall to make it a third victory.

By advise of his physician, Mike Thompson, for year a prominent football referee, has been serving only in less strenuous roles, such as headlinesman and field judge.

Youngstown and South Bend have expressed interest in the Central league, which has been a six-club circuit.

Russ Crane the new Illinois football captain is a heavyweight boxer of great promise. Illinois turned out Les Marriner, who is now one of the big fellows in the race for the title.

Earl Clark best back in the Rocky Mountain conference may get an appointment to West Point.

Connecticut Aggies played in three tie games in 1928. Five other eastern schools, Princeton, Lafayette, Holy Cross, Cornell and Washington & Jeff, were in two each.

Obdurate Parent All But Wrecked Goslin's Career

BY CAMPAIGNER.

If Leon Goslin's father had had his way about it, a great batsman and outfielder would have been lost to baseball. But Goslin, Sr., had in Goslin, Jr., a son whom he scarcely

In fact, when Leon was assigned to keeping the cows out of the corn and tomatoes one day, when only 12 years old, he passed up the cows to play baseball.

"When I came back", admits the man who carried off the American league batting championship in 1928 "the cows were just where they should not have been and I got mine. But" he added. "Dad was not always able to catch me and I managed to get into a game now and then."

Salem's Star Pitcher.

As the years passed, "Goose" played hookey often enough to become the star pitcher of the Salem, N. J. team, but Dad still registered strenuous opposition to his neglecting work about tthe farm in order to play baseball. But there came a day when Salem was to play its most important game of the season and Goslin, Sr., had declared Leon was to stay on the farm and work. Moreover, he was going to see he did.

The Salem manager, however, made a trip out to the farm and orated thus:

"Mr. Goslin, by refusing to allow Leon to pitch for us tomorrow, you are neglecting a chance to put Salem upon the map. The eyes of the nation will be centered on Salem to morrow and if you refuse, there is no telling what will become of the United States."

"Dad" Gave Consent.

Of course, Dad said "Yes," otherwise, I would not be writing this yarn and Heine Manush of the St. Louis Browns would have won the batting championship this year.

Bill McGowan, now an American league umpire, worked behind the plate in that game and so impressed was he with Goslin's prowess upon the rubber and at the bat he sent off a message to the manager of the Columbia, S. C., team of the Sally league that read thus:

"Guarantee this boy will win games for you and that big league clubs will want him inside of two years."

Shifted to Outfield.

Well, Pitcher Goslin did win six games for Columbia, but lost five, and his manager figured that because of his batting, he was much more valuable as an outfielder and an outfielder he became, with the result that Washington bought him the following year when "Goose" batted .390.

A .300 hitter he has been ever since, even in the two world series in which he participated. What's more, his dad is proud of his baseball laurels and laughs when he thinks how he tried to persuade his boy to give up the diamond for the farm. It's a pretty fair-sized farm, by the way, that Goslin, Sr., owns down in the lower end of New Jersey, 500 acres all told, given up to fancy live stock.

Goslin, Jr., also gets a good laugh out of the action of American league pitchers.

Dusted Him Off.

"For several years," says Goose. "They dusted me off persistently and now and then they got me sore. I remember how I all but got into a fist fight occasionally when some pitcher kept throwing them at my head. But they merely made me a better hitter. I got so I could drive those bean balls out of the lot. They thought I did not have the courage (only Goose did not use the word "courage"), but I showed them they could not drive me back and now they let me alone."

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.

NO REST FOR THE WEARY.

The Western conference has apparently decided that one football game is about the same as any other and the only system is t oplunge in neck high and keep swimming through heavy surf oll the fall.

The idea is to open at top speed in early October and keep going as long as you can stand up. It may be just as good as any other plan. If you are to be beaten you at least are beaten by a big team.

Take Ohio State's dainty menu—Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Navy and Illinois!

How many coaches would like to see that dish planted before them?

Or take Wisconsin's case—Colgate, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Iowa, Purdue, Chicago and Minnesota. The others are just about the same.

Suppose, for example, Princeton played Pennsylvania, Rartmuoth, Army, Navy, Harvard and Yale? This schedule would be about on a par with the conference schedules.

Notre Dame, of course, keeps to her hard march—the hardest schedule, year in and year out, that any team faces. But they can't build schedules much tougher than the Western conference hands every one of its 10 teams.

In addition to battling withont another, where a championship game may be played the first week in October, they lug in Army, Notre Dame, Princeton, Pittsburgh, Washington, Navy and several others.

Brown, it might be remembered, had a much finer season than the attending publicity showed. Brown lost only one game, which is all you can ask from any outfit.

OHIO STATE'S NEW LEADER.

Dear Sir: Ohio State university will announce the appointment of Sam Willaman as the successor to Dr. John Wilce as Buckeye football director. Willaman is an Ohio graduate and played one year under the man he succeeds.

Willaman has been coaching for more than 12 years, and for the last eight in the collegiate field. After winning success as a high school coach in Ohio, he went to Ames, Iowa, where he gave that college several winning elevens. Two years ago he returned to Ohio State as Dr. Wilce's chief assistant.

Willaman is a shrewd football man, with ability to get close to his players. He is expected to make a good showing at Ohio, although he faces a tough schedule of seven major games in 1929. If his team wins five of those contests he can be rated as a successful leader.

It was while at Ames that Willaman had his quarterback pull one of the smartest stunts the game has seen in a long time. Ames was playing Drake and had scored a touchdown and kicked the extra point. Then, when Drake drove Ames back into his own territory, Johnny Behm, the Iowa quarterback, made three intentional safetis to win by on point. Or that's the way the story goes, at any rate. BUCKEYE BELL.

THE OLD BATTLE AGAIN.

Chicago's Cubs and New York's Giants have about as good a shot at the National league pennant this next year as any other platoon. This means keener rivalry than ever— rivalry that goes back more than 20 years, to Brown and Mathewson, Chance and McGraw, Tinker and Evers, Devlin and the rest.

The addition of Hornsby will give the Cubs a great chance. Several of the new Giant stars have become seasoned enough to add more stuff to the club. With an even break in luck these two ancient rivals should be under the same cloud of dust when thye swing down the stretch.

"Here's a tip to the eastern picked for the annual coast game," writes F. H. "The wetsern team will stop Strong, just as it stopped Caldwell and the western pass defense will make Harpster likk like an ordinary quarterback and an ordinary passer." Many things can happen in a football game. This may be true. But the coast will be willing to admit that two pretty fair football players have arrived when they get a look at Strong and Harpster, whatever the final score. They may look no whit better than Carroll and Maple, but Carroll and Maple will also do fairly well when some one is paging football players.

Second Tunneys and second Dempseys flock along about as often as second Ty Cobbs and second Babe Ruths.

Also one of the finest ways to slice is to face toward the left of the course and think about slicing. It hasn't failed yet out of several million fair trials.

KNIGHTS OF CUE READY COMPETE

3-Cushion and Pocket Billiard Experts to Play for Titles.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—All the original qualifiers for competition in the coming world championship tournament at three-cushion and pocket billiards to be played at Orchestra hall, Chicago, Dec. 17, 18 and 19, have sent in their entries, according to the announcement of the National Billiard association headquarters.

The three-cushion contestants will be John Layton, national champion, Sedalia, Mo; Willie Hoppe, New York; Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia; and Gus Copulos, Detroit.

The pocket contestants will be Ralph Greenleaf, national champion, New York; Edwin Rudolph, Chicago; Frank Taberski, Schenectady; and Pasquale Natalie, Baltimore.

It was at first thought that at least one and possibly two of the qualifying contestants would not enter except under certain conditions named by them. With this possibility, the N. B. A. officials requested the players next in line for qualification to be in readiness to compete in case there were any deflections from the ranks of the original qualifiers.

The fact that the association refused to make any exceptions to the rules as signed by the players prior to the last national championship tournament and, in addition, the attractiveness of the prize list, were factors which caused the players threatening to hold out, to reconsider.

The first to arrive in Chicago to practice for the tournament was National Champion John Layton of Sedalia, Mo. Otto Reiselt arrived on Tuesday, Gus Copulos of Detroit has advised that he will be here early and Willie Hoppe will be on hand as soon as he completes a short exhibition tour in territory around Chicago.

Preliminary Matches.

Allen Hall and Augie Kieckhefer have arranged a series of matches with Reiselt and Copulos prior to the tournament as a part of the latter players training program. Earl Lookebaugh and Len Kenny will also be on hand to give the contestants some stiff competition prior to the tournaments.

The immediate plans of the pocket contests are not definitely known. National Champion Ralph Greenleeaf is on an exhibition tour of the middlewest. Rudolph doubtless will do his training in New York, and Taberski probably will do his practising in Schenectady where he conducts a large recreation establishment. Natalie, who is a billiard instructor for the National Billiard association, will continue in this work until the opening of the tournament.

Greeley Hi Team Undefeated.

The Greeley high school football team finished an all-victorious football season Thanksgiving day, scoring 429 points to 13 by opponents. The squad:
Lower row—Donovan, M. Pelley, Warner, L. Pelley, Connelly, Brannen.
Middle row—McKnight, Foltz, Murphy, Conlon, Harrahill, McDonald, Fitzpatrick.
Upper row—Dugan, Toohey, Cronin, Rasch, Gannon, Gray, Scott, Coach C. C. Weinerth.

TRACE ANCESTRY.

The two Argentine Creole horses that appeared in the last national horse show in New York were bred from parent stock originally obtained from the South American Indians and are direct descendants of the equines brought over from Spain some 400 years ago.

HIGH COACHES IN LINCOLN SESSION

Sixty Athletic Tutors Pow-wow Saturday In Capital City.

The Nebraska High School Coaches association will be revived to sponsor district and state programs, promote better fellowship among coaches and afford suitable representation in consideration of state athletic problems. This was decided at a meeting of over 60 high school coaches held in Lincoln Saturday.

Secretary Walter I. Black of the Nebraska High School Athletic association, a former coach, was selected to nominate a committee to draw up a program for the proposed association.

Met at Uni. Coliseum.

The coaches were in session at the University of Nebraska coliseum Saturday morning and afternoon talking over common problems and listening to round table discussions led by members of the university coaching staff. Athletic Director H. D. Gish presided at the meetings.

At the noon luncheon, held at the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, announcement was made of the University of Nebraska summer coaching school, which will include a two weeks' session of intensive work. The roster of coaches attending the Saturday program included:

BASKET SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

considerable service at a forward position last season and has been looking good in the early workouts this month.

Fisher, a former Lincoln high captain, was one of the best shots on the freshman combination last year.

The Squad of Centers.

Center aspirants include Don McClay Auburn; Cliff Jensen, Omaha; Glenn Munn, Lincoln; Carl Olsen, Lincoln

McClay, a rangy cagester, is another of the promising sophomore recruits. His work featured the showing made by an excellent Auburn team during his high school days. He was leading scorer on the frosh squad last season and his height, eye for the basket and floor work promise to make him a valuable member of the varsity five this winter. Jensen did his prepping at Omaha Tech. He has height and a good eye for points. Jensen probably will divide his attention between center and forward posts this season.

Munn and Olson were members of the 1928 varsity. Munn rose to the heights in several games last winter pulling more than one contest out of the fire. Olson was used at a forward last season, but because of his floorwork has been shifted to the center and guard squares.

Veterans at Guard Posts.

The leading guards, according to early practice sessions, appear to be Elmer Holm, Omaha; Bob Krall, Grand Island; and Adolph Lewandowski, Chicago.

This trio has a season of varsity experience under its belt. Holm, co-captain on the football team, is playing his third season of varsity basketball. Krall developed fast last season and Lewandowski last year worked into a fine floor guard.

Other promising candidates on the 1929 roster include Parker, former Doane college athlete hot after a forward place; Davey, forward; Eno, center and guard; Stipsky and Hasemeister, guards.

Jim Elliott and Rogers, expected to figure in the scramble for varsity positions have been crippled by illness during the early drills.

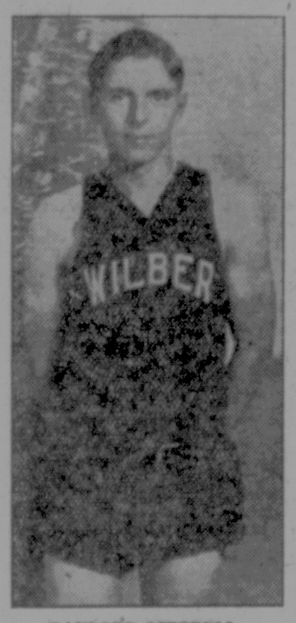

CHIP OFF BLOCK.

Jimmy Walthour, jr., nephew of the famous cyclist, succeeded in winning fifty-five places, the largest ever recorded by an amateur, in his second year of competition on the board tracks.

DOANE COLLEGE TRACK CHAMPION

Doane college athletes won the 1928 Nebraska College Athletic conference track title. The conference awards listed in the Star, Saturday, credited Hastings college with winning the cinder laurels.

Wilber Hi Captain.

GAYLORD LITTRELL.

Versatile athlete who recently was elected captain of the Wilber high school basketball team. He was one of the quarterbacks named on The Star Roll of Honor at the close of the 1928 football season. Littrell also is a track athlete.

'BIG SIX' READY FOR CAGE SPORT

Leo Dodd and Harold Hauser, centers, and Clarence McGuire and Robert Maney, guards, returning lettermen. Forest Cox, former, Newton, Kan., high school star; Tom Bishop of Oklahoma City; Carlos Fettyl, Virgil Paden and Floyd Ramsey, Eldorado, are included in Kansas' new material this year. The Jayhawkers did not elect a captain after the close of last season and will appoint one for each game this season.

Best in Years at Missouri.

Coach Edwards at Missouri has the best squad that he has had since he left Westport high school in Kansas City to come to the Tigers. Roach, Waldorf, Baker, Walsh, Craig and Ruble, all lettermen, are back this year. In Huhn, 6 feet 6 in center, Edwards hopes to develop a center that will be one of the high scorers of the conference. Morgan, a product of Newton, Kan., high school, is showing up well as forward and Thielkas, formerly a start guard on the Ivanhoe club team in Kansas City, is sure to break in many of the games. The Tigers open the season Dec. 22 with an exhibition game with Kansas in Convention hall in Kansas City.

Lester Lande, sharp shooting forward, will captain Iowa State this year. Coach Menze has Glenn Wood, center; Marrison Taylor, forward; Fred Ludwig, center and Don Wilson, forward, returning veterans. Several sophomores on the Iowa State squad are said to be showing much promise in the early season practices.

String of Husker Vets.

The Nebraska quintet will have rall, Holm, Olson, guards, Munn, giant center, and Witte Grace and Lewandowski forwards, all veterans, for a nucleus for the 1929 Husker team. Coach Black has uncovered some good sophomore material including McCloy and Rogers, forwards, and Elliott, guard, and has lost but two lettermen from last year's squad.

The Kansas Aggies have four lettermen around which to build the 1929 Wildcat team, which will be led by Ed Stradski of Kansas City, Kan. Freeman, center, Tann, forward, and Brooks, center, all are veterans. New material includes Doc Weller Olathe, Kan.; Nigro, former Kansas City high school star and letter winner in football, and Russell, also a product of the Kansas City schools.

Giants for Center Post.

One outstanding feature of the conference this year will be the height of the centers on all teams except Kansas. Nebraska has Munn, a veritable giant; Missouri has Huhn, who is near the six and a half-foot mark; Ames boasts of Wood, another towering player; Oklahoma can choose between Churchill and Shearer, either of whom is over six feet, and the Kansas Aggies have several candidates for the pivot position who stand well over six feet.

BRILLIANT GOLF BY TOM ARMOUR

Expert From East Goes Around Coast Course Six Under Par.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15—Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., flash, displayed unbeatable golf today and waltzed through the second 18-hole round of Sacramento's open golf tournament with a card of 66.

This score breaks the record of 68 on the Del Paso country club course. Par is 72. With a 74 yesterday, Armour's brilliant playing today gave him a total of 140 for the 36 holes, and so far he is leading the field. He is followed by Ed Gayer of Chicago, who went over the course in 77 today, making a total of 147 for the two days.

John Golden, New Jersey professionel, was giving Armour the closest run with a splendid 69, making his total for the first 36 holes 143, as compared to 140 credited to Armour.

Ed Loos, Pasadena, one of the leaders of the leaders of the first day's play, turned in a card of 74, bringing a total of 144 and placing him third on the list. Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., turned in a 77, totaling 147, and ranking with Gayer of Chicago.

Today's playoff started with 64 finalists out of 84 originally starting the tournament. "Wild Bill Melhorn cut eight strokes from his first score in a 70 today. His total of 148 is equalled by T. H. Cotton of London and Ed Dudley of Los Angeles.

It was ideal golfing weather today and a large gallery followed the stars around the course. The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

Michigan and Navy, poor starters, caused trouble for championship seekers before the efinish of the 1928 season.

M'LARNIN SIGNS MIX WITH GLICK

Canadian Battler Plans Come Back as Bidder For Title.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver, B. C., lightweight, and Joe Glick, Brooklyn, signed today for a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Jan. 1.

McLarnin, recently knocked out by Ray Miller in Detroit, hopes to build himself back into a contender for the lightweight or welterweight title. The hard-hitting Irish boy has had trouble making the lightweight limit of 135 pounds since he was defeated by Sammy Mandell in a title bout at the Polo grounds last spring.

McLarnin will leave for Vancouver tonight to spend the holidays at home. He will return to New York Jan. 2 to complete training here.

In his last appearance in a New York ring, McLarnin knocked out Phil McGraw, Detroit Greek, in the first round. Glick has run up a long string of victories recently and defeated Baby Joe Gans, sensational Los Angeles negro lightweight, shortly after Jack Dempsey bought part of the latter's contract.

Pair of Harps Matched.

Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, whose successful comeback has again placed him high among the contenders for the title vacated by Gene Tunney, will arrive in New York Monday to complete training for his 10-round bout with Con O'Kelly, Irish battler, who has whipped two Boston fighters, Al Friedman and Jack Gagnon, in his only two starts in this country.

The proposed bout between Jimmy Slattery and Jack Delaney, scheduled for Jan. 4, probably will have to be postponed because of an injury to Slattery's hand. Red Carr, Slattery's manager, announced today that the Buffalo boy hurt his hand in training.

Loughran In Chicago Ring.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Tommy Loughran, world's light-heavyweight champion champion boxer, completed training today for his bout with "Big Boy" Peterson of Monneapolis here Monday night.

The bout will be the Philadelphian's first start as a heavyweight. His handlers said today that if he wins by a knockout, he will relinquish the 175-pound championship and battle only heavyweights in the future.

Jack Dempsey is expected here Monday and may attend the bout. Dempsey is displaying unusual interest in the crop of heavyweight contenders.

Peterson is regarded as a third-rater and is not expected to give Loughran serious competition, although he has been showing improvement during his work outs here.

A second feature of the card will bring Joey Sangor and Armand Santiago together. Sangor, considered one of the best featherweights in the game, is scheduled to fight Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, at Milwaukee, Jan. 1.

PUTS SCOUTING SYSTEM ON PAN

Eastern Director Lashes Plan of Getting Info. On Grid Games.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Scouting of college football teams is termed "unethical" and a system in which teams are placed at a disadvantage and spectators deprived of seeing a "star" at his best by R. C. Kichline, athletic director of Ursinus college, at the seventh annual meeting today of the Middle Atlantic States collegiate athletic conference at the Hotel Adelphia.

"The high ethical standards of football," said Kichline, "which have been, in a large measure, the attracting influence for the huge crowds which follow the game, are broken down by one team stealing the other's 'stuff.'

"There are some who feel that scouting is of great importance in winning games. However, I doubt if scouting benefits to any large extent the team receiving the plays of the opposition."

Cage Sport Lull At College View

The "flu" epidemic has necessitated closing the high school at College View, bringing a lull in basketball activities of the suburban cage Robson, it has also caused the post-outfit. According to Coach Merritt ponement of the Sterling encounter, scheduled to be played in College View Wednesday, Dec. 20. It is possible, however, that the two schools will arrange a later date for the contest.

This leaves College View without a game until early in January, when the Adventist tribe will entertain Cathedral high. The date for the game will be either Jan. 5 or 9, the exact time to be announced later.

Graham, a guard, has been named by the College View squad to captain the team during the season. Graham is a senior and a new man on Robson's cage outfit. He replaces Howell, who originally was elected captain but recently dropped out of school.

Scott, center, Chase, a guard, and Offill, a forward, are looking like some of the best prospects for positions on the basket squad. Eno, a six foot one inch candidate, has been ill and unable to attend workouts during the past week.

DUBOIS TRIMS ELKCREEK.

DUBOIS, Neb., Dec. 15—Dubois high defeated Elk Creek in basketball last night 9 to 7, the game requiring an extra period. The Dubois reserves beat the Elk Creek seconds, 9-2.

Albaugh, Haight and Turner featured for Dubois, while Carmine stood out for Elk Creek

Sprint Champion's Tonsils Removed

GLENDALE, Calif., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)— Infected tonsils, which threatened to cut down his speed, were removed today from the throat of Frank Wykoff, national sprint champion.

The operation was performed by Dr. T. C. Young, who acts as adviser to the 19-year-old runner.

Flu Makes Hole In Cathedral's Squad

Basketball stock at Cathedral high school has received a setback in the absence of three of the outstanding cage prospects from the daily practice sessions. The three, Riley and Segabiano, forwards, and Quattrocchi, a guard, are the victims of "old man flu."

Basketball workouts have been held daily, however, and the Cathedral quintet is scheduled to play Havelock at the shoptown Wednesday evening. The contest will not only be the initial affair for both schools but the open game of the Greater Lincoln league. Considering the absences, the probable Cathedral lineup will include Messineno and Van Horn, forwards; Captain Murphy, center; and Coniglio, guard. The other guard has not been determined but it is hoped that Quattrocchi will be in condition to play.

The Havelock game is the only Cathedral contest before the first of the year. The next fray is scheduled with College View on Jan. 9 at the suburban school. The entire Cathedral cage schedule will be announced late this week, and it is hoped that a contest can be carded for the first week in January before the College View game.

BEARS PREPARE START TO DRILL

Berkeley Footballers to Begin Workout Out This Week.

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Coach Nibs Price of the California Bears, scheduled to uphold the honors of the west against Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado in the annual Pasadena Rose Bowl football game Jan. 1, commenced preparations today for resumption of practice Dec. 19.

The Bear squad will entrain for Pasadena on December 20 to train for the battle.

Price has held no practices since Nov. 24, when his team played Stanford to a 13-13 tie in the far west's annual "big game." Final examinations have occupied his squad's time for the past two weeks.

This season's game will mark the third time in eight years that a University of California eleven has represented the west in the Pasadena game.

Bears Smeared Buckeyes.

In 1921 one of Andy Smith's famous "wonder teams" smeared Ohio State with the aid of a 73-yard world record forward pass from "Brick" Muller to "Brodie" Stevens. The following year the Bears played Washington & Jefferson to a 0-0 tie.

It will be Georgia Tech's first game in the Rose Bowl, but westerners saw plenty of southern football on New Year's day, 1926, and again in 1927, when Alabama beat Washington, 20-19, and tied Stanford, 7-7, to know that southern football can hold its own with the best of them.

Two very similar types of teams will play each other this year, according to those who have seen the Golden Bears and the Golden Tornado play. Both teams stress the fundamentals of the game—charging, blocking and tackling—and both possess exceptional defenses.

Both Smart at Passing.

Georgia Tech uses a passing game only to provide variety for her running attack. California, however, has a well executed passing game and much of her yardage this year has been on Benny Lom's long tosses.

The Georgians held Notre Dame five times within their own 20-yard line, California's goal line was not crossed by a college team before the final game of the year with Stanford

East Team On Way West.

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—The all-eastern football squad, which on Dec. 29, will meet a picked western team in the Shriners' fourth annual charity game at San Francisco, entrained for the Pacific coast tonight.

Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Washington & Jefferson put the eastern team through its first practice on the Dyche field gridiron today.

Two Carnegie Tech players, Cy Letzelder, halfback, and Toby Sweet, end, have been added to the squad to replace Ken Strong and Bob Barrabee of New York university, who were refused permission to make the trip.

PROSPECTS PERK UP AT LINCOLN

bidder for the center position. Masterson, a halfback on the football team and a member of the reserve cage squad of last season, weighs 170 pounds and exceeds the six-foot mark in height. He is especially capable at taking the tip-off, his ability to reach high into the ozone having been demonstrated frequently during the recent grid season. It will be remembered that Masterson's sensational catch of Schmitt's pass for the extra point gave Lincoln a 13-12 victory over Omaha Tech in the state mythical title fray.

George Sauer, another member of the football team and the reserve basketball squad of last year, performed his week like a strong forward possibility. Sauer is fast, has plenty of height, is a good dribbler and one of the surest basket shots on the squad.

Pair of Veterans.

Witte, Winterhalter and Zinnecker are outstanding forward possibilities, the first two being the only veterans on the squad this year. At the guard positions, Joy and Bauer look like the two foremost players, although Speidell and Martin are certain to be on hand when the spoils are divided.

One of the season's finds, however, is Lyman Lindsey, a forward, who shows fine promise. Lindsey has been given a number of tryouts the past wee., and was making good in all of them. He is the state junior tennis champion. Phil Lichtenstiger, who has been interchanging at forward and guard, is another promising member of the Browne aggregation.

Height will cause little worry for the team this year, Sauer, Masterson, Winterhalter, Speidell, Joy, Zinnecker and Lindsey are all six-footers or players with an inch or two edge over the six-foot mark. Witte, Bauer and Martin lack height, but make up for it in speed and playing ability.

In recognition of his great success with this year's team, alumni of Wisconsin presented Head Coach Thistlethwaite with a watch.

Havelock High Has Good Football Season.

Havelock high school has just closed another successful football season. Playing a strenuous schedule, the Boilermakers made a good showing, losing only one game in Greater Lincoln league competition. The squad:

First row—J. Frueauf, Dennis Johnson, Howard Chidester, Captain Corwin Hulbert, James Ross, Duane Riggs, Austin Mellon.

Third row—Captain-elect Radmore Webster, Gus Frueauf, Charles Lehman, Supt. Evan Flory, Coach Paul Delaporte, Bob Harrison, Ed Finning, Charles Bourke.

FINNISH RUNNER GOES IN HIDING

Nurmi Crosses Atlantic; Quickly Disappears From View.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Surrounded by a great deal of mystery, Paavo Nurmi of Finland, the world's greatest middle distance runner, arrived in New York today on the S. S. Rochambeau and immediately disappeared from public view.

Nurmi remained at the pier only long enough to collect his baggage and deny that he planned to turn professional.

"I'm not professional; I'm amateur," Nurmi said.

To all other questions, pressed upon him, Nurmi only repeatedly uttered:

"No speak English."

Even Hugo Quist, who managed Nurmi's tour of this country in 1924 and 1925, had difficulty locating the flying Finn because the ship docked earlier than expected and the runner lost no time in eluding reporters.

Tex Willing Sign Him.

Ostensibly, Nurmi is here as a representative of a Finnish auto company, but he will keep in training and probably make several appearances in indoor meets this winter. His first appearance probably will be late in February.

Whatever plans Nurmi has for turning professional, if he has any, probably will be determined by his drawing power as an amateur.

Tex Rickard, who signed El Ouafi the Olympic marathon champion, and Joie Ray to professional contracts is ready to sign Nurmi, but only on a percentage basis.

Offers Percentage Only.

"I will give Nurmi a percentage of his earnings," Rickard said, "but I will not give him a guarantee."

Nurmi did not pay his respects to the Amateur Athletic union as expected, and neither did he visit at Madison Square Garden nor talk with any of Rickard's officials.

It was said Nurmi carried a permit from his country's amateur athletic body to run in the United States, but this was not verified.

The A. A. U. will not permit Nurmi to appear here as an amateur unless the Finnish authorities grant him permission.

Plans Visit West Coast.

While in the United States, Nurmi will visit Los Angeles to select quarters for the Finnish Olympic team at the 1932 Olympic games. He is captain of the 1932 Finnish Olympic team.

Nurmi was severely criticised by passengers on the Rochambeau for his actions during the voyage. It was said Nurmi refused to appear at the ship's concert for the benefit of the seaman's fund and even repulsed the purser who extended the invitation.

The runner would take a few turns around the deck, during the trip, each morning and then retire to his quarters, where he remained most of the voyage. It was impossible, the purser said, to get him into the main salon.

Six Times a Champion.

After the boat docked, Nurmi refused to allow the stewards to even handle his baggage, consisting of four pieces of luggage. Nurmi and his masseur, Tokyo Hakoniemi, carried the luggage from the boat.

Nurmi wore a blue suit, soft grey hat and blue overcoat, and appeared to be in good physical condition.

Six times Olympic champion, Nurmi has a chance to set an all-time record if he remains amateur and competes in the 1932 games. He won the 10,000 meters and the cross country in the 1920 games, the 1,500 and 5,000 meters and the cross-country in the 1924 games, and 10,000 meters in the 1928 games, besides finishing second in the 5,000 meters and the steeple chase.

He holds the world's record for the 1,500, 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 meters, the one, three, four and five miles and the half hour run.

Brass Tacks

The candidates, active or passive, with whom Nebraska is negotiating and the salary which the Nebraska management stands ready to pay are details which the committee has not divulged. Quite correctly, such information should continue to be a sealed book. Competent coaches are not procurable by going out on the street corners or the campus to broadcast one's plans.

Nor is the hunt for the sort of coach Nebraskans are hopeful may be landed for the vacancy a trivial affair. Nebraska, it seems to the writer, is entitled to a coach whose capabilities rate him on a par with the most proficient in the game. The physical material for Cornhusker teams, year after year, ranks with the best and if Cornhusker football is to be maintained on a high plane the coach must measure up to the quality of that material.

If such a coach is procurable—and the committee's members are hopeful that the goal is not beyond their reach—football at Nebraska will enjoy increasing prosperity. The game has grown in popularity by leaps and bounds during recent years and Nebraska has kept in step with the procession. The public has demonstrated its interest by contributing a liberal patronage to Nebraska's games—a patronage which has gained for Cornhuskerland recognition as one of the live football centers of the gridiron realm.

Taken as a mass, Cornhusker fandom probably has no special interest in any specific candidate. The chief wish on the part of the public is that the committee's choice may fall on one who is equal to the possibilities of Nebraska squads—a coach who is, first, a natural leader of men; a coach who knows the modern game and how to teach it; a coach who is pleased to cast his lot with Nebraska; a coach who, in time, may like Nebraska so well that he will gladly identify himself with Cornhusker football and become a fixed institution, such as Bob Zuppke in Illinois football or "Indian" Schulte, Nebraska's much revered mentor in track.

It will be conceded that the Zuppkes and the Schultes aren't growing loose on the bushes, so the business of hooking up with the class of coach whose services Nebraska hopes to engage is worthy of the committee's most conscientious efforts. Meantime, the personnel of the committee lends encouragement to the conviction that Nebraskans will not be disappointed when the final report is in and the identity of their choice formally is spread on the record.

Magnates of the Western baseball league are wedged tight in their annual winter log-jam. Amarillo, Texas, after two seasons of fussing around with the Western, has declared itself out of the running and Club-owner Doane, purchaser of the franchise, is casting about for a sucker town in which to locate his team.

The hopes of the Western that it might be permitted to exploit Kansas City, Kas., were crushed at the recent national association convention in Toronto. The American association stood pat in demanding that its territorial rights in Kansas City, Mo., be respected inside the 10-mile limit, so the door to Kansas City, Kas., still is barred against entry by the Dale Gear loop.

Owner Doane, according to press dispatches, is flirting with St. Joseph, Mo., asking fandom to come across with an $8,000 subscription, bonus, donation or what you will. Failing to get over in Joetown, Mr. Doane hints that he may point his ambitions in the direction of Sioux City, Ia., which is reputed to be undergoing an attack of baseball fidgets.

But whether St. Joseph or Sioux City is the victim of a stinging has nothing to do with the patent fact that the Western league, as operated during recent years, persistently has gone from bad to worse. Its circuit lacks stability for the simple reason that the men whose money is tied up in franchises have flaunted the basic principle of sound business that the income at the box office shall exceed the outgo in salaries to players and other necessary expenses. The future of the Gear circuit is obscured in a haze of doubt.

KESTING CHOSEN NORFOLK CAPTAIN

NORFOLK, Neb., Dec. 15.—Paul Kesting was named captain of the Norfolk 1929 football team. He is a tackle.

Seniors issued letters were Captain Carrico, Williams, Cockburn, Yenney, Slaughter, Benning, Manke, Edholm and Ireland. Underclassmen receiving the awards were Eidridge, Schmiedeke, Royal, Stearns, Thenhaus, Kesting, Timberly, Taylor and Rottler. Thirty second team men were awarded honor letters.

Ed Perry and Robert Carter received manager letters.

FIGHTER SOUR IF 'REP' SLANDERED

Von Porat Proves It By Accusing Promoter of False Publicity.

BY DIXON STEWART.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(U.P.)—Years of simple faith in copy book maxims have been shattered by the realization that the fury of scorned women is mild compared to the wrath of boxers whose reputations have been slandered. The disillusionment is occasioned by the filing today of Otto Von Porat's $50,000 slander suit against Mique Malloy, Chicago promoter.

Von Porat, regarded as Chicago's leading heavyweight contender says his reputation was damaged by posters which Malloy distributed advertising the forthcoming fight between Tommy Loughran and "Big Boy Peterson.

Wants Damages as Balm.

Porous Otto contends posters carrying the information that "Big Boy" Peterson defeated Von Porat twice "are slanderous and unusually damaging to his (Von Porat's) reputation as a "big timer." His counsel believes $50,000 will serve as suitable balm for such an affront.

In answering the posters, Von Porat characterized Peterson as a "seventh-rate fighter who never has been seriously regarded as a contender for the heavyweight title."

Two No-Decision Bouts.

Peterson and Von Porat fought twice. Both bouts were at Minneapolis, where decisions are not allowed. Newspaper men differed as to who won and Malloy accepted the decision of those who favored Peterson, in "building up" Peterson for the bout with Loughran.

This, it seems, occasioned Von Porat great mental anguish. The declaration filed by his attorney concludes that the defendant "falsely and maliciously broadcast and posted a circular containing false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory matter" about Mr. Von Porat.

Appreciates Compliment.

Promoter Malloy was in a quandary over the suits. He understands that if he apologizes Von Porat's ruffled feelings will be smoothed and Otto's vanity appeased. But if he apologizes, the suit will be dropped. And if it is dropped, Malloy will not see his name in the public prints linked up with all that money. Malloy has a little pride himself. Admittedly he hasn't the $50,000, but he has no objections to the world thinking he has. An apology, and he'll never be able to tell his grandchildren a bedtime story winding up with, "and that was way back in 1928, when I was sued for $50,000."

Threat of Counter Suit.

After consideration, Malloy gave proof of his resourcefulness and countered with a threat of a $50,000 counter suit against Von Porat and Von Porat's manager Ed Stevenson Stevenson, according to Malloy, tore down many posters advertising the Peterson-Loughran fight, thereby injuring Malloy's chances of drawing a good house.

Stevenson and Von Porat, like Malloy, admit they don't have $50,000, but the suits and counter actions should at least solve the problem of getting all three men's names in the papers and thus partially offset the alleged insults and injuries.

MIDLAND TOSSERS GET EVEN BREAK

FREMONT, Neb., Dec. 15—Midland college's cagers broke even on their two day trip into Iowa, winning over Morningside at Sioux City Friday night, 47 to 32, after previously losing to Buena Vista at the Buena Vista contest being lost Storm Lake Thursday night, 25 to in the last 15 seconds of play when 24. Both games were fast affairs. Matzdorf, Buena Vista right guard, looped in a long fielder from midfloor.

Alexis Johnson, center, who had been held scoreless against Buena Vista, was high point man against Morningside with 14 counters, while Luther Kistler, right guard, was high tally man for the Warriors against Buena Vista with 15 points. He also gathered a dozen counters in the Morningside game to carry off high scoring honors for the trip.

Following their trip, the Midlanders disbanded for two weeks, but will resume practice the last week in December.

Murphy to Coach Wisconsin Crew

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—George "Mike" Murphy, once stroke on the University of Washington's eight-oar shell and at present freshman coach at Yale, has been signed as varsity crew coach at Wisconsin. Murphy was definitely appointed by the Badger athletic council at a special session today.

Mike Murphy is a prominent figure in intercollegiate rowing. For two years he was stroke on the great Washington crews that established remarkable records at Poughkeepsie during 1921-22. He was elected captain in his junior year and was so respected as a leader that this honor was again bestowed upon him the following spring.

LADY REFEREES.

Female referees are being urged to officiate in the games of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball association as a result of the scarcity of officials.

SOFT JOBS FOR GRID ATHLETES

Stunt of Winding 8-Day Clock Deplored By Federation.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—The National Federation of Students, in session here at the University of Missouri, late today decided to try to bring about a general college and university congress for the purpose of drawing up national athletic eligibility rules.

The closing session of the convention was featured by a discussion of athletic activities. It was led by M. A. Check, former Harvard football captain.

That student managers should have charge of athletic teams was granted, but the fact that election to this post is too often a matter of politics was condemned.

That Eight-Day Clock.

Admission was made during the discussion that some schools create easy jobs for successful football players—such as winding an eight-day clock—and the practice was scored as being unfair.

The attempt to hold an athletic eligibility congress will be brought to the attention of all schools and each will be asked to send representatives. The time, place and other such matters were not decided on.

Far West Recognized.

The far west came before the federation in a striking manner when Ursel Marver of Oregon State college was elected president and Leland Stanford university at Palo Alto, California, won the 1929 federation meeting. Miss Martha Biehle of Wellesley college was elected vice president and Max J. Chapman of Oberlin college was named treasurer.

The meeting closed tonight with a banquet addressed by Walter Williams of the University of Missouri school of journalism. After Dean Williams' address, the new foficers were installed.

DAZZLER AT POLO STRIDES TO ALTAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Tommy Hitchcock, probably the greatest of present day polo stars, was married quietly at the Hotel Plaza today to Mrs. Margaret Mellon Laughlin, nicce of the secretary of the treasury.

Their engagement was announced a few weeks ago. The honors generally expected of a couple so socially prominent in the east were entirely lacking.

Mrs. Laughlin was escorted by her father, William L. Mellon, and was unattended. Francis C. E. Hitchcock, the groom's brother, was best man. The service was performed by the Rev. Hugh Thompson Kerr, of the Shady Side Presbyterian church at Pittsburgh.

The couple will remain in the east for a short time, after which they will start on a honeymoon tour to Honolulu.

WOLVERINES STEP ON PENN TOSSERS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Michigan's basketball team came from behind tonight to defeat Pennsylvania, 34 to 21.

It was the third straight defeat for the visiting team, which had dropped games to Miami and Ohio State earlier in the week.

Joe Schaaf, Penn captain, scored four field goals during the first few minutes of play, and with this spurt, his team led at the half, 13 to 12.

Michigan started the last half with a nine-point spurt before Penn scored again and remained in front to the end.

Drake Dokns Gophers.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Drake university cagers defeated the University of Minnesota basketball team handily tonight, winning 32 to 19. The Bulldogs showed much improvement over their form of earlier in the week and had no trouble maintaining an early lead.

GRID GRIND STILL ON DOWN IN DIXIE

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—University of Miami defeated Union university in football today, 7 to 6, although the visitors battered the Miami line and came close to scoring, only to lose the ball on fumbles several times.

Union scored first in the opening period, Stewart breaking through tackle from the three-yard line, after line plunges had brought the ball there.

Miami's touchdown came in the second quarter on a pass, O'Brien to Ashman. Ashman converted to give the margin of victory.

GIBSON ALLSET QUIT RING GAME

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Billy Gibson, former manager of Gene Tunney, again announces his retirement from the ring—this time, he says, for good. He is dickering with Jimmy Johnston in an attempt to dispose of his interest in Knute Hansen, the Dane, who fell before K. O. Christner's fist in Cleveland some time ago.

Drake Stampedes Minnesota Quint

DES MOINES, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Big Ten basketball prestige received a severe jolt here tonight when Drake outplayed and defeated the University of Minnesota team by a 32 to 21 score on the Bulldog court in the Drake field house.

The superiority of the Bulldogs was in evidence from start to finish. The Missouri valley team literally snowed the Gophers under a first half attack that ended Drake, 14; Minnesota, 4.

Monahan, Bulldog guard who made his debut in college basketball this week, played an outstanding game.

WISCONSIN FIVE EDGES OUT PITT

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 15 — (I. N. S.) — Wisconsin basketball team nosed out the University of Pittsburgh 34 to 24 here tonight, with the aid of a fast attack led by Miller, forward. Miller accounted for five field goals, Foster for three and Matthusen for three.

LOOKS TOUGH.

On the days that he is scheduled to take the mound, Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh pitcher, goes to work with his face untouched by a razor.

DAWSON ELEVEN DEFEATS HAWAII

HONOLULU, Dec. 15 — The University of Denver football team defeated the University of Hawaii in an exciting game, 13 to 12.

MERCHANT MAY BE POLICE HEAD

Grover Whalen Asked to Take Charge of New York Force.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—A police administration headed by an east side man who has grown into a knowledge of how to wear white spats, a frock coat, silk topper and to greet royalty with an easy grace, appeared the latest likelihood today as a result of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, a gambler.

Joseph Warren, long a friend of Mayor J. Walker, resigned last week because of criticism directed at the police department for their failure to solve the Rothstein murder. He resigned just after issuing a circular asking the arrest of Hyman "Gillie" Biller for the "shooting of" Arnold Rothstein.

Monday it is expteced that Grover Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's reception committee to distinguished visitors, will be appointed new police commissioner. Walker has asked Whalen to head the 16,000 metropolitan police, even though it means asking him to leave a $100,000 a year position as manager of the Wanamaker store to take over a $10,000 a year position.

Whalen is one of the best known men in New York City, but possibility of his becoming police commissioner has brought forth many chucklings from various sources. But despite Whalen's sartorial splendor and the graciousness he has acquired he is a pretty hard boiled citizen.

Was City Official.

Seven stenographers who quit work five minutes ahead of time, when he was commissioner of plants and structures can testify to that. They were "fired" because Whalen believes every city employee should give his full amount of time to duty.

Whalen was born on the east side not far from where Governor Al Smith was brought upon. He attended military school and did various works until he became a valuable secretary to Mayor Hylan. From then on he advanced through various city posts.

The Rothstein case in itself was more or less quiet today. Police said they expected Hyman Biller to surrender some time next week. Police critics said he had been missing just long enough to prepare an alibi.

Joseph Unger, who was indicated in a $2,000,000 narcotics smuggling deal, was brought to New York by federal authorities today. His arrest was brought about through names found in the private Rothstein files. He will be questioned by federal authorities who hope to learn more about what, if anthing, Arnold Rothstein had to do with financing an international narcotics group.

IDLE MEN CHEERED.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Three thousand Christmas worries were solved—or at least partially so—when that number of employes of the Chevrolet Motor Co., and the Fisher Bodies corporation were notified tonight that they could return to their jobs on Monday. The workers have been laid off since November 1.

Benny Hands Out Advice.

S-4 To Be Sunk Monday In Navy Test of Sub Raising Technique

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Sinking of the submarine S-4 off Block island Monday, in a naval test in submarine raising technique on the first anniversary of its tragic plunge to the ocean's bottom off Provincetown., Mass. with a loss of forty lives, will be a practical piece of drama on the part of the navy.

There will be quite a contrast between the tragedy of the first sinking, the long days of waiting in vain to rescue the men trapped in the submersible, and the second sinking which is to demonstrate safety devices. It is to prove the efficacy of "pad eyes" hooks built in the sides of the submarine to facilitate its raising by chains fastened to pontoons.

It took the best available salvage apparatus three months to lift the submarine after the tragedy a year ago. But with the new equipment it is expected the vessel will be raised in litle time Monday.

The salvage vessel Falcon, used in raising the submarine a year ago, will be employed again. It has already assembled three pontoons at the scene of the demonstration near the government harbor off Block island. A fourth pontoon may be needed.

When the rum runner Spaulding ran into the undersea boat off Provincetown on Saturday, December 17, 1927, forty men and officers sank with it. Thirty-four drowned instantly, it is believed, while the rest, trapped in an air-tight compartment, died in agony about four days later. They died, too, after naval experts had tried in vain to give them the air and food that would have saved their lives.

Big Worry to be Absent.

There will be no men trapped in the submarine when the demonstration takes place. Consequently the biggest worry of submarine sinkings will be absent. The vessel will be sunk by external valves.

It is also fitting, in the opinion of naval authorities, that this demonstration of the new method to salvage undersea craft take place near the scene of the sinking of the S-51, off Block island September 25, 1926 when six officers and twenty-eight men lost their lives. The submarine was rammed by the steamer City of Rome.

Secretary of Navy Wilbur, who was subjected to a severe examination last year due to the inability of his department to wrest the S-4 from the ocean bottom in time to save the trapped men, is promoting research and tests as safeguards against further disasters.

While pontoons were assembled several days after the S-4 was sunk, it was not until after the men died that cables had been placed around the boat so it could be raised to the surface.

"Pad eyes" and the use of hooks to the pontoons, it is believed, would have saved the lives lost in this and other disasters.

College View Notes.

Charlie Lile, the city clerk, is ill at his home on Eighth street.

Professor C. H. Thompson of Omaha visited friends here Wednesday. He expects to start for California by auto in a few days.

Mrs. E. B. Ogden, who has been in poor health for several weeks, was removed to the General hospital in Lincoln the first of the week.

Friends of Carl A. Johnson and wife have received word that they are now on their way to South Africa, where they will connect with a mission school. Mr. Johnson graduated at ehe college last spring.

Professor and Mrs. D. D. Rees received a telegram Wednesday from their son, Dr. Dee M. Rees of Monterey Park, Calif., announcing the arrival of a daughter at the doctor's home. Dr. Rees is a College View boy.

Eugene Miller, of Oklahoma, whose father lives west of Lincoln, died at his home last week. The body was brought to College View for burial. Services ere held in the Adventist church Thursday.

Special meetings have been held at the Adventist church each evening during the week, this being the time set aside by the denomination as the annual week of prayer throughout the world. Elder E. H. Myers and Professor H. U. Steevns have been assisting the pastor, Elder R. T. Baer, in the services.

Young men in the ministerial class at the college have been doing some practical work recently. Emil Lenz, Mr. Stacey, and Mr. Wentland have been holding services in Cortland during the week and H. M. Jensen conducted services in Beatrice.

Russell Holmes, whose leg was pierced by a large splinter which was hurled by the ripsaw in the craft shop at the college, is attending classes again after spending a week in the hospital.

According to the librarian, Miss Rosie Welch, 1,851 calls were made at the public library during the month of November. This is said to be a record for the local library.

GIRL, 16, SOUGHT IN AN ATTACK ON A JERSEY WIFE

RED BANK, N. J., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—The Monmouth county police tonight were searching for a man and a 16-year-old girl in connection with a brutal attack.

Mrs. John Mackey, 33 years old, the wife of the man being hunted, was brought to the Red Bank hospital after being found injured and bound near the railroad tracks west of Eatontown. She had been struck on the head with an axe, and after her hands and feet were tied, she was laid on the tracks. As a train approached she succeeded in rolling down the bank into water in a ditch. The cold water revived her.

The police found that her husband and Belle Whitney, her cousin, had left the Mackey home, where trunks and furniture were found packed for shipment.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Dec. 15—Mrs. Henry Penner and daughter, Henrietta, returned home Saturday from a trip of four months to Europe. While away they visited points in Germany, Switzerland, France, England and Italy.

Earl Carroll Denies Charges Of Two Chorus Girls, and Now Competent 'Referee' Is Sought

NEW YORK, Dec. 15—(U. P.)—Earl Carroll, New York revue producer, most of whose fortune and all of whose troubles seem traceable to eternal feminine, tonight stood ready to collect either in dollars or in worries, from his latest brush with pretty girls.

Carroll still denies that chorus girls seeking employment from him have been required to throw open their pretty little artists' smocks and take three steps forward and three backward with nothing to protect them from his appraising gaze.

But Miss Ann Moss Gaynor, who unquestionably is a very beautiful brunette, and Miss Louise Blakeley, whose blonde prettiness is a decoration to any place she may be, are equally insistent that that is just what Carroll requires.

And it has made them pretty mad.

So mad, in fact, that they have laid their cases before the Chorus Girls' Equity organization, an organization designed to protect the rights of the girls who dance and sing for the entertainment of New York. The equity told them to see United States Attorney Charles Tuttle. Tuttle's office told them to see the district attorney, Joab B. Banton.

But today a canvass of all involved indicated nothing had been done. Banton's office thought that some sort of a complaint might have been lodged in a Magistrate's court but nothing had reached there. No Magistrate's court could be found harboring in its files any dark charges against Carroll—who first came into court some three years ago when Joyce Hawley went bathing in his bathtub full of champagne.

Brother producers became duly incensed. Such people as Arthur Hammerstein, Flo Zeigfeld, who knows something about girls of the chorus himself; George White whose "Scandals" are pretty good for sore eyes, and Sam Harris, who also knows a thing or two himself, all gave out statements saying that if what the girls said about Carroll's methods were true it was pretty shabby business. They all have picked a lot of choruses in their time and they never did anything like that.

So Carroll himself got into the statement business and said:

"As to the facts of the matter, there are fifty girls in the "Vanities' and twice as many more still rehearsing in 'Fioretta' who will under oath bear out my claim that no one in my companies has ever been humiliated or embarrassed in the slightest degree in rehearsals or throughout the performance."

Miss Blakeley, however, was ready to stand by her original story which she says is a fair sample of what poor working girls wanting jobs with Carroll are expected to do.

PROSPERITY IN MIDWEST NEXT YEAR FORETOLD

Chicago Industrial Chiefs See Good Business Ahead.

One Says Last Year's Uncertainty in Crops Missing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Particularly good business generally and record-smashing trade in some industries is due for Chicago and the middlewest in 1929, a survey today showed.

Credit managers of Chicago's largest commercial institutions, whose financial appraisals are based not only on their own business conditions but upon the viewpoints of raw material producers, process handlers, retailers and bankers, and they faced the new year with great confidence.

T. J. Sullivan, credit manager of Inland Steel Co., one of the key industries of the nation, said today: "The year 928 has been the best our steel company has experienced in many years. Prospects for 1929 are that we will have a business record. Prices are better and steadier than ever and the public is buying."

Manufacturers of steel and wire springs, lumber dealers, makers of building materials, piano builders, food makers and manufacturers of shoes were among those who joined in reporting a feeling of great optimism for 1929 business.

Even Better Business.

Following are expressions on the outlook for 1929 business from credit managers or officials of concerns in the Chicago district:

W. H. Miller, credit manager W. D. Gibson Co., manufacturers of steel and wire springs, supplied to the automobile, electrical, machinery, mining ad farming industries: "Business is good and I confidently expect 1929 to produce even better business. A firmer money policy is indicated at this time and it appears the only cloud on the horizon. It may have an effect on the building industry."

of Edward Hines Lumber Co.: "Al- of Edward Hines Lumber Co. "Although there has been a decline in volume this year as compared with last year, the outlook is encouraging and with the world's fair of 1933 coming up, the future is indeed promising. Demand for lumber is good and conditions indicate a large consumption of lumber in 1929."

A. H. Fabbri, president of Northwestern Expanded Metal Co.: "There are evidences the building program will continue."

Crops Mean Prosperity.

F. L. Douglass, credit executive Quaker Oats Co.: "Record-breaking grain crops mean prosperity. The immense volume of business more than compensates for lower prices to all engaged in milling, processing and distributing. As the year draws to a close the outlook is very rosy compared to the uncertainties of last January with its high prices and scarcity of grains. There is every reason to expect a continuance of good business."

Sigmund Einsteen, treasure of Florsheim Shoe Co.: "Shoe manufacturing and wholsaling for the year 1928 has been satisfactory, and altogether the boot and shoe industry is in a healthy condition with no bad signs on the horizon."

W. W. Kerr of Cable Piano Co: "There has been a decided improvement in the piano business within the last six months and from all indications there is every reason to be optimistic over the future."

ASK 25 MILLION INDIAN WELFARE

Speaker Says Redmen's Condition Reproach to America.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—After a speaker had condemned the government's present policy toward the American Indian as "inhuman and destructive," the conference of the "friends of Indians," being held here under the auspices of the Indian Rights association, tonight voted to petition congress for a $25,000,000 annual appropriation for Indian welfare work.

The Rt. Rev. John A. Ryan of Catholic university, one of the speakers, declared, "The present governmental policy toward the Indians is inhuman and destructive, constitutes a flagrant violation of moral obligation on the part of the dominant white race, and is a serious indictment of governmental competence. The present condition of the Indians constitutes a grave reproach to the government of the United States."

Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, retired, of Trenton, one-time Indian fighter, was another speaker. "The greatest difficulty," he declared, "in the way of proper functioning of the Indian bureau is personal interference of members of congress to secure favors for constituents which they are not entitled to.

"The bureau is afflicted by politics in too large a degree. It is improperly organized. There is no system and there is a large lack of funds."

CASHIER HELD NOT TO BLAME IN BANK CLOSING IS SUICIDE

MIDDLETON, Del., Dec. 15—(U. P.)—A curious townspeople tonight wondered about the suicide of Watson Betts, respected cashier of the People's National bank, whose body was found in Drawyer's creek this morning after closing of the bank.

Betts was highly respected in the community. He was cashier of the institution, the largest bank in the city. Yesterday the bank was closed, but the announcement said the reason for the failure was "frozen assets." No blame was placed on any one, although a run of depositors forced closing the doors and turning of the institution over to the state banking department.

This morning Betts' motor car was found near Drawyer's creek. It was wrecked and there were blood stains on the front seat.

State troopers began to drag the water of the creek ni the belief that Betts had attempted suicide by running his auto into a tree, and, failing in that, had leaped into the water. His body was found within a few hours.

There still is no blame directed at the cashier.

City Briefs

Returns From Inspection Trip—Lieut. Col. Morris M. Keck, senior army instructor assigned to the Nebraska national guard, has just returned to Lincoln from a trip out in the state making the annual survey of property belonging to the various militia units of the state. During the week he visited Lexington, Holdrege, Kearney and Fremont and looked over the equipment of the organizations at those places. Lieut. Col. Keck came here recently from Fort Sheridan, Ill., succeeding Major R. F. McNeill, who has a new assignment in the national war college at Washington.

Auto Notes

Conditioning Car For Cold Weather.

Because millions of dollars are lost each year by automobile owners through inadequate preparation of their cars for freezing weather, warning is given to those who delay the procedure. The cooling system should be thoroughly cleansed with such a simple solvent as washing soda, in order to remove rust and scale and all parts should be tightened up after such cleaning, to insure against leakage of the anti-freeze. If every car owner can protect himself against the triple threat of rust, scale, and leakage, his winter motoring will be a great deal more pleasurable and his repair bill considerably lighter. In using radiator liquids other than water, their relative cost makes it important to avoid waste. If enough cold liquid is initially used to completely fill the cooling system, an appreciable quantity will be lost through the overflow pipe on account of the expansion of the liquid as it heats up. The level of the cold liquid should be at least two inches below the overflow to allow for thermal expansion. This precaution applies especially to the use of anti-freezing solutions of glycerine or glycol, where water only is added to make up for evaporation loss. If, with one of these solutions, enough water were added each time to completely fill the system, the solution would gradually become more dilute due to successive losses by overflowing. Any radiator leaks should be repaired by soldering.

SCIENCE DRAWS CHRYSLER LINES

Sales Manager Fraser Shows Relation to Finest Greek Art.

Symmetry is Stressed in "Succession of Beautiful Curves."

"Few persons realize that the universally admired and authoritative beauty of the new Chrysler cars is the inevitable result of a deliberate ad conscious plan to apply to automobile design the principles of the classic forms of art.

"Chrysler has not relied alone on the inspiration of individual designers. Instead it has searched out the authentic forms of classic beauty and has translated them into terms of motor car beauty and motor car utility."

The speaker is J. W. Frazer, the Chrysler sales manager. In tracing how this beauty has been authoritatively achieved, he continues:

"The public's instant acceptance of this new Chrysler beauty has caused a revolution in what has heretofore been termed motor car body design. The new Chryslers set a still higher standard of beauty, instantly recognized and appreciated by most people, which has been widely discussed in homes, in clubs, on the street and in newspaper and magazine style articles alike. Amos Parrish, at the Haper's Bazar fashion conference recently ended in New York, in discussing 1928's six best contributions to merchandising rated 'Chrysler's job in realizing the vital importance of automobile fashions' as one of them.

"Taking the new Chrysler '75' as an illustration, let's examine first the relation of front bumper, lamp tie-rod and radiator. Stand squarely in front of the car and notice the symmetry of these lines. Artists all know it as a "rising, diminishing series." The level floor or level road, the slightly arched bumper, the shorter arched tie-rod above, and finally the still shorter and more deeply arched radiator contour, form a series of lines in perfect harmony.

"In the relation of radiator, lamps and fenders we next find a modification of the Egyptian lotus leaf pattern. In its modern application it is perfectly proportioned and applied with consummate artistry in blending beauty and utility.

"New step around to the side and notice the relation of the hood contours. For the first time in the motor car's history the natural harmony of its radiator and rear hood strip has been recognized and developed. The introduction of the Chrysler slender profile radiator not only disposed of one of the last unsightly relics of the early automobile but also introduced a feature of harmony, in conjunction with the cowl bar moulding, which is reminiscent of the best of Greek art. If you will stand opposite the rear door of a '75' sedan, about ten feet away, and look forward at the hood, slanted slightly toward you, then visualize the Prieze of Parthenon, you will see its motif clearly duplicated in this view.

"The straight side view reveals a striking harmony of fender contours. Notice how the long sweep of the front fender is echoed in the corresponding sweep of the back part of the fender. Also how the steep dip of the front of the rear fender, with its beautiful fillet at the base, finds its counterpart in the apron of the front fender. These lines are dynamic, symbolizing the fleet, smooth forward motion of the car. They find their counterpart in the "wave border" of the classic pieces of architecture and design.

"There is scarcely a straight line about the entire car—just a succession of beautiful curves."

NEW AUBURNS ARE ON DISPLAY HERE STARTING MONDAY

Two new demonstration Auburn cars will be on display in the Auburn department of the Lincoln Motor Co. at 1820 O street beginning Monday morning. They will be a sedan and a speedster, the same eight cylinder model holding world's stock records.

Friday or Saturday a shipment of the new cars will be received according to L. E. Tait, in charge of the Auburn section and associated with Lew Polsky at the Lincoln Motor Co. There will be a reduction in price from $200 to $700 it is announced, although there will be no reduction in size.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15—(I. N. S.)—Grains were irregular at the close today. Wheat was ⅝ to ⅞c lower, corn ⅛ to ¼c higher and oats unchanged to ⅛c off.

Wheat started uneven in a moderate mixed trade. Offerings increased later and the market went lower. Commission houses and locals were on both sides of the market. There was little change in the character of the news over night. Liverpool was ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. The government estimated the total wheat crop at 902,749,000 bushels or slightly larger than looked for. Export demand was reported moderate over night. Estimated receipts were 24 cars. Stocks of wheat at Minneapolis for one day increased 90,000 bushels.

Corn opened ⅝-1c higher with general buying on the government report. On the advance there was selling by commission houses on resting orders and the market lost some of its gain. Outside demand was moderate. The total yield of corn is placed at 2,839,969,000 bushels compared with revised figures for 1927 of 2,763,093,000 bushels, estimated receipts were 360 cars and deliveries on December contracts were 20,000 bushels.

Oats started ¼-⅝c higher with scattered buying on the strength in corn. Offerings were light, but they increased on the upturn. Estimated receipts were 67 cars and deliveries on December contracts were 6,000 bushels. The yield of oats is estimated at 1,449,531,000 bushels, compared with revised estimate 1927 of 1,182,594,000 bushels.

Provisions were steady early.

LINCOLN STAR

Classified Advertising

The Lincoln Star is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country, and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Lincoln Star, as well as every other member of the association, endeavors to print only truthful Want Ads and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standard of honesty.

Ads offered for seven times and stopped before expiration will be charged for only the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Careful attention given to mail orders. Cash in full must accompany out-of-town advertisement.

Advertising offered for irregular insertion takes the one time rate. No ad is taken for less than a basis of three lines. All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and to the regular Lincoln Star style of type. The publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING INFORMATION.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Star will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

The individual advertisements under the following classifications ate arranged in ALPHABETICAL order for quick reference.

Daily rate for consecutive insertions: Count six average words to a line. These special cash rates apply to advertising paid for within seven days after last insertion. Minimum cash rate is 36 cents. Cash rate per line per day:

1 Time	.12
3 Times	.10
7 Times	.09

These offices are open to receive advertisements from 7:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m. daily. All advertisements received up until 12:30 p. m. will appear in all city editions the same day. All ads received between 12:30 p. m. and 10:00 p. m. will appear in all editions the following day.

NEW WHIPPET FINDING FAVOR

Automobiles Exhibited Last Week Given Remarkable Reception.

Willys-Overland Places "High Priced Car in Low Priced Field."

First reports received on the welcome accorded the new Whippet fours and Whippet sixes, which were introduced a week ago by the Willys-Overland Co., indicate that the Toledo manufacturer has achieved the greatest success in the twenty years history of the company.

The remarkable public reception accorded the new cars in the cities where they were first shown proved clearly that Willys-Overland had struck the public fancy to a greater degree than ever before through its introduction of high priced car beauty and advanced mechanical features in the low priced field. Close observers declare that this marked advancement would tend to establish a new trend of design in the Whippet price class.

Although it was known that the public was in a highly receptive mood for the new models because of the outstanding reputation of the original Whippet, yet the interest that was manifested exceeded even the most optimistic xpectations of Willys-Overland executives.

Before the presentation of the new Whippets the interest of the public was aroused because of advance information that seeped out that in the new cars the Willys-Overland Co. was taking the initiative by bringing out something entirely new and totally different from anything heretofore shown in the low priced field.

The public showed a tremendous interest in the development of the Whippet body lines which reach a standard of beauty entirely new to cars in the price range of the Whippet four and six. In addition, marked interest was shown in the increased length of the cars and the roomier and richly upholstered interiors.

There was one notable feature of the new Whippets which proved a chief point of interest in the matter of mechanical advancement over other motor cars—that of the new "finger-tip control," declared by experts to be the greatest advancement in driving convenience since the self starter.

The "finger-tip control," which is standard equipment on all Whippet fours and sixes, consists of a button in the center of the steering wheel by means of which the driver controls all the functions of starting the motor, controlling the lights and sounding the horn without removing a hand from the steering wheel.

This advanced driving convenience proved especially interesting to the thousands of women who inspected the cars since it eliminates the necessity of searching for the starter button in the toeboard.

The new Whippet fours and sixes are conspicuous for their outstanding development of artistry in body lines from the new trim higher radiator to the carefully rounded rear quarters. The color schemes of the exterior round out the craftsmanship that brings a new conception of beauty to cars in the low priced field.

With production of the new models being stepped up daily, executives of the Willys-Overland Co. are confident that retail deliveries to buyers will be effected much sooner than was at first anticipated.

Auto Notes

Ventilation to Closed Car.

At least one window of a closed car should be left slightly open, even in cold weather, for proper ventilation. This is also a precaution against possibility of carbon monoxido poisoning due to some improper functioning of the engine.

When the Engine Stalls.

If the air vent in the cap of the rear gasoline tank is plugged, gasoline will not flow to the vacuum tank, and the engine will soon stall for want of fuel. The fuel system is aided by engine vacuum, but it will not operate without airpressure.

To Thaw Out Frozen Radiator.

A simple way to thaw out a frozen radiator is to play steam through the fins from a short length of rubber hose which is attached to the overflow pipe from which the steam is flowing. Start at the top and work downward. Keep the engine idling slowly and when the flow of steam stops all the ice which has clogged the lower portion of the radiator has melted.

To Keep the Car in Good Running Condition.

There are three important things a car owner should know to avoid loss of time and trouble: (1) How to test the spark; (2) How to adjust the carburetor; (3) How to clean and test the timer. These are the three most likely causes of engine disturbances and the three most easily remedied to save the hours and expense of sending the car to the repair shop.

Correct Level for Anti-Freeze Solution.

From three to four inches below the top of the overflow pipe is the correct level for filling the radiator with water and radiator glycerine. To be exact, three inches for pump systems and four inches for thermo-siphon systems. The reason for this precaution is that when the solution is warm expansion will cause the level to rise and overflow if the radiator is filled above these points.

DEALERS SHOWN NEWEST PONTIAC

Groups Officials Holding Thirty District Meetings in Two Weeks.

Direct factory contact with the 5,000 members in the domestic dealer organization of the Oakland Motor Car Co. in a period of less than two weeks, in preparation for the public showing of the new 1929 Pontiac six, was under way this week with the holding of the first of a series of nation-wide meetings by home officials.

Thirty key points stretching from Boston to Los Angeles, and from Seattle to Jacksonville, are being visited by three groups of executives from the factory at Pontias, Mich. Talking motion pictures, lantern slides and elaborate theatrical equipment is being pressed into service to get across to the dealer organization the story of the new Pontiac which shortly will appear on the market.

Dealer meetings were held on December 10 at Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Denver, while other meetings are being staged almost daily until the wind-up on December 22 at Cleveland and Minneapolis.

Heading the first group which will swing down the Atlantic seaboard, are W. B. Sawyer, eastern sales manager, W. E. Fellows, advertising manager, and Hugh Higginbottom, distribution manager. E. M. Lubeck, western sales manager, and W. M. Chamberlin, manager of sales development, will cover the central west; while the Pacific coast meetings will be conducted by R. D. Batehelder, assistant to W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales, and L. M. Dreeves, manager of the Pacific coast region.

Regional and district officials also will assist in conducting the meetings and a service expert from the home office will explain to every dealer group the many new performance features incorporated in the Pontiac six for 1929.

Meetings will be staged in centrally located auditoriums in every town visited, and every meeting will be attended by several hundred dealers, associate dealers and sales managers. The program will be of several hours duration and will include Movietone talking pictures presenting the messages of A. R. Glancy, president of the Oakland company, and Mr. Tracy, to the dealer groups.

Speakers will present to the audiences the entire picture of the new Pontiac six and the outline of the program for the coming year, including the extensive advertising budget for 1929 and service information on the many new points of engine construction.

Never drive on a flat tire if the streets are full of holes and rough. The chances are very great that considerable damage will be done to both the tire and the rim.

J. H. MARKEL CO. TAKES PLACE OF FORMER CONCERN

Hudson-Essex Automobile Agency to Operate Under New Name.

Of interest to Lincoln's motoring public is the Hudson Motor Car company's announcement of the appointment of J. H. Markel company succeeding J. H. Markel, Inc., as dealers of the famous Hudson and Essex super six automobiles here.

J. H. Markel, president of the new company, is to assume the personal management of his company. Mr. Markel is recognized as one of the foremost automobilemen of Nebraska, having been associated with the automobile industry for the past twenty years.

Mr. Markel's first experience in the automobile business was acquired in Nebraska City where he was one of the first Ford dealers in the state. Mr. Markel later took the distributorship for the Dodge car and moved to Lincoln in 1916. One year ago he took the Hudson-Essex franchise.

Offices and show rooms are to be arranged to conform with the latest ideas, service and shop floors are being altered in the interest of owners and patrons in order that their needs may be served conveniently with a minimum of time last in the use of their cars, added shop facilities are being installed to speed up repair and maintenance work.

"The successful operation of a motor car dealer depends upon the respect and good will vested in him by the purchasers of the merchandise he has to sell," says Mr. Markel.

"To merit this trust it is the aim of this company to extend to its patrons the best service within its power. The future of our organization rests upon the sale of good automobiles and the guarantee to the buyers of the utmost satisfaction in the cars they drive.

"Hundreds of thousands of satisfied Hudson and Essex owners throughout the world testify to the worth of our product. This fact combined with the assurance gained from many years occupied in serving the interests of the motoring public together with the splendid opportunities afforded by this city for development forms the basis for our confident belief that 1929 will be our greatest year."

Changing Flat Tire Made Easy.

A lot of physical labor can be eliminated when putting the jack in place preparatory to changing a tire, by placing the inflated spare in front of the flat tire and running the car up on the spare. In this way the jack can be readily placed and make the work much easier.

The crank case of a new car should be taken down nad cleaned after being in service several months.

When in doubt of the accuracy of the hydrometer test of the battery, try a voltmeter on the device.

J. H. MARKEL COMPANY ORGANIZATION

J. H. MARKEL
President.

R. C. KERWOOD
Sales Manager

H. W. RAMEY
Service Manager.

CAROLYN GIERMANN
Office Manager.

Mr. Kerwood, Sales Manager for J. H. Markel Co., has had a wide experience in the automobile world. He has a wide acquaintance in the city and a few years ago won national recognition by selling the greatest number of cars in the United States in a given time.

Mr. Ramey, Service Manager for J. H. Markel Co., has been associated with Mr. Markel since 1918 in various capacities. He is reputed by Mr. King, Service Representative of Hudson Motor Car Co., to be one of the most efficient service managers in the Hudson-Essex dealer organization.

Miss Giermann, office manager and bookkeeper for J. H. Markel Co., has been with Mr. Markel for six years.

HIGGINS PLANS VISIT FACTORY

Will Attend Graham-Paige Dealers Convention at Detroit.

Graham-Paige dealers from all over the United States and Canada have been invited to Detroit by the Graham-Paige Motors corporation for its first national dealers' convention January 3-4, when they will see an elaborate exposition of the growth and progress of the company in its first year as builders of cars bearing the name of the three Graham brothers.

J. C. Higgins of the Lord Auto Co., Graham-Paige representative in this city, who has received an invitation and some advance information on the Detroit meeting, expects to attend.

"I am certainly planning to attend the Graham-Paige convention at Detroit," is Mr. Higgin's comment on his invitation from the three Graham brothers. "The Graham-Paige company has a reputation in the industry for doing these things in original ways that make them more than worthwhile. At the New York show last year, they put on a dealer luncheon that set a new standard for impressiveness and effectiveness.

"Again, only recently, Graham-Paige has scored by being the first concern in the world to utilize the speaking film in industry, each of the three Graham brothers appearing and giving a brief address to urge all dealers to attend the January convention.

"Graham-Paige is handling the transportation of its dealers to the convention with all the efficiency that marks the troop movement of an army. Dealers in each territory will gather at a central point and leave for Detroit in special cars, which will be made up into special Graham-Paige train for Detroit.

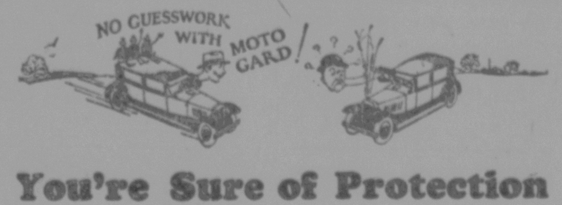

So well have the arrangements been planned that all dealers, from every section of the country will reach Detroit between 7 and 8 a. m., January 3, the trains arriving at 5 minute intervals and discharging the passengers at the Graham-Paige factory at Wayne."

Auto Notes

A battery will freeze if permitted to stand in weak condition.

Unequal tire pressures will cause a skid. This is brought about by unequal braking friction.

The fact that the oil level in the crank case of the car does not decrease is not always an indication that the car is not consuming oil, and that changing oil frequently is not necessary. Dilution with unexploded gas from combustion chamber may be replacing oil consumed and at the same time thinning the contents of the crank case.

You're Sure of Protection with Moto-Gard
The Triple Service Shutter

Don't guess about your engine's winter protection. Make sure it's right—with Moto-Gard. A turn of the control on the dash, under your eye and hand, safeguards your engine.

Extra Protection

Moto-Gard's scientific construction provides the extra protection needed at the bottom of your radiator where water cools first and freezing starts.

Triple Service
In average winter weather open the top leaves and close the lower. Mild?—open all leaves. Bitter cold?—close them all—and do the same when parking.

Visible Control
You operate Moto-Gard by a light turn of the thumb screw on its attractive dash control. The indicator records the exact degree of opening of the leaves.

Lincoln Families Plan Gay Christmas Dinners

Holly Wreaths and Other Decorations Help to Turn Attention of Social Set to Plans for Holiday Season; Family Dinners Will Feature Observances in Most of Homes.

NEVER before has Lincoln seen such a decorative holiday season. Already holly wreaths with large red ribbon bows are gracing front doors, colored lights are gleaming from Christmas trees, small miniature ones just inside the windows, and much more stalwart ones outside. A festive note pervades the atmosphere everywhere, and so it is not surprising that plans for the Christmas day were made early by the majority of the social set in Lincoln.

Family dinners, with out-of-town guests included occasionally, form the center of the day's activities, and most of these are to be held at home.

A few of the dinners are to be given on Christmas eve, but the majority are to be on Christmas afternoon.

Mrs. F. Lau, 1045 D street, will have all of her family together for the first time in many years. Two daughters, Mrs. Nelle Spealman and Mrs. Helen Giffen, both of Hollywood, Calif., and Mrs. Spealman's son, George Spealman and Mrs. Spealman will be in Lincoln for the holidays. Mrs. Lau will entertain at dinner Christmas eve, and the guest list will include Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lau, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Lau, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lau, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Junge, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Junge and daughter, Joyce, Emmett Junge, Mr. and Mrs. George Spealman, Mrs. Nelle Spealman and Mrs. Helen Giffen.

On Christmas day, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lau will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Homer Honeywell at dinner.

Christmas Eve Dinner.

Another Christmas eve dinner will be that of Mrs. R. E. Mattison, sr., who will have as guests, Mr. and Mrs. Don Mattison of Chicago, Mrs. H. A. Bryant of Wahoo, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bell and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bell. A Christmas tree will follow the dinner. On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bell will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Bell for Christmas dinner.

Dining with Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Burnham Christmas day will be Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Yates and sons, George and Burnham, Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes and daughter, Joan, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lau and daughter, Betty.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leonard will have as their Christmas day guests, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Joyce and family, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Roth and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Frazier and daughter, of Omaha and Mrs. Leonard's sister, Mrs. F. C. Ballantine and Mr. Ballantine of Minneapolis, and another sister, Mrs. L. B. McDaniels.

Plan Family Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Gooch are dining at home on Christmas day, with only members of the immediate family. Herbert E. Gooch, jr., will arrive the Sunday before Christmas, from Lawrenceville school.

The J. E. Millers are planning to spend the day quietly with a dinner at noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller, and supper in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller.

Mrs. Ruth Gavin and three children and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Raymond are to be dinner guests on Christwas day of Mrs. A. S. Raymond and Miss Dorothy Raymond.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Whitten and Mr. Whitten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Whitten will go to Broken Bow where they will be the dinner guests of Mrs. Jack Whitten's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Varney, sr.

Returning From School.

Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Varney, jr., of Broken Bow will come to Lincoln to spend Christmas at the home of Mrs. Varney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Towle. Mrs. Kenneth Cozier of Cleveland formerly Miss Mary Towle arrived Friday from Tulsa, where she was a bridesmaid at the marriage of Miss Mary Leonard, a former classmate at Emma Willard school. Curtis Towle will arrive home this week end from Hill school at Pottstown, Pa., to spend the holidays in Lincoln.

The Arnott Folsoms are dividing their day between the two families. The early part of Christmas day is

Annual Pig Dinner Held By Sigma Nu

Saturday night marked the twentieth annual pig dinner at the Sigma Nu house, a tradition which has been in observance since the fraternity was established on the Nebraska campus. The dinner was served at the chapter house, and places were arranged for fifty couples at foursome tables centered with black bud vases filled with golden Ophelia roses which introduced the color motif of black, white and gold, the fraternity colors. A very attractive decorated boudoir clock was at each lady's place as a favor.

After the guests were seated the pig, roasted whole, and with an apple in its mouth, was brought in by the chef, and the traditional rites were said over it by the president of the active chapter, Thomas Thompson. Following the dinner the time was spent with dancing.

Chaperones for the affair were Dean and Mrs. J. E. LeRossignol, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dobson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Marr McGaffin and Mrs. Clara Skiles Prouty, the house mother.

Few Parties Just Before Christmas

Social Life Slows Down While Milady Finishes Shopping.

The last week before Christmas is always a dull week socially, when all minds, concentrated intently upon the one large holiday of the year, are distracted, at least for the time being, from social affairs.

The parties this week are few and far between. Perhaps the most prominent one of any size is that which is to be given Tuesday evening at the University club by Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Branch, sr., as a courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Branch, jr., of Seattle. Thirty guests have been invited.

Dinner At Davis Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellery Davis will preside at a dinner for a small group of guests Friday evening at their home, 2740 Van Dorn street. Roses will center the dinner table, and during the evening, tables will be arranged for bridge.

Graingers Entertain.

Last Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. John Grainger entertained six guests at their home, 2427 Ryons street, as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Branch. Following the dinner, the time was spent informally.

Many Club Luncheon Are Held

Mrs. M. W. Folsom was hostess to the L. A. Kensington Tuesday at her home, 2122 Washington, with a 1 o'clock luncheon. The luncheon table which was arranged for eleven was appointed with yellow chrysanthemums. The guests spent their time with fancywork. January 8, Mrs. C. I. Jones will entertain at her home, 1701 B street, with a one o'clock luncheon.

C. C. Club Meets.

The C. C. club met with Mrs. J. R. R. Gierens, at her home, 2410 O street, for a 1 o'clock cover dish luncheon Tuesday. Thirty ladies were present including Mrs. James Craig of University Place. The luncheon was served buffet style and the decorations were in Christmas effects. There was a Christmas tree and the guest exchanged gifts. Mrs. Paul Feistner entertained with a reading and Mrs. Helen Paine favored with a vocal solo. The January meeting will be announced later.

Fewer Social Affairs As Vacation Approaches

Two Dinner Dances and Several Parties Planned for This Week Though Return of Students to Their Homes For Holidays Dampens Frolicsome Campus Life at the University.

With only two formal dinner dances and a few house parties, there will be a dearth of university social affairs this week because of the return of the students to their homes for the holidays.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will hold its biennial Christmas formal dinner dance Friday evening in the ballroom of the Lincoln hotel. Only fifty couples, active members and their partners, will attend. The party will be chaperoned by Colonel and Mrs. F. F. Jewett, Professor and Mrs. Ray Cochrane, and Gustave Fuchs.

Sigma Chi Dinner Dance.

Sigma Chi formal dinner dance will take place on Saturday evening at the Lincoln hotel. With a twenty-foot Christmas tree as the center, the small tables will be placed in the shape of a cross. Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. G. E. Condra, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Fee, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hardy, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Proudfit, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson, and Dr. and Mrs. Harry Flansberg.

Freshmen Entertain.

Sigma Phi Epsilon freshmen will entertain the active members at a Christmas dance Friday evening at hte chapter house. Decorations will be in the Christmas motif. Sixty couples will attend. Professor and Mrs. R. B. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson of Havelock, and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Van Horn of Auburn will chaperone the party.

Number of Brides-to-be Plan Holiday Weddings

Among Interesting Engagements Announced Today is That of Miss Mary Inga Erickson to Ralph Bergston; Marriage of Margaret McMillen and George Powers Will Take Place Christmas Night.

With such attractive holiday settings, and with so many interesting activities in full sway, it is small wonder that many popular girls have chosen this time to announce their betrothal and approaching marriage.

Affairs for holiday guests will no doubt be combined with prenuptial courtesies for the bride-to-be and her attendants, and at the close of the season will come the wedding itself, with evergreen and holly and deep red roses and tall tapers playing a most important part in the decorations.

The four fiancees who are announcing their engagements today, have each chosen a home wedding, one to be on Christmas day, another a few days before Christmas, and the third a day or so following. The fourth has decided upon early January for her marriage.

Paramount among the interesting announcements, is that of Miss Mary Inga Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Erickson of Brewster, to Ralph Bergston, which is to take place late in December at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Erickson is a former student at the University of Nebraska, where she was prominent in social and schgol activities. She was pledged to Alpha Phi sorority. Mr. Bergston is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, and Innocents, honorary society for senior men.

Miss McMillen Engaged.

Equally interesting is the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Margaret McMillen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McMillen, to George Harvey Powers of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place at the McMillen home, 2741 Stratford avenue Christmas night. Miss Margaret Diers of Gresham, will be Miss McMillen's only attendant, and Arch S. McMillen will serve Mr. Powers as groomsman.

Miss McMillen was graduated from the University of Nebraska in the class of 1924, and spent the following year studying for graduate social work in Chicago at Hull House. She resigned her position as executive secretary of the Worcester Girls' club in Worcester, Mass., to be married. She is a member of Phi Mu sorority, and is also a member of Chapter K, P. E. O.

Mr. Powers is a graduate of Purdue university.

Announce Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. William Pathe of Milford, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Byrnece, to William Hershberger of Scribner, Neb. Miss Pathe is a former student at the University of Nebraska, and is a member of Phi Mu sorority. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents, December 21.

Lillian Schluntz Betrothed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Schluntz announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lillian, to Wesley Gibson of Lincoln. The wedding is to take place early in January at the home of the bride's parents.

SOCIETY PEOPLE In The PICTURES

Attractive brides-to-be and equally charming guests and their hostesses do much to liven up the social world pictorially. One of the very lovely guests is Mrs. Earl French, known in the theatrical world as Miss Kate Pier-Roemer, and who has just closed a very successful run in "If I Was Rich," in Chicago. Following the holidays, Mrs. French will go to New York where she is to enter one of the Shubert productions. In Lincoln she is the guest of Mr. French's sister, Mrs. W. P. Hill and Rev. Mr. Hill.

Miss Pauline Gellatly has a very charming guest in Miss Emma Shotwell of Newark, N. J., who stopped in Lincoln enroute to her home from the Pacific coast. Miss Shotwell has been honored with a number of social affairs during her stay in Lincoln.

The engagement of Miss Margaret McMillen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McMillen, to George Harvey Powers of Washington, D. C., is announced today. The wedding will take place Christmas night.

Miss Mildred Tompkins is the house guest of Mrs. E. H. Hammond. She arrived in Lincoln the forepart of last week, and has been feted at several informal affairs.

From Pictorial California.

Miss Johnnie Everett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oliver Everett, is seen here with the prize winning Dalmatian coach dogs from the kennels of Leo M. Meeker, Brentwood Park, president of the Pan-American bank in Los Angeles.

Miss Everett left Lincoln several months ago for California, where she holds the position of hostess in the Pan-American bank in Los Angeles.

Plan Number Affairs For Brides-To-Be

Showers, Bridge Parties and Teas Precede Holiday Marriages.

A pleasant flurry of showers, bridge parties, and teas follows the announcement of the engagement of popular brides-to-be. A charming group of Lincoln girls will be married during the holidays and a host of pretty affairs are being given for them.

Parties for Miss Lila Perry include an informal tea on Sunday afternoon by Mrs. John E. Almy and her daughter, Mrs. Harold Kipp at Mrs. Almy's home, 2300 A street. The tea will last from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. C. M. Skiles is giving a shower for Miss Perry on Tuesday afternoon at her home, 2310 Woodcrest. Christmas colors will be used in the decorations and the twenty guests will be friends of Mrs. Perry. After an afternoon spent informally, refreshments will be served.

Bridge will entertain the twenty-four guests of Mrs. A. V. Perry, Mrs. F. A. Ellingson, and Miss Helen Reagor on Monday evening at the party they are giving for Miss Perry at the home of Mrs. Perry, 1750 D street.

Honoring Miss Mills.

A crystal shower for Miss Merna Mills will be given by Mrs. Joe Fisher at her home, 1678 Woodview avenue, on Friday evening. The twelve guests will play bridge. Decorations and refreshments will carry out the Christmas idea.

Plan Miscellaneous Shower.

Three hostesses are combining Tuesday evening to give a miscellaneous shower for Miss Lottie Eddy. Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. Zuella Coble, and Miss Kathleen Oyler are entertaining for Miss Eddy at the home of Miss Oyler, 2971 Dudley street. The twenty-five guests will spend the evening informally. There will be a supper served later in the evening.

To Fete Miss Heidtbrink.

Miss Leona Heidtbrink will be guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower on Tuesday afternoon in the basement of the Lutheran church in Malcolm. Miss Laura Wang and Mrs. Frank Thomas are giving the party. Thirty-five guests will attend.

Personals

Paul Dobson, former captain of the University of Nebraska football team, and Mrs. Dobson spent Thursday and Friday in Lincoln. They arrived Thursday from their home in Exeter, Calif., stopping here on their way to New York City.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. M. Thomson and family will leave today for New York City where they will spend a few days before going to Philadelphia for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle E. Wade of Ventura, Cal., announce the birth of a daughter, Joy, November 30.

Mintie Schmidt has as his guests two brothers, Louis and Conrad, who came by auto from Saskatchewan, Canada.

John Lee, farmer north of Havelock, has purchased the property at 1224 N street and will move to town the first of March.

Betrothed

Miss Winifred Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Roberts whose engagement to John Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Becker, is being announced today.

P. E. O. Meeting.

Chapter DL, P. E. O. met Monday evening with Mrs. W. O. Schorr and Mrs. Fannie Burns, 2804 Arlington. Miss Lulu Wolford was assisting hostess.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. Armstrong discussed "Rational Living" and gave Seashore's ten rules for living wisely as follows:

First, 'Know thyself'—intellectually, physically, socially, morally, aesthetically.

Second, Learn self control.

Third, Live as well as you know how in every way, shifting the emphasis from the things beyond control to that which is within.

Fourth: Follow the golden mean—be rational in all things.

Fifth: Cultivate repose. Americans live too intensively and excessively.

Sixth: Be buoyant; have a careful plan for action.

Seventh: Do all things for the pleasure of doing them—eating, working.

Eighth: Play.

Ninth: Be generous, not only of substance but of self.

Tenth: Have ideals, thus gaining an upward tendency in your whole existence. A reverent personality sees God and the best in man.

Miss Grace Curley prenented a paper on "The Wisdom of Laziness," advancing the need of rest as the working out of a natural law resultant in increased power in all phases of living. She discussed

News of the Clubs

Miss Mary C. Mapes, Publicity Chm. | Miss Nellie Stevens | Miss Ethel Murray, Vice Pres. | Mrs. James Fisher, Treasurer | Miss Bess Richards, President | Mrs. J. Paul Browne, Secretary | Miss Clara Foley, Historian

At a meeting of the Overseas Service league December 6 the above officers were elected to manag its affairs for the coming year. The league is composed of women who crossed the sea to do their bit during the World War and who continue to do their bit at home and in the community.

The members of the league are, army and Red Cross nurses and canteen workers, with the Y. M. C. A. and the Salvation Army. The purpose of the organization is: "To keep alive the spirit prompted overseas service, to maintain the ties of comradeship born of that service and ot assist further any practice work for the welfare of the army and navy; to assist in any way in their power, men and women who served and were wounded or incapacitated in the World war; to foster and promote friendship and understanding between America and the allies in the World war."

The national office is at present interested in the establishment of an army hostess service. Each unit has been asked to request its members to contact as many organizations and individuals as possible in an endeavor to bring such strong influence to bear upon congress as will result in the establishment of a permanent army hostess service or women's service corps.

In Indianapolis, is published a small magazine called "Carry On" which gives the local and national doings and accomplishments. The welfare of the ex-service men and women is the concern of the Women's Overseas Service league of which there are 2,500 members in the United States.

Membership of the Women's Overseas league follows:

Miss Bess Richards, worked in Herbert Hoover's department.

Miss Ethel Murray, army nurse.

Mrs. James Fisher, treasurer, nurse.

Mrs. Mary Mapes, army nurse, publicity chairman.

Miss Nelle Stevens, army nurse.

Mrs. J. Paul Browne, secretary, nurse.

Miss Clara Foley, historian, army nurse.

Mrs. Frank O'Connell, national service chairman of the Seventh corps area, Y. M. C. A.

Miss Lena Merrill, Y. M. C. A.

Miss Pearl Culp, army nurse.

Mrs. L. P. Davis, Y. M. C. A.

Miss Alice Howell, Red Cross canteen.

Mrs. Charles Jensen, army nurse.

Miss Margaret Oliver, army nurse.

Miss Edna Dickinson, army nurse.

Miss Myrtle Judd, army nurse.

Miss Martha Porter, Salvation army intelligence.

Miss Myrtle Dean, army nurse.

Miss Emily Johnson, nurse.

Christmas Cheer Spread By State Woman's Clubs

Plans of Many Organizations Center Around Work of Giving Aid to Needy Families and Happiness for Children.

The Hubbell Woman's club held its regular meeting at the club rooms Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Bess Miller as hostess and the vice president, Mrs. Pet Wilcox, presiding.

The subject for the meeting was art and the famous American artists, response to roll call being made by giving a favorite picture and something of the artist. A quartet composed of Mesdames A. L. Harlan, O. D. Gooden, S. D. Brown and C. E. Miller gave a selection and responded to an encore.

Christmas Program.

The Nehawka Woman's club met on December 7 at the home of Mrs. John Steffens with Mrs. Albert Anderson as assisting hostess. The meeting opened with a song by the club followed by roll call, responded to with Bible quotations.

The Christmas spirit was carried out in the afternoon's program. A Christmas anthem was given by the club chorus, a piano solo by Mrs. Will Ost and Mrs. Eugene Nutzuran sang "The Holy City." The leader of the study deoartment, Mrs. Omar Schlichtenier, read the fifty-sixth psalm followed by a most interesting talk on Colonial religion. She then introduced the following who read papers pertaining to Colonial times:

Pilgrims in Holland, Mrs. Ida Munn.

Pilgrims and Quakers of Colonial Days, Mrs. B. E. Summers.

The Dutch Reformed, Hugenot and Catholic, Mrs. Frank Lemon.

Colonial Festivals, Mrs. Creamer.

Following the Colonial topics the history of the local churches was given, and Mrs. D. C. West talked on the organization and work of the Christian church, Mrs. Knoblock on the United Brethren and Mrs. E. Z. Kirkpatrick on the Methodist church.

The next meeting will be on January 4 with Mrs. J. M. Palmer and Mrs. Scott Norris as hostesses. The topic will be "Good Literature."

Wahoo Club Active.

Wahoo Mothers' club is sponsoring the sale of Christmas seals, in Wahoo, this year. It will also furnish Christmas baskets and clothing to needy families, as is its custom, yearly.

As a part of the work of the General federation in community betterment, the club will give three prizes to the homes in Wahoo, whose decoration expresses the spirit of the season most artistically. Mrs. J. F. Lauvets, president of the club, will appoint judges.

Hears of Writers.

The Pohoco Woman's club met Wednesday, Dec. 5, at the home of Mrs. John Widman of Mead. Dinner was served to the members and their families at noon, after which the program was given. Mrs. J. R. Thompson of Wahoo, state chairman of literature of the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs, was a guest. She gave a talk on "Nebraska Writers."

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Jay Willey, with Miss Frances Moore, assisting hostess. Each member will bring materials and make a Christmas wreath. When completed, wreaths will be exchanged. Each member will bring a handmade gift for inspection. A prize will be given for the most unique gift that can be made for twenty-five cents and that shows the most value for the money expended.

There will be singing of Christmas carols. Lighting of the Christmas candles will be accompanied by appropriate readings. A book review, "A Lantern in Her Hand," by Bess Streeter Aldrich, will be given by Mrs. Henry Ostenberg, assisted by Mrs. Joe Magley.

Gifts for all present will be distributed from a Christmas tree at the close of the afternoon.

Nebraska Writers.

The Syracuse Woman's club met Saturday Dec. 8, at the home of Mrs. J. D. Anderson. The members read the "Club Woman's Creed" in unison, after which Mrs. W. E. Hillis had charge of the business session. Mrs. F. Nicklas conducted the parliamentary lesson. The program subject was "Nebraska Writers," with Mrs. J. Thomson as chairman, who read a sketch of the life of Keene Abbott prepared by an anonymous writer and also a sketch of the life of Mrs. Keene Abbott. Miss Margaret Hyde gave a review of the book, "Wine of the Winds," and Mrs. Russel Joyce, a review of the book "Trees of Life," both by Keene Abbott. These reviews were well prepared and much enjoyed. Mrs. J. J. Metzger read two Nebraska poems, "A Woman's Grave," by A. E. Sheldon, and "Nebraska," by Hart Jenks.

Children's Party.

Tuesday afternoon the Elijah Gove chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Stromsburg, held its annual Christmas party at the pleasant home of Mrs. John Bailey, which had been decorated appropriately for the season of the year. After a brief business meeting, the guests arrived, each member having invited one child.

The afternoon's entertainment was taken in charge by Mrs. Headstrom, who told of the incidents of the first Christmas day and the origin of the Christmas carol, as an introduction for the following program: Piano solo, June Ericson; Christmas reading, Anna Lamb; piano duet, Clara and Maurine Malster.

After some musical games, the fourteen children were seated at a long table made attractive by Christmas decorations, and a lunch was served. The litle folks were then taken into the darkened living room, lighted by a beautiful Christmas tree. After a short time spent in admiration, the tree proved very fruitful, yielding several small gifts and favors as well as candy and large pop corn balls for each child.

The children spent a very happy afternoon and the members of the chapter enjoyed the appreciation of their young guests expressed by various exclamations of surprise and delight. Several children, who were unable to come on account of illness, were remembered with gifts and treats. Those present were:

Guest Night Is Observed By Altrusa

Axis Club Plans Annual Christmas Party for Children.

Altrusa held its annual guest night Monday at the Cornhusker. Dinner was served to forty members and guests. Baskets of yellow flowers adorned the tables. Singing of club songs interspersed the courses, and immediately after dinner the president, Genevieve Buncher, presented a trio, which played several numbers. The musicians were Lucy Miller Molzer, violin; Lillian Eiche, cello, and Edith Burlingim Ross, piano.

Ruth Hovland gave an account of her Mediterranean cruise after which Vera Augusta Upton sang a group of songs. Grace Stewart Morning described her summer abroad, and Isobel Macdonald told of visiting her home in Scotland and the exciting voyage back to New York, marked by storms and wrecks. The remainder of the evening was spent informally.

The guest list included Mrs. Penrod, Dr. Ada Platz, the Misses Nylhardt of Beatrice, and Mrs. Molzer, Mrs. Helen Benner, Mrs. Elizabeth Stryker, Miss Lulu Abbott, Mrs. H. B. Smith, Miss Elizabeth Dolan, Miss Madge Evans, and Miss Carrie Moore. The club will meet Monday evening, January 14, at the Woodburn.

Children To Be Guests.

Axis club will meet for its annual Christmas dinner and party Tuesday, December 18, at the club rooms of the Y. W. C. A. Following the dinner the "Four Bards," Albert Tiffany, Joe DiNatale, John Dunman and Leland Bennett, will give a group of songs followed by a skit, "Number Six." After this program the members will go to the gymnasium for the Christmas party. Here a Christmas tree will be waiting and about twenty children will be guests of the club.

The following program will be presented:

Songs ..... Irene Backstrom
Accompanied by Mrs. Agnes Nelson
Readings ..... Lucile Boomer
Songs ..... Scott Sisters
Dance .....
..... Mildred Curd, Helene Britten
Songs ..... Axis Glee club
(Under direction Prof. Herbert E. Gray)

It is an annual custom for Axis club to give a party at Christmas time when a group of children are guests. Gifts are provided for the children, both practical and helpful gifts as well as the usual Christmas treat. A real Santa Claus finds his way to the gymnasium. This year Santa Claus is promising a treat for all of the members as well as the children.

The party is in charge of the social committee composed of Miss Anna Wurm, chairman; Miss Erma Johnston, Nellie Fender, Margie Wilson, Marie Locke and Daisy Jones.

Christmas Programs For P. T. A.

Christmas Trees and Visits by Santa Feature Plans for Week.

Christmas parties and programs will be the order of the week for Parent-Teacher associations. Almost without exception, meetings have been planned with holiday entertainment.

Sunny Slope Parent-Teacher association of district 28 has planned a community Christmas tree and supper for Friday at the school. Santa will probably appear. Names were drawn at the November meeting and the cost of gifts was limited to ten cents.

To Sing Carols.

Christmas carols will be sung by the children at the Saratoga Parent-Teacher association meeting Tuesday at 2 o'clock at the school. Miss Charlotte Kizer, director of art in the public schools will discuss "Beauty in Common Things."

Community Tree.

A community Christmas tree and carols sung by former Beltline students who are now attending high schools, will give a Christmas spirit to the meeting of Beltline Parent-Teacher association to be held Thursday evening at the school. Little gifts brought by each member will be put into a fish pond and drawn out later during the social hour. Refreshments will be served at the close of the evening.

Program At Bancroft.

Bancroft Parent-Teacher association will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the school auditorium for a program.

Christmas Program.

A Christmas program has been planned for the meeting of University Place Parent-Teacher association Monday. Before the entertainment there will be a meeting to consider music and arts in the schools.

Postpone Meeting.

Riley Parent-Teacher association meeting which was to have been held this week has been postponed until January.

CASE WILL GIVE TALK ON MUSIC

To Attend National Club Meet

Two Nebraska Women Will Represent State Federation at Swampscott.

The call has been issued for the mid-winter meeting of the board of the General Federation of Woman's clubs, which is to be held at Swampscott, Mass., from January 9 to 11, according to an announcement made Saturday by Mrs. J. G. Ackerman, president of the state federation.

The Nebraska federation will be represented by Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. W. E. Minier, a director of the General Federation.

A conference on the "Cause and Cure of War" is to be held following the board meeting. Mesdames Ackerman and Minier will attend this conference. Reports will be given from the various state conferences held during November in most of the states, similar to the one held in Nebraska at Hastings, early in November.

Mrs. W. L. Durbin of Bloomfield, state chairman of library work in the Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs in hoping for helpful legislation during the coming year that will make library facilities reach the many instead of the few. During the year Mrs. Durbin in her club work sent various helpful hints concerning library work to clubs over the state. She wrote about 350 letters along lines connected with library extension.

Interest In Contest.

Already a number of club women are polishing up their wits to write in the contest being staged in the home finance division of the American home department. Mrs. W. L. Seng of McCool is state chairman of the division.

Women planning to write in the contest should begin soon, as the first judging will be in the clubs. The best essay in a club, so voted by club members, will be entered in a district contest in the spring. The best in each district will be entered in the state contest and judged at Norfolk in October.

A Close-up View of Mr. Coolidge

BY MARR McGAFFIN.

Probably no public statement issued by President Coolidge during his term of office has attracted more sympathetic interest than should the one made in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In that statement, the president breaks down to a small extent the barriers of his high office, explaining that since he is about to retire he feels at liberty to speak of certain phases of the office which one entering upon the duties might hesitate to discuss. Oddly enough, those phases are not vital to the economic or political welfare of the nation, but of the health and pleasure of the president, himself.

He tells of the physical and nervous strain which the chief executive of the nation undergoes, discusses the methods he used to keep himself mentally and physically fit, and throws in a complaint or two regarding the lack of facilities for complete recreation and freedom from official formalities.

All in all, he gives the nation its first closeup, personal view of Calvin Coolidge, the man, not Calvin Coolidge, the president. If, for some half dozen years he has so conducted himself in office as to give the nation the impression that he is not just the same sort of human being as ourselves, if his clam-like attitude in most instances has led us to believe that he is devoid of the personal emotions and desires that most of us feel, his simple statement of his personal problems and complaints puts him back on the level.

He has felt the confines of daily office work. He has longed for the spare hours of recreation. He has felt the chains of social responsibilities and conventions. The climate has not been pleasant always. The choicest vacation spots have been too far distant to be conveniently taken advantage of. His skill as a fisherman or with the gun has been under the critical eye of the camera. His every movement outside of the white house, his home, has been surrounded and guarded by secret service men.

It is good for a perhaps unappreciative nation to know that the holding of the highest public office, in spite of such apparent advantages as a private yacht or a summer in the Black Hills, is not devoid of discomforts, and to realize that those discomforts are probably magnified according to the station in life that a man occupies.

There is still more food for thought and sympathy in one particular paragraph in which President Coolidge complains of the restrictions placed on his private and social life, which after all is the only source of personal pleasure and recreation for a president or any other person. Of that he says:

"The movements of the president are a very ponderous operation. Other officers of the government can travel with a considerable degree of freedom. If they wish to spend a weekend at a hotel or club, they can do so without difficulty. They also have greater liberty in accepting private hospitality. When the president moves it is an event. A large retinue follows and extensive preparations are made in advance for his reception and care. The onl place he can enter without considerable disturbance is the white house."

That is an old, old complaint, voiced time and again by those whose daily lives were tyrannized by

Many New P. T. A. Groups Are Organized In State

Efforts of Mrs. Emma Golden and County Superintendents Result in Increased Interest Among Rural School Parents.

Rural Parent-Teacher associations increase in numbers weekly due to the work of Mrs. Emma Golden, organizer of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers who has been in Nebraska for two months, and the influence of county superintendents.

Cedar Canyon Parent-Teacher association composed of parents and teachers from districts 28, 150 and 85 of Morrill county was organized recently. Officers elected are: Otto Frownfelter of Bridgeport, president and Miss Sylvia Boodry, secretary.

Another In Morrill.

School districts 66, 89, 55 and 11 of Morrill county formed the Pumpkin Seed Valley Parent-Teacher association recently and elected the following officers: Guy Sickles of Redington, president; Charles Newkirk, vice president; Miss Pearl Claver, secretary; and Miss Estella Gilman of Redington, treasurer.

Chambers P. T. A.

Mrs. Emma Golden with county superintendent Luella Parker of Holt county organized the Chambers Parent-Teacher association in school district 137. Newly-elected officers of this group are: Mrs. Lon Hubbard of Chambers, president; Mrs. Claire Grimes, vice president; and Mrs. C. Keltz, secretary.

One At Page.

Page Parent-Teacher association was also organized recently at Page, Neb., by Mrs. Golden and Mrs. Parker. The following officers were elected: Mrs. Bryan French, president; Mrs. J. Johnson, vice president; Miss Renna Holm, secretary; and Mrs. June Townsend, treasurer.

At Valley View.

Valley View Parent-Teacher association in school districts 51, 12 and 193 of Morrill county was organized recently by Mrs. Golden and Mrs. Parker, the work of the year will be in charge of Mrs. Ray Coburn of Phoenix, president; William Coleman, vice president; Mrs. Lester Owens, secretary; and Mrs. John Damero of Phoenix, treasurer.

Two Districts Join.

In Cedar county Mrs. Golden, aided by county superintendent Emma Scherwin, organized the Sunny-Brook-Hilcot Parent-Teacher association in school districts 81 and 113. Officers elected are: R. R. Rose of Hartington, president, J. E. Stukel vice president; Miss Hazel Anderson, secretary; and Joe Promes of Hartington, treasurer.

Two Others.

New parent-eacher associations formed recently and announced by Miss Chloe Baldridge, director of rural education in Nebraska, are the Shiloh Parent-Teacher association and Chase county Parent-Teacher association.

Shiloh Parent-Teacher association was organized in school district 38 of Adams county. The new officers are: W. B. Bobbitt of Kenesaw, president; John Soblin, vice president; Miss Florence Austin, secretary; and John Borger of Kenesaw, treasurer.

Aids Organization.

County superintendent Mary E. Nothnagel of Chase county assisted in the organization of a Parent-Teacher association in school districts 60 and 72. The officers will be Elbert Moody of Wauneta, president, H. C. Brown, vice president; Miss Velma O'Daniels, secretary, and Walter Wheeler of Wauneta, treasurer.

Gage County P.T.A. Names New Officers

At the county Parent-Teacher association which met at Beatrice, Thursday evening, Lyle S. Cave of Pickrell was elected president. Other officers named were Mrs. J. S. Martin of Beatrice, vice president; Joseph W. Miller of Beatrice, secretary, and Miss Martha Zuehlke of Filley, treasurer.

Besides a number of county unit representatives which attended, Mrs. Emma Golden, national Parent-Teacher association organizer and County Superintendent Joseph W. Miller were present. A constitution was adopted which calls for the expansion of the Parent-Teacher program of local organizations in the county and also defines the county council as a body to correlate and assist in the activities of the local units. The county council will meet at least three times a year.

Membership Race.

A race for membership between two divisions of Firth Parent-Teacher association ended in a tie, it was disclosed at the party held Tuesday at the school house. Captains of the two contending groups were Mrs. Dick A. Vandewege, who led the "Whites," and William E. Fischer, head of the "Blues."

Games of the evening were directed by Mrs. R. L. Klarehs in the high school assembly room. In these competitive contests, the "White" team defeated the "Blue." Later in the evening coffee and doughnuts were served.

Parent-Teacher State Chairmen Are Appointed

Many Lincoln Women Named to Head Departments of Associations at Board Meeting Saturday—Eleven New County Councils Organized, According to Report Given.

State chairmen of parent-teacher association work for 1928-29 were named at the state board meeting of the Nebraska Congress of Parents and Teachers held all day Saturday at the Y. W. C. A. Mrs. W. W. Day, state president, presided.

Town members present were Mrs. Gail Powell of Kearney, first vice-president and Mrs. J. S. Marten of Beatrice, seventh vice president. Fifteen members were present.

During the morning session that began at 10:30 o'clock, the following state chairmen were appointed: Mrs. G. H. Wentz of Lincoln, child welfare and state day; Mrs. Loretta Walker of Lincoln, congress publications; Mrs. Harry Gilbert of College View, membership; and Mrs. Fred Easterday of Lincoln, recreation and physical ecudation.

Eleven New County Councils.

Miss Chloe Baldridge, director of rural education, gave a report of the work of Mrs. Emma Golden, who had been in Nebraska for two months to organize local parent-teacher associations. She mentioned that eleven county councils had been formed and schools of instruction had been held in counties visited.

At the afternoon session the following state chairmen were appointed: R. H. Graham of Lincoln, parent-teacher association in the high schools; Mrs. Fred B. Jones of Oxford, parent-teacher association in grade schools; Judge Fred Messemore of Beatrice, juvenile protection, Mrs. Paul Bradley of Omaha, study circles; Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle of Lincoln, legislation; Mrs. N. F. Pfunder of Norfolk, motion pictures; Mrs. Anna Kinney of Omaha, safety; Mrs. F. E. Hollingsworth, Kearney, art; Mrs. P. T. McGerr of Lincoln, humane education; and Mrs. C. O. Stuckenbruck of Beatrice, music.

Additional state chairmen appointed are: Mrs. E. A. McCrystal of Lincoln, school education; J. T. Anderson of Kearney, home ecudation; Mrs. David Geirsel of Lincoln, children's reading and standards of literature; Miss Mary Ellen Brown of Lincoln, home economics; Mrs. H. R. Pritchard of Lincoln, social standards; Mrs. R. C. Kibbie of Omaha, thrift; Mrs. Nellie Bengston of Grand Island, child hygiene, Miss Louise Murphy of Lincoln, summer round-up, and Mrs. Esther Meyers of Lincoln, mental hygiene.

Lincoln Women Chairmen.

Other state chairmen for the coming year include Mrs. E. E. Ager of Lincoln, parent-teacher association pins; Mrs. J. D. Renne of Omaha, endowment fund; Mrs. C. S. Clayton of Lincoln, parliamentarian and by laws; Mrs. R. A. Harrison of College View, program; Mrs. John Miller of Lincoln, child welfare magazine; Mrs. May Morley of Lincoln visual education, and Mrs? Mark Pierce of Lincoln, publicity.

Mrs. Clara Clayton, Mrs. G. H. Wentz, Mrs. Mark Pierce, Mrs. May Morley, and Mrs. E. A. Wing of Lincoln form the new state bulletin committe. Mrs. R. A. Harrison of College View is the new editor of the Nebraska Parent-teacher association bulletin. Mrs. T. O. Merchant of Beatrice heads the pre-school committee. The spiritual training chairman will be chosen by a special committee.

It was decided at the afternoon meeting that the state congress will issue charters to all associations in membership with state and national.

Officers of Local Chapter of Does

Club Talks On Training Of Children

Mrs. Guinn Leads Discussion On Mental Hygiene At Woman's Forum Meeting.

The Lincoln Woman's Forum held its regular meeting Friday at the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. C. E. Burton presiding. Mrs. H. T. Guinn led the discussion on "Mental Hygiene," using a manuscript of the lecture recently delivered in Lincoln by Dr. A. E. Bennett of the Omaha medical college of Nebraska university.

Mrs. R. G. Harris, instructor of the mental hygiene department of the woman's club, was a guest at the forum meeting.

The importance of early training to the child was brought out during the discussion. The first five years of a child's life is the time for training in mature behavor, Mrs. Guinn stated.

The forum holds its next meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Friday with Mrs. E. C. Luce as the principal speaker. A cafeteria luncheon at 11:45 will precede the meeting.

Mrs. Wood Presides.

The dramatic department of the woman's club met in Faculty hall Wednesday 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Ed Wood led the business meeting because of the illness of the regular leader. It was decided to discontinue the meetings until January 9.

Chadron Normal

Mrs. Dora Bobier of Chadron, has accepted the position of Alpha Phi Pi house mother, her residence at the sorority house beginning December 1.

Rev. W. H. Shoaf of the Methodist church, Chadron, gave an address to faculty and students, Wednesday morning December 5.

Club Women Planning for Christmas

Americanization Group Will Hold Party For Children.

That the Lincoln Women's club is expending much time in preparing to carry on its work during this Christmas season is indicated by the work of the committees connected with the civics department of the organization.

Dr. Maude Bell who has charge of the Americanization group tells a few of the things being done by her committee which is composed of Clara M. Cates, Mrs. Walter Wynkoop, Mrs. H. C. Leopold, Mrs. C. E. Lindblad, Mrs. F. Dyers.

During the holiday season, Mrs. Wynkoop, who speaks Spanish and has spent many years among the Mexicans in Lincoln, provides a tree for all Mexican families. Last year fifty-six families were remembered and there will not be less this year.

The tall tree will be decorated and placed in the Red room of the Y. M. C. A. with large well filled paper sacks piled about it on the floor, each labeled with the name of the family to receive it. Inside are useful gifts and a sack of candy for each. The candy is given by the churches.

The program will be a story in both languages, to be followed by an hour of games in charge of Miss Edythe Weichelbaum and assistants, of the city schools. Mothers may join in the games while the members of the committee care for their babies.

Industrial Work.

Every year Dr. Bell receives many Santa Claus letters from families of various sizes. The children are very industrious and those in the schools receive much attention. Mrs. Bell's 8-year-old daughter gathers cigar and cheese boxes for them to use in the school classes. The Mexican mothers receive instruction in making over garments. The committee has called upon eighty-eight individuals and out of this number sixty-eight enrolled for the night schools.

Big Sister Movement.

Mrs. Eugene Levy of the welfare committee of the woman's club, with her helpers, is planning many interesting things for children living in the state institutions and others. Toys will be distributed. The motor corps is to transport all of them to the coliseum for the Elks' Chritmas party. Many young girls are asking for names of those to whom they may send toys and are wrapping daint packages for them.

Through the big sister movement in the welfare committee many of the boys and girls will be entertained in Lincoln homes on Christmas day. These little people will be provided with proper clothing to add to the leasure of the day.

Other members of the committee are: Miss Lincola Groat, vice chairman; Mrs. H. Taylor Wilson, Mrs. Nathan Lieberman, Mrs. George Zellers, Mrs. D. M. Eisler, Mrs. J. H. Still, Mrs. William Nicklaus, Mrs. D. Meison, Mrs. E. B. Chappell.

Chadron Normal

President Robert I. Elliott attended the delegate assembly of the Nebraska State Teachers association at Grand Island last week, from which place he left for Lincoln to be present at the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic association, of which he is president. Prof. E. L. Rouse accompanied President Elliott to Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett K. Dowell of Hemingford, were callers at the college, Tuesday, December 11.

The college gymnasium was the scene of a dance given by the Psi Beta Sigma fraternity, Friday evening, December 7. A four-piece local orchestra furnished music. Besides the terpsichorean entertainment several tables were provided for cards. The fraternity members and their guests were under the chaperonage of Kenneth I. Kohl. Psi Beta Sigma sponsor.

Open house was held by the Zeta Alpha sorority for students and faculty Sunday afternoon, December 9. Eloine Gilmore, president, Chadron; Harriett Gibson, vice president, Chadron; Lorraine Salleng, secretary-treasurer Thedford; Elinor Johnston, house president, Hay Springs, were in the receiving line. Lila Mae York, Chadron, Lena Porter, Orehard; Alice Campbell, Douglas, Wyo., and Beryl Good, Chadron, presided at the tea table. Miss Susie E. Boyer sponsor, Miss Florence M. Henderson, honorary member, and Mrs. L. H. Wright, house mother, also greeted the guests.

An entertainment under auspices of the college was given by the Betty Booth company in the assembly hall, Monday evening, December 10. Miss Betty Booth, mezzo-soprano and pianist, Paul Clark, violinist, and Hugo Brandt, pianist, were the artists who rendered the program. In several vocal numbers Miss Booth, a native of Vienna, appeared in colorful costumes of the countries to which the songs belong.

Colon Girl Is Winner of Club News Contest

LUCILLE TEMPLETON.
Who, as the winner of the 4-H club news writing contest sponsored by The Lincoln Star, in association with other newspapers in the state, will receive a trip to the annual club week meetings in Lincoln next June. She is a member of a sewing club at Colon and a junior in the Wahoo high school.

Miss Lucille Templeton of Colon is the winner of the 1928 news writing contest sponsored for boys and girls club reporters by the Lincoln Star. She will receive a trip to the annual club week at Lincoln next June with her expenses paid by the Star.

She was the best of 27 reporters who entered the contest. She wrote six stories covering hr club activities during the year.

Lucille is a member of the Lucky Eleven second year sewing club of Colon with Mrs. R. R. Sutton as a local leader. She is sixteen years old and a junior in the Wahoo high school.

Second place in the contest went to Margaret Walsh of Gresham and third to Merle Anderson of Strang. Honorable mention was given to Ruth Reams of Madrid.

The Lincoln Star contest was one of the six sponsored by daily papers in Nebraska this year. It started early in the spring and closed Novermber 1. Reporters of boys and girls' clubs in the state were eligible to enter and could take their choice of the contest in which they competed. Each of them was to write at least four stories about the activities of their own club during the summer.

Florence McRann of Omaha won the Bee News contest; Edith Robertson of Eagle, the State Journal contest; Alma Hengstenberg of Kenesaw, the Hasting Tribune contest; Agnes Tisthammer of Newman Grove, the Omaha Journal-Stockman contest; and Ella Houghtaling of Gering, the Scottsbluff Star-Herald contest. The six winners of other boys and girls reporters in their counties in 1929. In addition to the training at club week they will have plenty of time to enjoy themselves with about 300 other outstanding boys and girls of the state.

Christmas Parties And Dinner Dances Planned

Members of Lincoln Camp Fire Groups Busy Themselves With Plans for Christmas Affairs—Will Sing Carols Christmas Eve—Many Parties Being Planned.

The annual Camp Fire girls Christmas candle lighting service will be held in the University Episcopal church, Thirteenth and R streets, at 3 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, December 23. Representatives from various groups of the city will light the candles and the Camp Fire chorus will have charge of the music. Each Camp Fire girl at the service will light her candle in the flame of the Christmas Spirit candle, rededicating herself to Camp Fire and all that the candle of Christmas symbolizes.

The staff, for the Camp Fire paper, will meet in the Camp Fire office Monday at 4 o'clock. Materials will be compiled for the January issue of the paper.

Spend Night At Camp.

The girls of the Che-wo-lo camp spent Friday evening at the Camp Fire cabin in Bethany park. They were accompanied by their guardian, Rowena Bengston and assistant guardian, Berhice Huffmann. The two girls planning the menu for the meals were Verna Baker and Marion Fish.

Breakfast was cooked after great difficulty and the girls were glad they are living today instead of years back, when all meals were prepared over the fireplace.

Heseco camp fire held its meeting at the home of Ruby Chryst. Before the meeting adjourned the radio was turned on and the Camp Fire chorus was heard singing Camp Fire songs and Christmas carols.

Officers Chosen.

The Owasaka Camp worked on the baby layette during their meeting at Marion Brown's. They also planned a hike to Robbers cave for Saturday.

The new Camp Fire group of which Mrs. O. E. Edison is guardian met at the home of Margaret Hendricks. The following officers have been elected, president, Eleanor Chase; vice president, Betty Andrews; secretary and treasurer, Helen Mae Flieger; reporter, Margaret Hendricks.

A ceremonial meeting was held at the home of Margaret Van Sickle by the Ecaowasin camp. Two girls, Janice Campbell and Dorcas Crawford were made woodgatherers. Four new members were formally taken into the group. The group has completed eleven garments for a layette to be given to the Needlework Guild.

Lew Camp Fire group met Saturday, at which time plans were made for a covered dish luncheon to be held at the home of the president, Evelyn Braun. A Christmas party will be held in the evening, with the girls exchanging gifts. Three new members have been enrolled as follows: Margaret Lanphere, Mary Kimsey and Jean Willis.

Groups Earn Honors.

Aokiya camp met in their Camp Fire room to complete garments for the needlework guild. The girls have been collecting toys to be turned over to the firemen at University Place to repair.

The Koru camp held a practice for their ceremonial meeting at the home of their guardian. They then had a nature study meeting studying various trees, so as to identify them in winter.

Tunega camp met at the home of their guardian. The requirements of the contest were checked and the Camp Fire songs reviewed to earn the honor of knowing the six official Camp Fire songs.

Mary Schricker was made chairman of the Christmas basket committee of the Wenagiyata Camp Fire. The group is preparing toys and playthings for a family of little folks.

Plan Christmas Party.

A Christmas party was planned by the Cheskchamay camp to be held at the home of Beth Sutton. The Camp Fire paper was discussed by the group and two members were chosen to send in for the title of the paper.

The Merrie Gold group gave service by decorating a booth in the high school gymnasium for the carnival. The group has been assisting in organizing two new Cam pFire groups, one of freshman girls under Miss Arthella Gadd, and the other sophomore girls with Miss Doris Seeves.

Members of the Kici camp met to plan a way to make money for the dues of the group. The girls are filling a Christmas basket and are practicing Christmas carols to be sung on their tour of the Christmas caroling, December 24.

The Ehawee camp met on Monday in Trinity church. Following a short business meeting and announcements various members of the group gave a program of musical numbers and readings.

Sehelo camp met in the Camp Fire office to plan for their Christmas service. The group is preparing a Christmas baskt and will do Christmas carolling.

Presidents Meet.

The Presidents club met Monday and elected the following officers for the year: President, Virginia Amos; vice president, Charlotte Maxwell; secretary, Harriett Alberts. The Christmas candle lighting service was planned and announcements made of the various activities and meetings of the month of December.

Havelock Notes.

Miss Dorothy Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Freeman, and J. Clifford Gunter of College View were married at Seward Saturday afternoon, December 8. Only immediate relatives were present. After the ceremony a reception and supper were held at the Windsor hotel. Mrs. Gunter graduated from Havelock high school in the class of 1928. The couple are making their home in College View.

Parents of the football players gave a banquet Monday evening at the Masonic temple for the grid warriors. About seventy-five attended. The mothers cooked the dinner and members of last year's team served it. The color scheme was in purple and gold and the tables were arranged to form the letter "H." Victor Anderson was toastmaster. Toasts were given by Dan McMullen, "Choppy" Rhodes, Gregg McBride, John Bentley and Coach Delaporte. Dancing concluded the evening program.

After serving for eighteen years and eight months as mail carrier on route 3, J. L. Woods of Havelock, was retired Saturday at the age of 65. Mr. Woods reminisces of the great changes in conditions of travel during his period of duty on the mail route. He remembers many occasions when roads were impassable even with a horse and buggy. For the first eight years he had a horse a year, for the last ten years, an automobile each five years. He has worked under five different postmasters.

Miss Byrnece Pathe Miss Lillian Schluntz

The engagement of Miss Byrnece Pathe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pathe of Milford, to William Hershberger of Scribner, is announced today by her parents. Miss Pathe is a former student at the University of Nebraska, and is a member of Phi Mu sorority.

Announcement is made today of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lillian Schluntz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Schlunta of Lincoln, to Wesley Gibson, also of Lincoln. The wedding is to take place early in January at the home of the bride's parents, 4203 Cleveland avenue.

Chicago Opera Company Appears Here March 21

Gounod's "Faust" Will Be Presented in University Coliseum By Famous Musical Organization Which Delighted Crowd of 8,000 Last Spring With Production of "Il Trovatore."

The Chicago Civic Opera company, which appeared in Lincoln for the first time last spring, will return to the city next March, according to announcement made Saturday by John L. Selleck. Mr. Selleck is business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska and served in the role of local impresario when the Chicago artists appeared here last spring. The 1929 date is Thursday, March 21, the performance being under the auspices of the University of Nebraska.

The Chicago operatic organization which is the largest traveling opera company in the world, will present "Faust." The company will bring to Lincoln its cast intact, including the original artists, orchestra, choruses, scenery and stage effects, which have featured the season at the Auditorium theater in Chicago.

When the artists presented "Il Trovatore" at the Nebraska coliseum last spring, a throng of more than 8,000 people turned out to hear the opera. The Lincoln audience was the largest to which the Chicago organization has ever played and music circles proclaimed the crowd as the largest indoor gathering in opera history. A check-up of the attendance showed nearly every section of the state represented with music-lovers driving to Lincoln from more than 100 cities in Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas.

One of Best Operas.

In the selection of "Faust" the university is bringing to Nebraska another popular opera, one replete with tunes familiar to all, music which has been sung by every vocalist, played by every instrument and whistled by every schoolboy.

The Gounod opera is one of the outstanding productions of the Chicago Civic Opera company's repertoire on its transcontinental tour. It is considered one of the best known and most thrilling operas.

During the past quarter of a century, a stirring fragment from "Faust" has been a prominent feature of choral study in schools and the "Soldiers' Chorus" brings with it a thrill few other opera numbers bring.

Scarcely second in long standing popularity are the Jewel and Flower songs from the scene in Marguerite's garden where the innocent page Siebel, and the aged

Formal Opening Of New $100,000 Home For Nurses At Lincoln General Hospital Is Held Sunday Afternoon

Views of the new nurses' home of the Lincoln General hospital, which opens today. On the upper left is the living room, with its attractive furnishings, and on the upper right, the exterior, showing the Georgian architecture of the edifice. The center left is a room of two student nurses, and the right, the living room of the hospital superintendent. On the lower left is the superintendent's bedroom, and on the right, one room of a supervisor's suite.

All interior photos by Bucklin.

The informal opening of the new nurses' home of the Lincoln General hospital at Lake street and St. Mary's avenue will be held Sunday afternoon. The guest list will include the hospital staff, staffs of other hospitals, the board of directors, and members of Lincoln training schools.

The new edifice, a three-story and basement structure, is in the effective and substantial Georgian architecture, built of brick with Bedford stone trim. The shutters of the many windows are in the same subdued gray of the lintel stones and add to the beauty of the building.

An exact copy of a mansion in Alexandria, W. Va., the central portion of the exterior is most picturesque. The stoop, topped with its grilled iron railing, the fan lights, and the broad white door make the new home a distinct addition to the architectural charm of the city. The ends are more in the style of the John Hancock home of Boston, with their two chimneys on either end.

The building is 118 feet long and 43 feet wide, and is entirely fireproof throughout, with slate roof and copper gutters and rain spouts. It accommodates seventy-five residents, who previously have lived in three different homes belonging to the hospital association, and in private homes.

Gift of Teeters.

J. L. Teeters purchased the ground and built the nurse's home, the entire investment, including furnishings, amounting to about $100,000. The title is vested in the Lincoln Hospital association, which pays Mr. Teeters rental during his life time. Upon his death, the property reverts to the association without further obligation. Of the total cost, about $85,000 is in the building and grounds.

The walls of all the corridors and of the entrance lobby and vestibule are in a pale shade of green. The corridor floors are covered with battleship linoleum and those of the lobby and vestibule in quarry tile. The wide entrance from the lobby to the corridor, and all entrances opening into the long hall, are arched in the typical fashion of the Georgian architecture.

To carry out the detail of the Georgian style, a mirror with carved walnut frame, a console table, and two tall backed Colonial chairs have been placed opposite the entrance in the corridor. The lobby has a long Colonial bench on either side, where visitors may wait.

Colonial Fireplace.

On the north side of the first floor is the parlor, 42 feet long, including two litle alcoves opening from it, and 30 feet wide. Outstanding in the room is the white Colonial fireplace, very lovely in its severe austerity, with its two electrified old-fashioned lamps, with their dangling prisms, above it. The fireplace is finished with brass screen, andirons, and fire set, the gift of the class of 1927.

The room is in walnut, with French gray hangings, and rich maroon window hangings with the glass curtains of theatrical gauze. The living room has a lovely grandfather clock, with Westminster chimes, given by the graduating class of 1928. Included in the furniture are two comfortable davenports, overstuffed and Coxswell chairs, shaded floor lights, a desk, book and magazine racks, and tables. The two alcoves opening fom the east of the room are furnished with a floor light, magazine rack, table, and easy chair.

Planned for the convenience of the supervisors of the Lincoln General hospital, the first floor of the home has five two-room suites. The rooms are so arranged that two beds can be placed in one room, and the other furnished for a parlor, or both may be used for sleeping quarters. The rooms of each suite are joined by the private bath.

The dressers and beds are steel, in walnut finish. Each room has a brown wicker chair, upholstered in flowered mahogany colored material, incidental chairs, and a wicker desk in the same color. A closet, with dress poles, ample shelf space, and a brass shoe rack, is connected with each room. One room of one of the suites is a guest room, where the mother or friends of a nurse may stay while in the city.

Many Conveniences.

Every room on the ground floor is wired for telephones and radios. To add to the comfort of the quarters, the rooms are wired for a number of wall and floor plugs, so that lights may be arranged to suit the occupant.

The apartments of Mrs. G. G. Smits, superintendent of the hospital, on the south of the building are attractively furnished. Her living room is in green, with green velour upholstered walnut furniture, and wall lights in shaded green, similar to those of the other rooms. Mrs. Smits has two walnut book stands on either side of her desk, overstuffed furniture, and her own cabinet, which conceals a tea pot and cups for afternoon tea. Bright cretonne hangings complete a comfortable and charming room.

Her sleeping room, on the southeast, is also in walnut, with curtains of dotted cream net, finished in rose, green, and gold ruffles. A rose brocaded chair, walnut dresser and high boy, bed, and table, with its monophone, complete the room. A private bath and closet open off the room. Beneath the south stairs for the second floor is Mrs. Smits' trunk room.

The second and third floors, for the student nurses and two floor supervisers on each floor, are just alike. Each one has its negligee parlor, in brown wicker, hangings of brown, gold, rose and blue, and shaded lights, where the nurses may spend an off hour of leisure.

Have Kitchenettes.

Both floors have kitchenettes, where the girls may prepare tea or coffee, make candy, or some light refreshments for themselves. They may also iron in this room. The graduate nurses have a similar kitchen on the first floor. In the bath on each floor are four showers, bath tub, and three toilets.

Each of the student rooms has two beds and a combined study table, with its shaded reading light and overhead rack for books. The brown wicker is also carried out in these rooms, and each one has its lavatory and medicine closet. The clothes closets are like those of the other rooms, with shoe holder, shelves, and pole. Candle Lighting Services To Be Held Next Sunday

Elaborate Preparations for Dancing Club Parties Bring Social Season in Lincoln to Its Peak in a Colorful Setting of Yuletide Decorations.

Elaborate dinner dances and gay Christmas parties mark the peak of the season for dancing clubs this week. More pretentious decorations and favors in the holiday motif make these parties more interesting than usual.

A winter scene will be the background for the Fifty-Fifty club dinner dance to be given Tuesday evening at the Lincoln hotel for fifty couples. Elaborate plans are being made according to the members in charge of the affair. Judge and Mrs. Fred Shepherd, Captain and Mrs. Charles Hoss, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Enslow are in charge of the affair.

Guest Night.

Over one hundred couples are expected to attend the very smart dinner dance which members of the Saturday Night club will give at the Lincoln hotel on Thursday evening. Besides being a Christmas party it will be guest night. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rohmen have been directing plans for this dance, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Walt, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Stephens, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weil are assisting them.

Plan Dinner Dance.

A Christmas dinner dance will be given by the Cornhusker club on Friday evening at the Avalon party house for thirty coupdes. Those plannin gthe party are Mr. and Mrs. Farley Young, Mr. and Mrs. C. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. George Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Ek Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Knox Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. William Day.

Christmas Party.

Hokomok club members are planning a Christmas party for forty couples to be given Monday evening at the Lincoln hotel. Christmas favors will be given at the three favor dances. Mr. and Mrs. Will Stoner head the committee in charge. The other members are Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. George, and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Bennett.

To Open Santa's Pack.

A large Christmas tree and a grab bag for presents will give a holiday air to the Namid club dance to be given Monday evening at the Avalon party house. Refreshments will be served during the intermission to the thirty-five couples which will attend. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmitz, Mr. and Mrs. William Mulder, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Boys form the committee in charge.

Allons Club Friday.

Sixty couples of the Allons club will have a Christmas party Friday at the Rosewilde party house. There will be two favor dances. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sick are in charge of arrangements and they are being assisted by Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Weishel, Mr. and Mrs. Buford Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Killian, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. B. Hazen, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ernesti.

Titled Beauty Turns Shop Girl

Lady Doria Hope, charming daughter of the Duke of Newcastle of England, has been discovered working as a saleswoman in a New York department store. She has been visiting in the United States since October.

Numerous Christmas Parties During Week

It is Dickens in his famous Christmas Carol who gives one of the clearest etchings of Christmas tide in London and which is naturally typical of all England. Housewives, husbands and children all shopping in tiny shops and pastry stores tucked away on crooked streets, gay Christmas decorations shining with pride from every nook and corner of shop windows, counters of Christmas foods—Dickens even sketches minutely the purchases of different women until one can close their eyes and fairly sniff for duck and dressing, the roast beef, plum pudding and brandy sauce. There may be those who claim wading through works of Dickens' is far from exacting but leisure reading of The Christmas Carol is next best to really being in London at Christmas time.

But since people of the United States go in for everything they do with enthusiasm, Christmas day in our country calls for a holiday season beginning with December 1, and Christmas parties come and go long before Christmas even though they don't go on forever.

Mrs. W. J. Byer entertained with a Christmas party for members of the Radio Bridge club at her home, 2220 B street, Tuesday. There were twelve present for the 1 o'clock luncheon including, Miss Marie Beach and Mrs. Lucille Campbell as guests. The luncheon table had a centerpiece formed of a holly wreath with a red taper tied with red tulle bows in the center. The living rooms were lovely with clusters of pink and red roses. At bridge Mrs. F. D. Schroeder made high score. Mrs. Frank Everts will eftertain the club at her home, 1936 E street, with a 1 o'clock luncheon, January 8.

Mothers Club Meets.

A color note of red predominated in the appointments of the Tuesday afternoon meeting of the Alpha Omicron Pi Mother's club which was held at the chapter house with Mrs. W. P. Scott, Mrs. Mary B. Lakeman and Mrs. William Foster as hostess. Nine guests attended. After a business meeting a social hour followed in which the guests exhanged Christmas gifts and were served refreshments. The luncheon table was centered with red candles and a Christmas bouquet and the refreshments carried out the holiday spirit. January 8, a 1:30 o'clock covered dish luncheon will be held at the chapter house.

Entertain Progressive Circle.

Mrs. W. J. Byer and Mrs. W. R. Mellor entertained thirty-six members of the Progressive Circle of St. Paul's church Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Byer's home, 2220 B street. Miss Faye Jackson gave a piano number and W. R. Mellor talked on the Nicaraguan problem. Refreshments were served and appointments were in Christmas ideas with wreaths of holly decorating the rooms and the table appointed with red tapers, pine cones and poinsettias.

Chi O Mothers Meet.

The Chi Omega Mother's club met at the chapter house Tuesday afternoon with twelve members present. Following business the time was spent informally. Mrs. Lily H. Williams was hostess for the occasion. January 8 at 1 o'clock luncheon will be held at the chapter house.

Plattsmouth Club Luncheon.

Fifteen members of the Plattsmouth club spent a pleasant afternoon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. F. H. Dudley, 332 South Twenty-seventh street, with Mrs. B. Critchfield and Mrs. M. V. Traver assisting. Afternoon hours were enjoyed socially followed by a luncheon. Mrs. Arthur Eighenbroadt will entertain at her home, 217 South Twenty-eighth street, January 8.

Faust, transformed into a young cavalier, vie for the love of the beautiful girl. These numbers, so rich in melody, however, do not overshadow the remainder of the score, which, because of the widely diversified training of the composer Gounod, runs the entire gamut of emotional expressions, the joyous, the triumphant, the passionate, the despairing.

Elevate Rear Seats.

Acoustic properties of the coliseum being pronounced excellent by the large crowd that heard the 1928 opera, university authorities now are turning their attention to improving the seating arrangements.

Main floor elevations will be increased to afford each patron a good view of the stage. The plan is to retain the same number of main floor chairs, but improve the vision from the seats toward the rear of the auditorium. This will be accomplished by elevating the rear chairs substantially above the floor level of the arrangement last spring.

No announcement has been made as to the cast of artists that will appear in Lincoln, it being presumed the roster of principals will be forwarded within the next week.

Marriage of Miss Helzer Recent Event

Becomes Bride of Harold Hempke at Church Wedding Wednesday.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Helzer and Harold Hempke took place in the presence of sixty guests Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Grace Lutheran church. Mrs. Victor Ruey served as matron of honor and wore blue satin and a metallic hat. Victor Ruey was best man. The bride was given away by her brother, Edwin Helzer of Ashland. The bride wore blue satin ebroidered in metallic trimming and a metallic hat. She carried bouquet of sweetheart roses and swansonia. A reception was held in the church parlors. The couple will make their home at 2645 South Eleventh street. Relatives from Ashland, Murdock and Hastings attended.

New Year's Wedding.

A New Year's day wedding will be that of Miss Lottie Eddy, daughter of Mrs. Frances Eddy, who will be married to Richard Gates at 8 o'clock in the East Lincoln Christian church by Rev. W. P. Hill.

Attending Miss Eddy will be her sister, Miss Ruth Eddy, who will be maid of honor. Fred Olney will be the best man. Little Mary Eddy, a niece of the bride, will be flower girl.

After the ceremony there will be a reception at the home of Mrs. H. H. Smith, a sister of Miss Eddy.

Miss Strasheim to Wed.

When Miss Linda Strasheim is married to Ray W. Lambert on Friday at 5 o'clock she will wear a blue georgette dress with flowers to match. The ceremony will be performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Strasheim at 818 Washington street by Rev. Barton Koolen of the Friedens Lutheran church. Only a few relatives and close friends will witness the marriage.

A reception at the home will follow the ceremony. The young couple will reside in Lincoln.

Jean Wolff Engaged.

Mrs. Clara Wolff, 2028 M street, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Jean, to Harry Miller. The wedding will take place Sunday, December 23, at 4:3 o'clock at Congregation Tifereth Israel, with Rabbi Harry Jolt reading the lines. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at Avalon party house at 8 o'clock.

Havelock Notes.

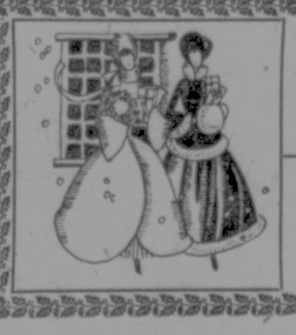

George Peters who was taken to a local hospital last week to undergo an operation expects to be able to return home Sunday.

The Christmas party of the Women's club which was to be held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. A. Frampton was called off on account of illness.

Eightieth Birthday Observed

Thirty Friends of Mrs. Westhafer Call to Celebrate the Occasion.

Mrs. Sarah J. Westhafer celebrated her eightieth birthday Tuesday, and thirty of her friends called on her during the day at her home, 1830 South Nineteenth street. Mrs. Della Conwell of Geneva was an out-of-town guest. Birthday cake and coffee were served. Mrs. Westhafer, who has made her home in Lincoln for twenty-five years, has two children in the city, Mrs. Ira Miller and Walter C. Westhafer.

MODERN EVE

Goes Christmas Shopping

My Heart Goes Out

TO THE mere man who finds himself in a ladies lingerie store picking that desired present for the wifey. You women who have stood in front of Diamond Bros., windows and imagined yourself the possessor of some of that delicate intimate finery may be sure that the way has been made easy for you to now own some, for they're having a special men's sale Thursday Eve., Dec. 20th and if you're wise you'll send hubby down where men salesmen will assist in making his selection easier.

I Lost All Track of Time

WHEN I roamed around in the spacious toy department on the fourth floor at Ridnour's and I just couldn't resist cuddling some of the realistic dolls they had there. Baby faces, baby hands, dressed in the finest organdys, and their realistic way of saying ma-ma makes playing make believe almost a reality. These are priced from twenty-five cents to seven dollars and fifty cents.

If You Have a Friend

WHO'S picture you would like, go to the Wright Studio and have Miss Wright explain the gift certificate they're offering. This is the best last minute gift you can get, and best of all in this way you may make the appointment for after Christmas. 1308 O Street.

Hang Up the Baby's Stocking

BE sure you don't forget to tuck in a comfy pair of house slippers for the little feet. At Kinney's you'll see rows and rows of tiny ons. He'd never have cold toes if he possessed a pair of those lined in sheepskin. Felt in many colors form the most important trend. I'm sure he'd thank Santa forever more if he selected bright red kid ones.

Blue In Advance Spring Collections

IN reviewing advance spring lingerie presentations, the amount of blue employed is a significant note. Blues range from the clear robin's-egg blue, approved on the color card for "sun-burn" shades, to the Lido and Periwinke types with gray and purple casts.

You May Buy Doll Buggies

AT THE Crystal Furniture for as low as seventy-five cents and of course the better ones of wicker at $5. There are many other beautiful doll furnishings there as well as some very nice furnishings for mother's house.

Mrs. Champe Says:

"THE demand for Frederic waves is here and our shop is equipped with the latest models of Frederic machines and the Frederic's sectional heaters for rewaving. No need to wait for the old wave to grow out—no need to have it cut off, we can successfully wave your hair every three months. The price for the complete permanent is always $5.00. Expert operators to serve you under the personal supervision of Mrs. Champe. Ridnour's Beauty Shop, 10th and O Streets, Phone B6871.

Do You Believe in Santa Claus?

THIS is the season for giving and I know some of you women would give almost anything to have a well porportioned figure. Champe's are more than willing to give you a thirty minute treatment FREE to prove to you that we can reduce you or build you up to the weight you should be. We want to prove to you what we are doing for thers we can do for you. No obligation whatsoever. One Month's course only 15 dollars. Champe's Reducing Parlor, 1227 N Street.

Telephone Book Covers

OF leather are among the very unique collection of gifts to be found at Magee's new gift department in the hat section. These are hand painted and make a decidedly "different" gift. They're useful as well as ornimental and make a decidedly beautiful change in the old worn telephone book. They're selling at Magee's for only $1.75.

Among the most notable revivals which has come quite unexpectedly into the spotlight is ginghams in the classic checks and plaids, further emphasizing the impression that the preference is for cottons that are ecsentially cotton. Although the softly toned, as well as the more vividly colored, plaids are claiming attention, the major interest is diverted to checks. This is largely due to the vogue which has developed for this theme in all types of fabrics, including woolens and silks, as it presents a fresh contrast to the colorful prints.

If You Are Going

TO Give that certain "someone" a silk robe for Christmas and you're dreading to price them for fear of heart failure, better see those at Colton's and take a new lease on life, for you'll be amazed at their very low prices. You may buy lovely satin ones for as low as $5.95 and corduroy as low as $3.95.

Its the Low Prices

AS well as the exceptionally nice quality of the gifts that make so many folks do their Christmas Shopping in the new Cornhusker Gift Shop. Grown ups as well as tiny tots can be made happy by a gift from here for they have beautiful things for all ages. See these in the Cornhusker hotel building.

Your Good Time at Christmas Time

DEPENDS largely on how you look, your clothes should be in tip top shape, men's hats, suits and topcoats may be cleaned at the Modern cleaners on a day or two notice and they do all kinds of ladies' accessory cleaning, hats, gloves, etc. Call them at F2377.

Egg-Shell Shades Variously Termed

EACH successive week adds a new name to a shade which originally began its existence in lingerie collections under the nom-de-plume of egg-shell, and is now variously termed. This beige-yellow shade now appears in many nuances interpreted as either "vanilla" or "manilla," and is among colors slated for spring favor, not only because it is included in the sunburn range, but also because of its adaptability to blend with the deep ecru laces now in vogue.

Champe Says:

LAST week we gave five times as many permanent waves as in the same week a year ago. Why? Because women are discarding the injurious hot curling iron and marcels and demanding the soft natural waves of the permanent for their year around hair dress. Because the price is so reasonable, only $5 for your complete wave. Because Champe's, today with modern machines equipped with sectional heaters for re-waving successfully, any head of hair. Even if you had three or six inches of old wave left. A free test curl to prove this. Because Champe's do better permanent waving yet charge you less. Listen in over station WAAW, Omaha every Tuesday and Friday at 2 p. m. Free permanents to listeners. Shampoo and finger wave $1 Champe's Beauty Shop, 1229 N Street (upstairs). Also shops in Omaha and St. Joseph, Mo.

Flares are given approval, although straight lines claim first attention.

Feminine Travelers

RETURNING from Europe on board the Berengaria displayed, in their choice of costumes, a wealth of fur fashions, usually interpreted in the rich luxury peltries. Silhouette variety was such an important feature that almost every coat appeared "made to order," both in design and fit.

Black Broadtail.

Black broadtail appeared as the choice of a number of very youthful arrivals, in coats which usually avoided contrasting trimming. Subtle cuts which contributed bolero suggestions or rippled flares, placed at sides, front or back, animated the silhouette.

Flat Caracul.

Fine flat caracul, either in soft beige tints or in black, developed other youthful coats, frequently embodying flared movements. Little matching muffs were several times observed with these supple, sleek coats.

Usually About This Time in the Christmas

SHOPPING season we bemoan the fact that there is not enough selection left from which to choose the things we want. I'm happy to say that my trip through Gold's assured me that this situation does not exist in this store, for they are daily replenishing their stocks with new and beautiful merchandise so that the merchandise you buy this week in any department is sure to be fresh. The main floor is glistening with smart small gifts and accessories for the wardrobe. The second floor is filled with fine bedding, linens, yard goods, draperies and shoes. Floor three accommodates ready to wear, millinery, baby department and lingerie. Gifts and art work on four and beautiful furniture on floor five. I must add that your packages will be wrapped free of charge in the gift wrapping department on the second floor. Of course I need not remind you that the toy department is in the basement. If you've forgotten I'm sure the kiddies will remind you. Don't forget the merchandise at Gold's is new.

Lou Holden's Russian Dressing With Oyster Cocktail

1 pint medium oysters; 1 cup chopped green peppers; 1 cup Holden's Dressing, well beaten: Dash tabasco, salt, pepper, vinegar or lemon juice if desired.

Red Hot Service

ON draperies and rugs is what the Peerless Cleaners are offering for before Christmas Cleaning. In their establishment you may have your home furnishings cleaned even yet and returned in time to be put in place for Christmas. Call them now at B6731 and you'll be all ready for Santa.

Scarf collars predominate in coat styles.

There Is No Item

ON SALE today for the smart woman's wardrobe which has made such strides toward perfection as hose. Women who might be a little careless about other things are always particular in this selection—and, of course, that is the one gift which she can't have too many of. When I think of the sheerest and finest chiffons on the market I naturally think of Magee's, because they carry the beautiful Van Raalte brand in the newest shades for formal and street wear, and their extra length is a compliment to the brief skirts. Have you seen those clever velvet mules in pastel shades with the back strap to hold them on? They are just too clever for words and such a comfort to wear. Match her robe in a pair of these for Christmas. Remember when buying party slippers, Magee's handle the superb I. Miller line. They're showing White Satin, Gold and Silver Kid and Satin.

You May Rent

CHAIRS and folding tables at the Star Van and Storage company at a very small extra cost. The new ones are so nice and you'd never dream that they're the folding kind as they are leather cushioned and very comfy. Of course the ordinary wooden kind rent for less.

The Exceedingly Low Prices

ON THE finished and unfinished plaster pieces at Cook's Paint and Varnish Company will remain the same until Christmas. Even if you're planning on getting a few pieces for yourself you couldn't do better than to buy those now. Classes on Tuesday and Friday evenings for the benefit of those who want to finish their gifts.

Width at the wrist is in evidence in coat sleeves, either of fur, in cuffs or in the shape of the sleeve itself.

Each and Every Department at Harris Goars

IS filled with beautiful gifts for Christmas and each purchase you make may be on their special credit plan. That's one beautiful feature about shopping there. You can get the best and still pay after Christmas. In the Radio department you will find beautiful Crosley all electric radios, as low as $97.75. In their import department you may find many things of leather, and glass ware. Every piece of electric equipment is of the best. Gifts for men in robes, ties, lighters, shirts and novelty cigaret cases. The ladie's department has lovely robes of silk, hose, scarfs, and dainty lingerie. You know their beautiful diamonds are all imported from Antwerp. This, is the reason of their very low price. The fine assortment of wrist watches and rings cannot be beat.

Ella Cinders of Comic Paper Fame

IS depicted in the form of a clever dolly to be found in the Toy Section at Hardy's and then there are many other dolls equally popular with the little mothers, baby dolls that say ma-ma and hold a really truly nursing bottle, pickaninny children with their pigtails and funny clothes, Sonny boy dolls and Sonny girl dolls. The guaranteed Horseman doll, and the Madame Hendren dolls are among this huge display. Of course if you want your child blissfully happy on Christmas better get her some of the doll accessories like buggies, suitcases, furniture, dishes and doll houses fully equipped from bath room to parlor. See these toys among many others at Hardy's.

Every Woman Weakens When

SHE passes a counter of pretty silk undies. So if you would make her blissfully happy this Christmas, select for her something of this intimate nature, Magee's third floor is all aglow with Christmas merchandise of these types. Real bargains and beauty combine in these quilted robes of padded satin for only 12.50 and up. Crepe satin teddys, and nighties would thrill some feminine heart. The ever popular dance sets of bandeaux and step-ins would delight the coed. Lace insets, dainty hand touches, and georgette combinations make those models very distinctive. See these in Magee's. Compare their low prices and I'm sure you'll agree this is the place to buy.

San Francisco. — Smart women are beginning to appear in town in bright ensembles of soft woolens, generally with a full or three-quarter length coat, a matching skirt and a jersey blouse. Unusual red and green shades are conspicuous in these costumes, and small hats are being worn in matching tones. Beaver and raccoon are favored furs used in full length tuxedo effect on the majority of these suits, while sleeves are untrimmed.

Every Gift Your Small Son

HAS demanded the whole year is to be found in that immense department of toys at Hardy's. Great electric trains that wend their way on long tracks, wagons, skates sleds, air rifles, play horses, and even a pool table like daddy's can be found there. If he has any doubts about the reality of Santa his faith will be restored if you choose his gift at Hardy's.

Tweed suits with flat kid caracul trim are being seen more and more frequently, generally with three-quarter length coats, in dull blue, gray or green effects. While beige coats were popular in the early season, the newer fashions favor blue, gray and green shades.

Lightweight jersey jumpers are seen frequently as the complement to a tailored suit or ensemble, rather than the silk blouse of former seasons. Sweaters are favored in an off-white shade, or matching the suit.

A closely fitted skull cap, finished with a ribbon binding ending in a small bow in the back, and a tiny dotted veil has been noted again and again on smartly dressed young persons lunching at local hotels.

Sunburnt hosiery is by far the favorite with smart women, who choose them both with daytime and evening costumes, although the sunburnt complexion is still a rarity.

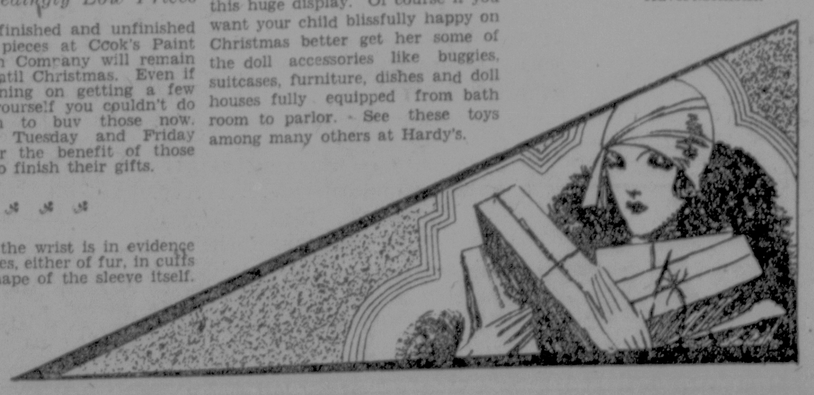

Beige and cocoa dyed lapin has been chosen by enough well dressed women to consider this fur one of the interesting styles of the season. The cravat collar is a favored feature on these coats.

Smart hats are beginning to have small irregular brim treatments, and Rose Descat's soft roll brim down at one side has been seen in significant repetition.

THERE are only a few days more until Christmas, but I still have time to help you with your shopping. If you need asistance or in doubt as to what is correct write to me MY services are FREE and I'm GLAD to HELP.

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles To Minerva

An Ugly Lead.

Dear Minerva: Down I sit with the beds unmade and breakfast dishes unwashed to wait for me a half hour at least until I tell my own experience, hoping it will be a help to "Daddie" and her "weak" companions.

Some years ago, when I was younger and full of pep, and not bad to look upon, I went through a season of Hades, too. Yes, I remember it, always will. Such things cannot be forgotten, no matter ho wmuch you hate and despise yourself for such weakness and right down sin.

My dear husband was transferred to a distant state at that time for a few months only and we decided it would not be best to tear up and move there, but I could remain at home, go on with my work, and go out to see him occasionally. This I did. I first set out to find a cheaper house, thus meeting a number of real estate men. One of these men was the wolf in sheep's clothing. Oh such a kind, smooth man, so sorry for me living alone. He pitied me so much that I began to feel sorry for myself, and that is the most dangerous thing possible for anyone.

Well, as the weeks went by, my phone was busy much of the time and I was called to the office often to hear of this and that house. We became desperately and wildly in love, just could not live without each other, we were quite sure. But of course he would not have had his wife ever dream he was stepping out—they never do—and I am surely glad now that he didn't. For there are just the two of us carrying the secret, and believe me, it is an ugly load.

Those months are the black spots in my memory. How I suffered to love him so and not to have him for my very own. He had a lovely wife and two children that I'm sure he never would have left even though he loved me so madly. He could not bear for me to speak to another man in his presence, was even jealous of my husband who was so good and kind and unsuspecting. We wrote love letters almost every day and this thing went on until my husband was transferred to a more distant state for a more permanent position. I went with him, but I admit I thought my heart remained there. It almost killed me to leave. I wept all the way to the station and could not control myself on the train. It seemed like the end of the world. But in time he grew so repulsive to me I never want to see him again.

I have visited friends there a couple of times and each time met him on the street and oh, yes, he must see me, have a date, was still willing to lie to his wife and get out for the evening. But I never fell for his line of hunk.

"Daddie," if you have a brain, get out of it now. Break it right off and don't just try it for a year. Just show your husband (one in a thousand) that you are not such a weak fool. Get busy working for your children, planning for their pleasue and the love in your heart for your husband is still there. You have just forgotten it for a time. I used to think I couldn't bear mine in my sight, just sure I could never love him again. But that was a mistake. I love him so deraly I'm sure I could never live without him again. But that wa sa mistake. I love him so dearly I'm sure I could never live without him. I hate myself for my foolish sin. I just have to keep it off of my mind and try to do something for others, keep busy and do all I can to make my dear, kind husband happy.

Oh, I am so glad I never told him. He never would believe me if I told him. Even now. He shall never have that sorrow. I will go down to my grave with my lips sealed and I'm sure my God has forgiven me.

Dear "Mrs. Daddie," take my experience as a warning. You will suffer over your weakness and sin, but don't break up your home. Don't wreck your children's lives as well as your patient husband's. If you could only realize what you owe your children. Suppose you break up your home and your boy turns out like young Hickman of the California crime. How would you feel?

Snap out of it. You are no weakling. When you grow older you will wonder why you had no more sense than to fall for anything like that. Ruthie.

Girls Are Too Wild.

Dear Minerva: I have read your Mail steadily for a number of years and have been wanting to write to you for some time. I think your advice is wonderful.

I am one of the younger set who lives about seventy miles from your fair city. I have been up to your city many times, in fact quite often. I graduated from high school this year and am coming up to the university next year to learn some profession. I am one of the many of the stronger sex. Well so much for my history.

I have read your discussions in your Mail about petting and necking and absolutely agree with you in your views on the subject. I am decidedly against this form of amusement. It's all the younger people—of which I am one—think about. They consider a fellow slow unless he has his pockets full of booze and cigarettes—more so booze. They go out on parties and wrap themselves up in the arms of some chap, kiss, drink, smoke and tell dirty stories. Much to my disgust I find all or nearly all young girls the same. I have gone with girls steady and not so steady, so you see I am talking from experience. Also all of these girls were the so-called best girls.

I returned recently from a visit to New Mexico. There I was introduced to a very good-looking girl who was popular in that city. I asked her for a date and was honored to get one with her. We went to the show, ate, then went for a drive. We no sooner started out than she asked me if I had anything to drink. She was quite put out because I had no whisky or anything to smoke. She then began to throw a line of talk which was sickening. I drove her home and excused myself for my early departure and hurried back to the hotel. So you see they are all practically the same.

Once upon a time I dreamed of a girl, a pure, wonderful one who was not all pawed over by other fellows, one who really loved as the girls in story books do, who was beautiful, who was tender and kind. A girl who loved a cozy little home and children, one who would not flirt with other men. Minerva, I would slave all my life for a girl like that. I would do anything to make her happy. But I have given up in despair. I cannot find her and I never will find her. I am determined to be a bachelor. Women hold little or no interest for me.

I do not smoke or drink and never will. No girls, I am not a sissy or a mamma's boy. I always go around with the best in the city. I am an athlete and my profession does not allow me to step from the straight and narrow path in any manner. Girls do not think that I am without emotion because I am not, indeed far from it.

In closing, I defy anyone to prove that there is really love in these modern times. Yours truly, A. L. S.

A.—I am surely glad you were not forced to walk home.

Which is an utterly frivolous remark brought forth by your rather unusual exposition of finding the girls too forward.

There is really and truly love even in these modern days of unrest. Prove it? No, I can't. But if you look about you with an open mind and a generous heart, you will find evidences on every side. The wife and mother giving her days to tender ministering to the babies and careful management of the home and the slender resources, all through her love for the husband and father. The father working often heartbreakingly long hours and against odds of utter discouragement, all because of his love for the girl he married. The woman who stands by her husband when the whole world turns against him. The man who is tender, devoted and kind to the invalid wife. The more normal couple who find their happiness in their home, in each other, in their children. Oh there are many evidences all about you. So many evidences that it is still news and a source of gossip when love does fly out the window and discord enters.

Responsibilities To Others.

Dear Minerva: May I not say a little about women's smoking? I am in my early thirties, married, and have one little girl, and have smoked moderately for the past ten years or more. I have always felt that it was my own business, regardless of the attitude of many others.

I will say, though, that my mother was very bitter against women's smoking, seeming to me in my headstrong youth to be too narrow to deserve much consideration regarding an issue which to me should be settled by each individual.

I began smoking because of my association with college young men whose outlook upon life and its privileges far out-distanced my old-fashioned training.

About this time my mother discovered me smoking and was so upset and hysterical I readily promised her to stop. She never referred to it again, and I soon began to feel that she had acted unfairly with me, and I soon took the attitude that "what she doesn't know doesn't hurt her."

However, I am sure she knew later that I had returned to the habit, and she may have felt that her suspicions were probably unfounded and would not hurt me by doubting my word.

Somehow I never brought myself to smoke in her presence and with all my deep-set convictions that a woman's right are the same as the man's. I have never indulged in the weed before my little girl.

A few months ago my dear mother died and I am heartsick and miserable, not only because I have lost her and miss her so, but because I now realize a little of how it must have hurt her to know that her idolized daughter could do anything so cheap or common. I would give worlds, were they mine to give, had I kept my promise to her, or better, if I had never smoked my first cigarette. It is too late now, and the only thing that eases my heartache is the fact that I have given up the habit entirely.

I write this in the hope that it may be of benefit to other girls who have mothers to hurt.

A.—More is involved in a woman's smoking that her personal freedom as you have discovered. Even though a woman is convinced in her own mind that she has equal rights with her husband, or her brother, to smoke, there are so often others to whom her smoking appears a sin or at least repulsive. To injure anyone near and dear, or to sacrifice the respect of a friend of the conservative school, is simply not worth the pleasure that may be derived from smoking, in my opinion.

I am strong for personal liberty, too. And in theory there is surely no reason that should apply as an argument against woman's smoking that does not apply to a man. But we are social creatures and must frequently adapt ourselves to the opinions of others rather than injure.

Not Without Love.

Dear Minerva: I have read columns similar to yours but have never found one as interesting as yours. Nor have I read of a problem just like mine.

I come from a family where the home conditions are far from pleasant. Somehow we can't all pull together. Mother tries to do her share but father has no home interest. Consequently there is much discord and we seek our entertainment outside the home. Father doesn't like it but he never tries to make it comfortable when you are home. Mother and he quarrel continually. I wish I could better make you understand the circumstances under which we children were raised.

I am 21, the oldest of four children. For over two years I have gone with a boy who has fallen in love with me. I started going with him, not because I enjoyed his company so much but because I wanted to go places. I can remember only once of our family going out together. I went quite steadily for several months and then came the fall. Like every girl I had my Prince Charming. Dick had not grown to be exactly ideal to me, but somehow I cared for him. He gave me love and that was what I hungered for. I loved blindly, what I thought was Dick, but what I realize now was a dream castle ideal. But I came to earth with a thud. He begged me to marry him, but deep down in by heart I knew that I did not love him. Yet I could not give him up. We kept our secret for two months, then somehow we told mother. The next few weeks were a nightmare of tears and agony.

That was over a year ago. It's all over now and no one knows but the doctor and a nurse. All of this time I have been going to school. I'm planning to teach soon. I'm realizing the mistake I've made all these years. I know that I do not love Dick. He would be a drawback to me in my work. He's kind and thinks he understands, but he is narrow. He loves me so and thinks I should be willing to settle into home life and raise a family. There's nothing in the world that I want more than a home and children. But I'm not ready for that now. I want to teach several years first. I want to enjoy life and know new people. My education is enabling me to go into the public and meet and enjoy people. Wherever I go people seem to like me. But Dick doesn't fit in. He has no education and he's a poor mixer. He's big hearted and people like him in a way but I can tell that they are not interested in him. He just doesn't know how to meet people socially. It even embarrasses me at times.

Now the thing you will say to do is to forget him. You will advise that I go out and meet other young folks. Minerva, I've tried it. But back in my mind is the terrible memory of that child whose chance I took away. It eats into my heart night and day. That's why I can't forget Dick. Every time I look at hime I am reminded. I wonder sometimes if I shouldn't drop my dreams and marry Dick. He is the only one to whom I can go with my real heart. He is as broken up about it as I am. But on the other hand I cannot grieve over the past forever. The best I can do is to be fair with myself and the world. But I'll do anything to make amends.

So advise me, please. Do you think I will forget him in time and not be sorry if I do not marry him? Will I choose wisely if I teach and try to become interested in other young people? Am I selfish to want to live my own life after I have destroyed another's?

Any advice that you can give me will be seriously considered. The time has come when I must choose, and I don't know whether to break Dick's heart and take chances of forgetting, or marry him and take chances of learning to love him.—Thank You.

A. You can only turn your problem over to Time to solve. To marry the man, feeling as you do, is not a kindness to him. It does not right any wrong done. Two wrongs have a way of refusing to make a right. To attempt to build a home on a foundation minus love is folly.

It is possible that you may discover in time that you do love him, that he means more to you than anything else in life, even though he is not a social favorite. In the meanwhile, work, build up your self respect and a life for yourself that is independent and honorable. Be kind to the man, but do not feel that you owe your life to him in restitution or anything of that sort. The experience was much unhappier for you than for him.

You are doing some pretty level-headed, sensible thinking.

My advice is to put the whole affair out of your mind as completely as is humanely possible, fill your life with activities and interest, and see what Time brings.

But never marry him through any cause whatever excepting that of knowing you cannot live happily without him, that you love him, that his happiness and yours with him mean more than anything else in the world.

E. Clapp will entertain the club in the afternoon.

FORMAL OPENING OF NEW $100,000 NURSES' HOME

viduality is given each room by the drapes, which the occupants purchase for themselves. The walls are all in French gray.

The supervisers' suites are similar to those on the ground floor. The two rooms are joined by a private bath.

Recreation Room.

In the basement is the larg recreation room, where the nurses may have their social affairs. It is done in green, with a terrazzo floor and curtains of bright shades of tan and gold. It is 50 by 60 feet in size, with an outside entrance, which opens into the room down a stone stairway with an ornate iron railing. It is furnished with a piano, victrola and radio.

On one side of the party room are the cloak rooms for the men and the women. On the other is a large kitchen, with stove and adequate cupboard space, where refreshments for the party may be prepared. For convenience, the supper can be served through a wall opening on one side.

The laundry has four tubs, where the residents may do their laundry if desired. The basement also has a large trunk room and supply room, equipped with shelves. Heat and hot water is supplied to the home from the hospital.

Each floor has a telephone and a speaking tube arrangement permits communication from each of the four floors to the other. Each floor has a large clock, broom closet, waste chute, and linen closet.

When the landscaping is completed, tennis courts will be laid out at the rear of the building. The grounds have been seeded and will be in excellent condition by spring.

A CLOSEUP VIEW OF MR. COOLIDGE

the nation they nominally ruled or governed.

It was such a desire for freedom from social red tape that led Queen Marie Antoinette of France to ignore royal conventions and incur the wrath of her subjects to finally die at the guillotine. It was that same desire that caused Empress Josephine to make a desperate effort to suppress Napoleon's desire for royal power. It is that same desire for personal freedom that has given rise to the rumors that the Prince of Wales may be reluctant to accept the throne of Great Britain.

That the same restrictions, though perhaps less severe, should now hamper the freedom of the president of this democratic nation, which is founded on the watchwords of "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness," is all the more lamentable.

The nation may rightfully demand that the man whom it honors with its highest office shall exert himself to the utmost in fulfilling the duties of his office, but it seems a usurious claim to extend that demand to his private life.

TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR. LINCOLN, NEB., SUNDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1928 SECTION D EIGHT PAGES

Sunday Review Reveals Lincoln Has Progressed in Numerous Ways in Twelve Months Just Going Into History Toward a Metropolitan Life

By LULU MAE COE.

Having a way of ending almost before we've learned to write the figures correctly, the years slip away as noiselessly as little cat's feet, as hastily as a star shooting across the heavens.

The latest year of 1928 is going to join those of the past. Another two weeks and it will be time for another year that promises much at midnight but offers considerably less at noon.

If it did suggest to the optimistic more of fulfillment than was possible in realization, the departing year has been good to Lincoln. If our skyline didn't change every morning, as in the preceding year or two, the city has had a civic progress probably unequalled in any other one year. Lincoln has acquired the new things, the modern things, in the last twelve months, so that it has a more metropolitan aspect than ever in the past.

New Advantages.

In its nearly gone fifty-two weeks, the year has brought advantages to the city, several of them scarcely hoped for. It has not only benefited the city within itself, but it has turned the attention of large areas to a city that was an isolated house or two, almost lost in the prairies, when older communities were already thriving and known beyond the Mississippi. Possibly 1928 has not been so spectacular as some of the late preceding years, but it has brought a sophisticated community pride with its air mails and hospitals.

The year had a very chilly beginning—sub-zero weather on New Year's eve. Even the dawn of another trial couldn't keep the merrymakers warm, and the outdoor celebrations lasted only two or three minutes. On the afternoon of New Year's day, the general public has its first opportunity to view the lovely murals done by Augustus Vincent Tack. The governor's suite was open in the afternoon for the New Year's reception and inspection of the paintings.

Early January brought its week of organized agriculture, when master farmers meet to tell of their experiences and to hear other experts tell of growing things. January 6, the Globe Delivery company barn and garage and the planing mill of the Nebraska Lumber and Millwork company were burned, the total loss being $80,000.

Approve New Temple.

E. A. Gehrke was appointed the new humane officer. January 8, the Masonic building corporation received approval of its plans for the erection of the new temple between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets on L, overlooking the proposed Memorial park. The following day, the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Historical society opened, and during the sessions, Mrs. Charles H. Dietrich presented the late Senator Dietrich's historical collection to the society. The highest temperature ever recorded in January in Lincoln was recorded at 2 p. m. January 10, when the mercury only slipped down to 67 degrees. The first Little Symphony concert of the year was held February 7.

R. E. Campbell was elected president of the chamber of commerce January 11, and C. B. Towle re-elected president of the Lincoln Community chest the following day. That January Friday was—the thirteenth. Governor McMullen, as chairman of the Nebraska capitol commission, was requested by a delegation of the Lincoln Central Labor union to insert in the construction contracts then soon to be awarded. Provisos requesting all work thereon to be done by union labor. Dedicatory exercises for the new St. John's Evangelical church were held January 15. Two days later, the junior chamber of commerce went on record in favor of Western league baseball for Lincoln. The drive to raise $175,000 for Bryan Memorial hospital opened January 23. A story in the Advocate, high school paper, stated that one-half the student body had attended church the previous week end. The United Presbyterian church at Thirty-fifth and P streets was dedicated January 29.

About this time of the year, Lincoln was undergoing a small pox scare, but immediate steps were taken to prevent spread of the contagion. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was a Lincoln guest February 2. An ex-marine of the World war wrote Mayor Hedge with matrimonial intent, and asked for the popular blonde. Nebraska signed to play with the Army.

Dr. Hilton Honored.

Dr. David C. Hilton received a decoration from the Polish government for distinguished services for the Polish army in promoting sanitation, hygiene, and other health practices. The work was performed in connection with a national Congress of Military surgeons held in Warsaw the previous summer. The Lincoln State National bank became the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company.

February 11, Sam McGee of College View planted Alaska peas in his garden, probably the first garden of the year. Meadow larks trilled on the County club grounds, robins were almost common, and ducks were sighted at Capital beach. The Lincoln Hatchery suffered a loss of $1,300 by fire February 11. The city planning commission of the junior chamber of commerce initiated a campaign against Lincoln's smoke nuisance February 13.

The general construction contract for the third section, the central tower of the capitol was awarded to Peter Kiewit's sons for a bid of $1,049,000, February 3. O. C. Bell was elected on March 9 to this twelfth term as president of the State association of county assessors. The second annual Greater Lincoln exposition opened at the coliseum March 12. The contract for Everett junior high school was awarded, the building to cost $234,000. The Breslow brothers grain elevator in College View was completely destroyed by fire March 16, with a loss of $20,000.

March 25, the new First Presbyterian church was dedicated. Lincoln was host to 165 Burlington passenger and freight agents for one day. March 20, the first day of sprihg in this leap year, came in as the finest sort of spring weather. "Il Trovatore," with Rosa Raisa and the Chicago Civic Opera company, was given March 29 at the coliseum before an audience of 8,400 persons. Miss Ada Barker was to become executive secretary of the Social Welfare society April 1.

Final registration figures for the primaries showed 25,000 registered, with 1,581 the last day. The Rt. Rt. Rev. Francis J. Beckman, bishop of Lincoln, was appointed as bhisn-assistant at the pontificial throne of Pope Pius XI April 10.

Approve Airport.

Primaries were held in April, and the Lincoln airport bond issue carried at the polls. The city auditorium was almost completely razed by fire during the night of April 15. Plans for the nurse's home of the Lincoln General hospital were approved by the board of directors meeting April 15. Miss Grace Trott, a member of the Lincoln Axis club, was elected president of the Nebraska Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

May 4 and 5 the fifth annual high school music contest was held, with Lincoln high school taking first place with thirty-six points. May 12 Herbert D. Gish, for three years acting director of athletics, was made director of intercollegiate athletics at the university. The same day, Professor Herbert Brownell was made president of the Nebraska district of the N. E. A. A small twister hit northeast Lin-

Where the Hoovers May Sojourn

When President-elect Herbert Hoover returns from South America in January, he plans to spend a few weeks in Florida before going to Washington. Among other places, he has been invited to the home of J. C. Penny, at top, located on Belle Isle, between Miami and Miami Beach, and to the estate of Walter P. Fuller at St. Petersburg, the southern exposure of which is shown below, which faces on the Gulf of Mexico.

Design Chosen for Unknown Soldier's Tomb

Architect's design showing how Unknown Soldier's tomb will look when completed. The design, which was selected by Secretary of War Davis and the Arlington National Cemetery commission from many submitted, was made by Thomas D. Jones, sculptor (left), and Lorimer Rich, architect, of New York. Below is a model showing design of sarcophagus.

Radio Digest

Change Tubes for Best Results.

It is well to change tubes around, so as to obtain the best tube for each function in the radio set. There is sufficient variation in most tubes to make some better for one purpose than for another.

To Operate Dynamic Speaker.

The dynamic type of speaker is designed to operate either from a battery or from the lighting circuit. It will be able to give maximum results only on sets equipped with up-to-date transformers for the amplifier, and employing a power tube in the last stage.

Battery Noises.

In spite of the fact that a "B" battery reads full voltage, it still may be noisy. To test for faulty "B" batteries, disconnect from the set and connect one phone tip of a pair of headphones to one terminal of the battery. Hold the other phone tip tightly in one hand and grasp the other battery terminals with the thumb and forefinger, but not the tip. If a steady crackling noise is heard it is safe to say that the battery is noisy. Do not place the battery directly across the phones.

Receiving Set Has Few Mechanical Troubles.

There is little wear to the mechanism of a set. It is true that the shafts of the variable condensers, with which the tuning is accomplished, do wear, but to such a small extent in good apparatus that it is negligible throughout the life of the average receiver. Once in a great while there is mechanical trouble, but not very often. A condenser shaft may slip, a knob may become loose on the instrument. A socket prong may break, a panel may even crack. A resistance arm may loosen up on the volume control, an adjustment may become stuck and so on. But these mechanical troubles do not often happen.

Regenerative Whistles.

A regenerative receiver is one which first amplifies the incoming signal then feeds it back into the first circuit of the set and amplifies the amplified signal. The result is greatly increased volume and distance when this system is used. However, regeneration can be used only to a certain point. At this point the tube starts working backwards, sending the signal out through the aerial instead of on the loud speaker. This is oscillation. It shows up in the neighborhood receivers as a whistle on the wave to which it is tuned. These regenerative whistles have been received three and four miles from their source. This is unusual, but it is not unusual for them to travel with great strength for a half mile.

A Tip On Tubes.

With average usage tubes in a receiver will give excellent results for about a year. At the end of that time they should be carefully tested and those that show indication of being below par should be discarded with new tubes. It is generally poor policy to use new tubes with old tubes unless the old tubes test up very well, because the changed characteristics of the old tubes, necessitating higher filament and plate voltages to produce average results, cause these excessive voltages to be applied to the new tubes with inefficient results.

Rich - Handsome - Compact

The smart, neat cabinet, pictured opposite contains within itself a magnificent receiver and permanent power supply! That is the wonder of AC radio as interpreted by Steinite engineers.

America's Greatest Radio Value

The new Steinite Electric AC Radio is America's greatest radio value. You need only see and hear it to understand the sensational popularity which has made Steinite a famous name in radio!

The new Steinite is simple—as no other set ever has been. It is sturdy—far sturdier than others think a set need be. It is so natural in tone, and so thrilling in results that you will find a new pleasure in radio.

---so natural....it takes your breath away---

The tone of the new Steinite is so utterly natural that listening to it is an adventure. It comes to your ears with a reality that you dare not question — it is pure, rich, glorious! Whether it is the lowest notes of a pipe organ, or the highest trill of a soprano, the notes come to you unmarred by annoying hum or mechanical noise. The splendid audio system of the Steinite—worthy of sets costing far more—has brought this amazing tone to Steinite owners.

In the Steinite, wondrous tone is accompanied by super-performance and beauty of design which makes it America's Greatest Value! The table model is a marvel of compactness—simple as no other set ever has been, and sturdy as a battleship. A phonograph jack for reproducing records through the receiver with a magnetic pick-up is conveniently placed. The consoles are of American black walnut veneers, equipped with built-in Polyphonic speakers that are worthy of the sets. Even the table model is encased in a cabinet of Tanguile—finest of all Philippine woods. All models are finished in genuine Duco.

MAN OR ROLE?

Although Theodore Roberts had worn gracefully and deservedly for some years the title of "the grand old man of the American stage and screen," he was not the dean of this present generation of actors. To another colorful and glittering personality, of flashing genius and incomparable talents, belongs that distinction.

When death called the veteran, Roberts, in Los Angeles Friday afternoon, he was rounding out a career which embraced forty-eight years of appearances before the footlights and on the silvery screen. Less than a year ago another notable American, Otis Skinner, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his presence in the theater. Skinner has never deserted the legitimate for the screen. His magnificent physique, and his handsome features, coupled with his marvelous capacity to add life and color to a role through the merest shadowings of facial expression, would have made him a great figure upon the screen. But he could not be drafted although he freely recognized the large contribution which the silent drama was making to American thought.

Roberts, who was 68 years of age, first appeared in Lincoln on September 24, 1904, in Henry W. Savage's production of "The County Chairman." In the title role he was the suave, genial, human politician ,who was "on the square"—a type of characterization which he was to repeat time and time again until the American people came to revere and to love him. Eight years later he returned to this city as one of the principals in an All-Star cast of "Jim, the Penman," in which H. B. Warner and Florence Roberts appeared with him. It was a gripping, stirring drama but once again it was Theodore Roberts who relieved the tension and chased the shadows by giving voice to those qualities of humanity which seem to be a part of its nobility and to which every human heart aspires.

We suppose that in his long and illustrious career, it fell to the lot of Theodore Roberts to fill ignoble and despicable roles. His biography reveals that he at one time appeared as "Simon Legree" in a popular version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and there is the probability that he was called upon to brave the unconscious antagonisms and dislikes of his audiences upon other occasions. But that was when he was young.

For more than thirty years it was the good fortune of Roberts to give voice upon the stage and screen to that which we recognize as the most ennobling virtues of man. It did not seem to be acting upon his part. He made it so real and so natural we forgot the illusion of the theater and joined with him in the glorious adventure of drying tears and of coaxing smiles. Those kindly, humorous eyes, those deep lines of the face which could melt into the most radiant and warming smile in all America, became engraved upon the minds of millions of Americans so that Theodore Roberts will live for years in their memory as a cheering and wholesome character.

His career upon the stage furnishes a reassuring and comforting answer to the question concerning the path along which humanity is advancing. He always occupied the role of the understanding man. He viewed the frailities and the foibles of his fellowbeings with generous eyes, with sympathy, with compassion. 'He was kind, gentle and tender; he could see the good above the bad. His errand was one of goodwill and of mercy; not heartaches and sorrow. That must be the goal of men and women, because they loved this man, who made those things come true, so deeply.

Somehow we feel that Theodore Roberts was not acting when he chastened and lifted the souls of countless thousands of men and women who listened to his voice and watched him on the stage, or saw him come to life through the bright calcium lights of the screen, and sent them on their way revived in faith.

They say upon the coast, where he rounded out his career among beautiful women and dashing men, that he was the most beloved man in all the film colony. They say that the roles which he acted were reincarnated in his daily life. What a joy, then, must have Theodore Roberts gotten out of living! The day was all too short. From the glory of the sunrise to the shadows of the evening, he was about his business of lightening burdens, of destroying cynicism and suspicions, of doctoring bruised hearts. Life could not have been more meaningful and joyous to any man. It gave Theodore Roberts what the most gigantic fortune in America cannot buy with gold.

THE OLDEST DICTATOR.

Most men are queer mixtures; they're made up of good and bad, but given an equal chance the former is almost certain to predominate. In fact it may be so overwhelmingly predominant that the bad will be ignored, notwithstanding the fact that little or no effort is made to cover it up. That's the way it is with Juan Vincente Gomez, who has been absolute dictator of Venezuela for just twenty years this month. Gomez is so bad that his name is anathema to great numbers of Venezuelans, some of them residing in their native lands, and others in distant countries, change of residence having been made in the interest of health.

Prior to Gomez' assumption of power the head of the government was Cipriana Castro, these two having orgafiized a rebellion and overthrown the then ruling head. But it became necessary for Castro to go to Europe to undergo an operation, and as soon as he had departed Gomez proclaimed himself ruler. Castro sought to come back, but found it inadvisable to attempt a landing, dying later in Europe.

Gomez has treated those who sought in any way to question his political power with the utmost cruelty, imprisoning them in dungeons, wrists and ankles manacled, and all but starving them. He has ruled by fear, but strange as it may seem, he has ruled well, and while to those who are against him he is an unspeakable monster, to most Venezuelans he is an inspiring genius.

In his boyhood Gomez was an Andean muleteer and in his youth and younger manhood, before he cast his lot with the revolutionary Castro, he was the keeper of a small store, far in the interior. Now he is the most progressive statesman Venezuela ever produced, and that country was the first in South America to break away from Spanish rule.

Many years ago Gomez began building roads, that being the first step toward the education of the populace. Prior to this move upon his part mule paths constituted ,about the only avenues for communication or transportation in the country. Commerce was restricted and people living in the interior knew little or nothing of what was going on in the outside world. Now the Venezuelan road system has no superior in South America, and the country has been vastly benefitted in every way.

Some time ago Gomez told of the progress that had been in his country and the reasons therefor. With the opening of roads postal service was established and people all over Venezuela learned what was going on everywhere. The demand for reading matter grew at an incredible rate, though the proportion of illiteracy is of course appalling, as compared with northern countries. Progress is being made, however.

Gomez is an enthusiastic farmer and stock breeder and his home is a show place in which he takes the greatest pride. He says that he is showing his countrymen what can be done in the way of producing splendid animals and wonderful crops, and in this he has met with much success. His home is seventy-five miles from Caracas, the capital, and he spends much more time on the farm than he does in the city.

The dictator has never been married and it has never been claimed that he is a model, morally—quite the opposite. He has been cruel and uncompromising toward his opponents. But he has done much for Venezuela and lately he has issued a proclamation granting amnesty to all political offenders and inviting those abroad to return to their native land.

It is too early to say what the place of Gomez will be in history.

OKLAHOMA CITY FINDS A WAY.

One middle-western city, confronted with a problem similar to one which exists in Lincoln, has found a way. After years of patient effort, Oklahoma City has succeeded in getting the Rock Island railroad's tracks removed from the heart of that city.

To an even more pronounced degree than in Lincoln, the carrier's right of way cut a swath through the business and industrial district of Oklahoma City. Of course the tracks were an eyesore, and tended to greatly restrict development in the section through which they passed, but in an even larger measure they constituted a constant menace to public service.

In time, it is to be presumed, the Rock Island will be compelled to vacate the Antelope Valley. Such a course would call for a huge outlay of tax money because the city would be compelled to compensate the railroad for its sacrifice. The work can never be done any cheaper than in the next few years. Property values are constantly increasing and will continue upward as the city grows in population. The Rock Island's right-of-way is valuable now and will become more so with the passage of time.

One of the first benefits to come to Oklahoma City as a result of removal of the tracks there is announcement of a notable addition to one of the largest hotels there. The new units will occupy ground formerly used for tracks, making the remodeled hostelry a most impressive and imposing edifice. Oklahoma City is to be congratulated upon her good fortune. It might be profitable for the city officials in Lincoln to investigate the negotiations which led up to a settlement of the problem there.

NEBRASKA GOBBLERS.

Increasing attention is being directed to the rapidly growing turkey industry of western Nebraska. At Thanksgiving time thousands of turkeys were shipped out of the North Platte valley for eastern markets. Now again in advance of Christmas, thousands of choice turkeys are being sent east to provide dinners for the people along the Atlantic seaboard. During a single day last week ten carloads were consigned from Scottsbluff to Chicago and Philadelphia.

Successful turkey raising involves constant care and attention. The birds are particularly susceptible to cold and moisture when young and unless precautions are taken to protect them from exposure during unseasonable changes in the spring, the losses are likely to be heavy. In this respect the sandhills are ideally fitted for the turkey industry. The dryness of the range, with its abundance of feed at no cost, combine to make that region particularly adapted to turkey raising.

Some of the ranchers there, combining it as a sideline to other activities, have realized handsome profits. This season they received an average of from $2.75 to $3.50 per turkey for their flocks. They raised from 300 to as high as 3,000 turkeys, thus adding appreciably to their income. It is a matter of very keen satisfaction to those who have been urging diversification of agricultural effort to witness the strides made in the raising of turkeys in Nebraska.

MICHIGAN'S HABITUAL CRIMINAL STATUTE

When Michigan drafted its habitual criminal statute to curb the widespread wave of lawlessness, it included a section specifying that anyone convicted of violating the liquor laws four times would be subject to life imprisonment as a habitual criminal.

Already there is a backwash against the measure, and the next session of the legislature will probably result in a determined fight to repeal the act. Two incidents have served to arouse public opinion. At Muskegon, Mich., Harold H. Smedley, the city prosecutor, has refused to issue a warrant for the arrest of Alex Zack, father of seven children, because Zack's conviction would bring him under the terms of the habitual criminal statute, and make life imprisonment mandatory. He boldly proclaims that he would be troubled the rest of his life if he did because such action would bring more suffering to an innocent family of children.

At Lansing, Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, the mother of ten children, has just been convicted of her fourth violation of the prohibition laws, and faces a mandatory life imprisonment sentence. Judgment is to be pronounced next week. Meanwhile murmurs against such action are being heard throughout the entire country.

It is an unwholesome situation to have unenforced laws upon the statute books. And yet the most uncompromising advocate of rigid enforcement of prohibition would hesitate to sentence a mother of ten to prison for the remainder of her life in view of the known conditions which exist in all sections of the country. It is more likely that she will be sentenced and then measures will be taken to secure her freedom after she has served what is deemed to be an adequate term. The problem presented is a ticklish one but human sympathies are too strong to permit the Miller case to pass unnoticed.

TROUBLED CONSCIENCES.

The United States treasury holds $588,594 as a mounment to the trouble American conscience. With the receipt of five $100 bills from some unknown New Yorker last week, the fund reached this mark.

It was not uncommon even before the enactment of the income tax law for Uncle Sam to receive money from someone who had wilfully or unintentionally cheated the government of money due it. More frequently in recent years, however, most of the "conscience contributions" are attributed to failures to report the full amount of income taxes. That neglect or omission is a hazardous risk and may involve far more serious penalties than settlement of the account. The income tax bureau conducts a most rigid investigation of each individual report and the fraud is very likely to come to light.

Where Does The Money Go?

BY WILL ROGERS.

We might auction off a couple of states.

Well, all I know is just what I read in the papers. There has been so many messages delivered to us in the last week or so that we don't hardly know who, or what to believe. Mr. Coolidge give us a two full newspaper page lecture on prosperity, (as practiced by the republican party) than Mellon come out the next day and said we was just rolling in wealth, but that he could see no tax cut in sight. We are doing so well, and so busy counting our money that we just havent got time to stop and cut any taxes.

They sent what they call the budget to congress. It took the head men of every department in Washington six months to think up that many figures. You have a budget like you have a limit in a poker game. You are not supposed to go beyond it till at least an hour after the game has been started. We wont run over the budget limit till maybe as late as August. Its a good thing. It makes another department in Washington. Then its fun to vote on when its presented.

But here it is right here in the paper a whole financial statement of now we stand. Now I know a lot of you dont pay much attention to our government finances, because its all too complicated. We read em and we look like we are doing fine, and then there is another bunch o figures on the other side that deny what the ones on this side say. Its like these publishers with both a morning and evening newspaper. They have one to keep the other out of a law suit. Now if you are feeling pretty down in the mouth and it looks like you aint going to have much Xmas, why its because you havent kept in touch with Mellon. He could have cheered you up anytime. Here is how we are doing so take it to the bank and asking them to give you your share.

Half Million for Statie.

Well I went down and I found that what little I was supposed to have been put in a sinking fund. There is things on there that you had no idea exised. Federal radio commission grabbed us in in advance for 1929 for $364,027.25. That's just for static alone. In 1930 (you know they book away ahead) why we are supposed to get off for $179,234.28. If they can cut it down every year they will get the thing about right in ten years.

Commission of Fine Arts, (that don't include politics) only got us for $9,080.15. But lets get down into some money. Department of Agriculture, $154 million. That's just to tell the farmers how they can keep on farming even if they don't get relief. If I was a farmer I would join our agricultural department. That's in 1930. In 29 it was three hundred thousand less. They don't intend to give him as much advice that year.

Department of commerce, only nicked us for $38 million in 29 and 58 million in 1930. The further Hoover gets out of there the more it is predicted it will cost us; 1930 is going to be a hard year to handle commerce. That's the cause of the twenty million raise. See we only pay Hoover 75 thousand as salary, and we lose $20 million by his leaving his department. He has to be pretty good to make that twenty up for us in this new job.

Justice Is Cheap.

Department of justice costs us $28 million. That ain't bad for justice. In fact justice is about the cheapest thing we got on our list. Maybe that's why we don't get any more of it. I am in favor of paying more and naming some people that ought to have what's coming to 'em. Department of labor only runs us a little over 11 million. Jim had got his department running pretty cheap. You see he is supposed to keep track of everybody whether they work or not. If he only had to keep track of the ones that worked he could do it on a few hundred bucks. Its keeping track of all the idles ones that runs into dough. An idle fellow is much harder to watch than one working. Treasury department nicked us for 1929 for $345 million. Mellon is practicing his economy on somebody elses department. Cost us 345 million just to make out these figures to tell us what he was in the hole. That's like hiring a man to tell you you are broke.

The navy sunk us for $364 million, including cost of sinking ships according to Washington agreement. The Army pot shotted us for $408 million in 1929, and $444 million in 1930. Must be looking for a kind of a small way that year. Maybe that 44 million is to send the marines further that year. Now hang onto your seats while you get this item of expense. Interest on the public debt $731 million. And the funny part it never does tell what we owe. It keeps juggling with millions and we owe billions, 15 or 18 billion I think it is. But none of this tells.

That's where all the money goes that we pay in as Taxes, most of it goes to pay interest on money we owe. Either the federal, or state or town government. Lets sell off enough of this country to somebody and pay off all national debts, then the taxes wouldn't be nearly as much. The democrats will agree to peddle Texas, and Florida. They are kinder on the edges anyhow, and I am certain the republicans will let Massachusettes and Rhode Island go, if its only for a song, and not a particularly good song, just an old song.

As I say though we owe maybe its 25 billion. Its so much they wont put it down, and here is what we got saved up to pay it, we got a balance of "Cash on hand in treasury June 30th, 1928, of $260,190,360.85." That's pretty low dough to look a fifteen billion debt in the face with. After studying and figuring on 'em all day for you I have about come to the conclusion that, that 85 cents on the end there of our "cash on hand" is just about our Pro Rata Share.

DR. S. PARKES CADMAN

(Copyright, 1928, New York Tribune.)

Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Boston, Mass.

For how many years after His birth did Christ bear His first Hebrew name of Joshua and when, where and by whom was He first called by His Greek name of Jesus?

The probability is that our Lord during his earthly career was always called by His Hebrew or Aramaic name, which we express in English by Joshua. It was after the Gospels were translated from the oral communications of Aramaic into Greek that the Greek name Jesus was employed.

Philadelphia, Pa.

I am a Frenchman who lost nearly everything during the World war. I am now here in America and feel very strange and often out of place. What can I do to become a good citizen, contented and useful? Why is it that Frenchmen are frequently so homesick in a foreign land? I cannot go back for my family and my business are established here.

No reasonable citizen would have you feel less attached to the admirable qualities and achievements of your native land. He who reverences his mother country's worth and virtue has in him material which we covet for our republic. Yet why not fasten on the qualities and achievements exhibited in this nation's history and offer them the devotion you give to France?

Lafayette was not a particularly strong character. But in the hour of our need he recognized the lofty political ideals of Washington and his compeers and threw his sword into the trembling balance of their cause. Surely you can help us to solve the problem of a democracy which has not yet passed beyond the experimental stage.

France has peculiar claims upon our affectionate regard. We know how steadfastly her sons and daughters cling to their native soil. But we also know that few nations are more closely affiliated by history to your homeland than is the United States. Act on what the affiliation suggests and none will treat you as negligible.

May I commend to your attention a delightful book entitled "Recollections of the Revolution and the Empire," by La Marquise De La Tour de Pin, published by Brentanos, New York. This grande dame was compelled to flee from Paris during the terror. After many adventures she and her husband and two small children finally found themselves on a farm near Albany, N. Y. There she performed much of the hard physical labor incidental to farm life, yet at the same time she enjoyed the society of Alexander Hamilton, General Gates, General Schuyler, the Van Rensselaers, and even of Talleyrand himself. Read chapters 1 to 5 of the second part of these reminiscences. They should be very helpful for you.

HERE and THERE

A Clarion Call to Mere Man.

(The St. Louis Post Dispatch)

That two Americans in particular should have responded to the heartrending appeal for a masculine revolution made by Herr Siguard Hoeberth Von Schwarzthal, president of the International League for men, is not surprising. One of the two is Charlie Chaplin, whose most recent experience with a woman convinced him of the perfidy of her sex. The other is A. B. See, the alphabetical mysogynist who constantly is writing letters to newspapers advocating the abloshiment of co-education and the return of women to the kitchen and the nursery.

The subject of feminine domination has worried a good many of those individuals who must worry about the state of the world. Herr Von Schwarzthal is not the first to express himself. John Langdon-Davies (who, by the way, is to lecture here during the Kansas City University Extension Center series) went into some detail on this problem in his book, "A Short History of Women." Mr. Langdon Davies has reached the conclusion that woman hood has become emancipated to the extent that men, particularly men who are the husbands of the emancipated women, are rapidly developing into the human equivalent of robots, who exist merely to furnish the wherewithal for their wives material needs.

The subject was recently developed likewise when Harper's published the report of a survey, conducted in New York, into the relationships of men and women. One of the encouraging things about that survey—to those who worry about the future—was that women who were wholly or almost wholly dependent upon their husbands and had to ask their husbands for spending money showed a higher percentage of contentment than those who had independent incomes and allowances. The modern woman, of course, might retort that the contented wives were merely poor ignorant creatures who had not learned of the new independence.

We confess to a sense of futility. We don't know what Herr Von Schwarzthal, Mr. Chaplin, Mr. See Mr. Langdon-Davies and the others are going to do about it. If the present stage of civilization has reached the point of efficiency where wives need not spend their entire day, at the washtub, the kitchen stove or the nursery crib, we see no wa yto force them to return to the primitive. The intrepid adventurer who would seek office on a "women's place is in the home" platform would find himself submerged beneath an avalanche of indignant feminine votes.

Womanhood has advanced far beyond the status of hewer of wood and drawer of water. She has left behind her need of bowing to the whims of a lord and master. She has removed from her lexicon the servile word "obey". This may be distressing to those who worry over the state of the world. But we repeat that we don't see what they are going to do about it.

New And Old.

(The Des Moines Register.)

The gist of a report made by a world famous Dutch student of current geological phenomena is contained in this press announcement from Washington:

"Evidence of great, earthquake-producing stresses in the earth's crust between North and South America has been brought to Washington by Dr. Vening Meinesz, world famous Dutch geodesist, after a two months' cruise with the navy scientific expedition aboard the United States submarine S-21. With this evidence, much of it hitherto unknown to science, comes a suggestion that the two continents are pressing inpereceptibly, but with incalculable force, toward each other. It discloses clearly, Dr. Meinesz says that the same kind of stresses which in past geologic ages, piled up the mountains and left deep scars on the continent until equilibrium was reached, are still exerting their awe inspiring power beneath the oceans."

For all the ordinary purposes of an individual life, this is merely interesting knowledge of no application. But it does us no harm to be reminded that even such "permanent" things as the continents and seas themselves are permanent only relatively. The phrase, "old as the hills" may mean old as eternity in the general thinking, but there are young hills and old ones as truly as young men and old ones. We can be sure of one law on this planet of ours, and it is the law of change. Geology, like astronomy should have the virtue of making us humble.

It is not necessary to agree to any of the prevailing conclusions about human evolution in order to accept, as the human mind has been obliged to accept, the knowledge that continents have been thrown up and have disappeared, that oceans have covered the places where the continents now stand, perhaps again and again. It is common knowledge that great mountain ranges have been thrown up, worn down again, and succeeded by others. It is common knowledge that among the oldest of mountain ranges now existing in the world are parts of our eastern Appalachians, and that among the "young" mountains are the great ranges of the Rockies.

We need hardly be fearful that the indications of great stress that the Dutch scientist finds between North and South America will mean any early change, except as "early" is used geologically. If his observations and conclusions are sound, as presumably they are, it does mean in all probability that, many centuries hence, perhaps thousands of them, the geography of the western hemisphere will be quite different.

Perhaps then human beings much smarter scientifically, will be finding in new mountain ranges, raised from the ocean's bed, multitudinous proofs that though long buried that region had seen the sun before.

Famous Pets Of Famous People

The Dog of King Pyrrhus, Which Found Its Master's Slayers.

"The animal must have been well treated by the dead man."

BY PRESTON WRIGHT.

Among the remarkable pets of antiquity was a dog belonging to King Pyrrhus, of Epirus, whom Hannibal called the greatest general of any age.

Unfortunately we have not this dog's name, and so his memory cannot be perpetuated as well as that of some other famous canines.

The manner of King Pyrrhus' acquisition of the animal is highly interesting, even dramatic. The events that preceded and followed it easily provide material for a play, could an animal equal to the exactions of the leading role be found to play it.

According to Plutarch, during the civil wars a certain Roman slave was felled whose head could not be cut off (according to custom) because of a dog that guarded his body. No attempt was made to find out the slayers of the slave and administer punishment.

The animal must have been well treated by the dead man, for he fought viciously to keep everyone away.

This continued for three days during which he was without anything to eat or drink.

It happened that King Pyrrhus passed that way and observed the dog watching over the slave's body. Upon hearing the animal would not desert his departed master, he offered that the body be buried and the dog brought to him.

This latter command was not now so hard to obey, since it was weak and famished.

The animal at once became attached to the king, transferring to him the allegiance it had formerly given a slave. It was constantly at his side.

A few days afterward, there was a muster of soldiers, these marching in review before the king.

Everything passed in orderly fashion for a time. But suddenly the dog, which had been lying quietly at the king's side, leaped to his feet and began a furious barking, which he directed at certain of Pyrrhus's soldiers.

Following this, he dashed at the men madly, snarling and growling at them and attempting to tear away their garments.

At intervals he turned to look at the king as if appealing to him to assist in this extraordinary assault.

King Pyrrhus was at first puzzled, but soon his suspicion was aroused. The review was ordered suspended and the men who had been the object of the dog's attack were apprehended and placed in confinement.

In this day and age it would have taken more than the barking of a dog to cause the arrest of anyone on a murder charge. But in those days justice was differently administered. And in this instance it seems to have taken a proper course.

Although the evidence against them was very slight, the men confessed the killing of the slave.

They were severely punished, and the dog had every reason to feel that he had amply avenged his former master.

Of course the devotion he gave King Pyrrhus was greater than ever.

Radio Digest

For the Notebook.

All new homes should be planned for a full radio installation.

The foundation of good tone quality of a set is to tune in on stations of sufficient strength.

Alternating-current tubes are not as sensitive t rapido changes in the voltage as the direct-current tubes.

Hunt for a loose connection to the batteries and to the antenna and ground when the set refuses to operate.

By-pass condensers of 1 or 2 mfd., connected between negative "B" and the various positive "B" terminals of the radio set, will improve sensitivity and tone quality of weak signals.

For those interested in long-distance reception, the simplest step is to secure the 2, 4, 5 and 8 megohm metallised-grid leaks and to be ready to try these values on distant signals.

Radiograms.

Radio announcers at K O A, in Denver, Colo., must have a college or university degree.

It has been proposed in Paris, France, to hold an international wireless congress for radio listeners.

Evanston, Ill., has a "radio curfew" municipal ordinance which prohibits the playing of receiving sets loudly after midnight.

The efficiency and production of an upholstery factory in Gardner, Mass., has been increased by means of radio entertainment for the workers.

President-elect Herbert Hoover, often referred to as the "Czar of Radio," has an intimate knowledge of the radio industry and has a great interest in the listening public of the United States.

Some Indian Place Names In Nebraska

(By J. T. Link, Conservation & Survey Division, Uni. of Nebr.)
(An address given over radio)

The map of Nebraska contains a number of Indian names. Some of these are Nebraskan, that is, they are names either of Indian tribes that once lived in the state or they are derived from their languages. Then there are other Indian names, such as Osceola, Tecumseh, Waco, and Kenesaw that have been imported from other states. Most our Indian names have been corrupted. The first white men that came into contact with the Indians could not discern and reproduce the Indian sounds correctly, and, as a result, the original Indian names have been greatly changed. These names are, as a rule, either commemorative or descriptive of some locality. Hardly ever have Indians used personal names for places. Many of the Indian names are quite euphonious, as Ogallala, Minitanka, Niobrara and others.

The name of our state, Nebraska, is of Indian origin. It came to us from the Dakota language, either from the Omaha or from the Otoe, being "Ni bthaska ke" in Omaha and "Ni braithka" in Otoe. In both cases the meaning is the same. It is the Indian name of the state's principal stream, the Nebraska or Platte river. Both of these names are found on the early maps of the state. The Omaha word "Ni bthaska ke" has this meaning: "Ni," water; "bthaska," spreading or flat, and the suffix particle "ke" means spreading over the ground in large numbers, and in connection with a stream name it carried the idea of a stream spreading over or flowing through a plain or level piece of land. It also carries the idea of the horizontal. This particle "ke" is used in a number of Omaha stream names as in "Niskithe ke" (Salt Creek,) "Nishude ke," the Omaha name for the Missouri and others, all of which flow through a plain. If the stream came out of the uplands, the Omaha used the particle "te" which carries the idea of the vertical as in "Ni cni te" (Coldwater River.) The name Nebraska then carries this idea: "Water spreading or flowing through a plain." The plain referred to is the Platte valley, which is wide and fertile. The Indian could not appreciate the fertility of the soil and hence did not include this element in the name. Nebraskan's who can do so, should include it in the meaning of the state name and should give this a cultural meaning. Nebraska is very properly named. It has broad fertile valleys and wide and extensive uplands, all covered with fields of wheat, corn, alfalfa and other crops. This idea of spreading or extensiveness is well carried out in the architecture of the new capitol. Taking into consideration the resources and the development of the state, Nebraska should signify to us tensiveness, depth and fertility, well brought out in the slogan: "Broad, deep, fertile, Nebraska the Cornhusker State," capable of supporting the people and their institutions.

The Niobrara river in the northern part of the state is one of our major streams. Its name is a corruption of the Omaha-Ponca word "Ni ubthatha ke." "Ni," means water; "uthatha," flat and "ke" stream The whole meaning is Flatwater river. The Indian name is descriptive of a characteristic of the river in times of high water.

Minichaduza creek is a branch of the Niobrara, just east of Valentine. This name comes to us from its Dakota designation, "Minichaduza Wakapala" and is descriptive of the stream. "Mini" means water; "Chaduza" denotes swift or rapid; and "Wakpala" is the diminutive of "Wakpa," river—formed by adding the suffix "la" to "Wakpa" which makes it "little Wapka" or "Little River or Creek." The name then means "Mini," water; "Chaduza," swift or rapid; and "Wakapala," creek, which may be rendered as Rapidwater Creek, Swiftwater creek or Runningwater Creek.

Dakota, the name of one of our counties is a tribal name of Indians that were in Nebraska when the white men came here. The name Daktoa or Nakotas means "Friends" or "Allies." This is the name by which they called themselves in consequence of alliances they had formed. To other Indians and especially to their enemies they were known as the "Sioux."

This is also the name of one of our counties in the northwestern part of the state. This name has an Indian origin but has been corrupted almost beyond recognition. The name "Sioux" shows how the names of Indian tribes were often obtained. The question: "Who lives beyond you?" put to a tribe was to apt to elicit the answer: "Our enemies." So the Chippewa answered the question by their native term: "Nadowe-is-iw." This word is the diminutive plural and was the Chippewa name for the adder or snake, hence "Nadowe-is-iw" signifies literally "little adders" or "little snakes," figuratively it means enemies. So when the question: "Who lives beyond you?" was put to them the Chippewa answered: "Our enemies," "Nadowe-is-iw." This same answer was taken as the name of the tribe. The French corrupted or Gallicized it into "Nadowessi" or "Nadowissioux" and finally into "Sioux," a name which the tribe did not acknowledge. They called themselves Dakota, Lakota, or Nakota, according to the dialect used, Yankton, Santee or Teton.

Arapahoe, Furnas county, commemorates the name of a plains tribe of the Algonquin family, closely associated with the Cheyenne. The name is of uncertain origin. Dunbar, in the Handbook of American Indians, states that it is derived from the Pawnee word "tirapihu," or "larapihu" meaning "he who coln, damaging garages and residences. Bernie Pringle, as Miss Lincoln, replaced Marjorie Corrington in the Miss Nebraska contest. Miss Corrington having been disqualified by her youth. Dr. E. W. Rowe was elected president of the school board May 21.

Crown May Queen.

Miss Geraldine Fleming was crowned May Queen by Miss Ruth Palmer at the university Ivy day ceremonies May 24. During the same Roundup festivities, Arthur Dobson was elected president of the university alumni. Trev. Gillaspie was appointed post master May 27. Guy Rodgers, who had taken the place of the late Fred Daniels, returned from Rock Island, Ill., as superintendent of the People's City mission. The M. W. A. held a four day meeting about the middle of June in honor of the silver jubilee of A. R. Talbot, head consul.

Miss Hazel Ritchey was elected president of Sigma Alpha Iota, honorary musical sorority, June 27. June, the weather bureau found, was deficent in rainfall, even though the month had seventeen rainy days in place of the usual twelve. Only once since 1898 had the month had a greater number of rainy days. July 1, as was appropriate, was the hottest day of the year until that time. July 8, the chamber of commerce song committee that it would sponsor an official Lincoln song contest, which is to close the first of the year.

First Mail Plane.

One of the outstanding days of the year was July 10, when the first air mail was received at 12:30 o'clock from Chicago. July 23, announcement was made that Lincoln was the only city on the new route haking proper use of the air mail. M. Wasserman gave a Kentucky standard bred saddler to the city, and thereby created the city's first mounted policeman.

The city council selected the 160-acre Flader tract for a municipal air port, $44,000 being involved in the transaction. As July came in so hot, it is interesting that July 28 the thermometer slipped to 57 degrees at 5 and 6 a. m., one of the lowest points on record for the same month. Excavation for the new nurses' home of St. Elizabeth's hospital was begun July 31. Mrs. Mario Bertoni, who as Frances Gettys achieved fame in Italian opera circles, arrived in Lincoln with her small son, to make a concert tour. August 17, it was announced that Lincoln girls on public dance floors couldn't roll 'em and that out of town cars in front of hotels would not be tagged during the night.

Two residents of Mississippi, men prominent in financial, political, and business affairs, were in Lincoln on their fourth annual booster tour, to acquaint people with the progress made by the southern state in agricultural and manufacturing within the last twety years. August 22, Leslie C. Miller, noted speed pilot, purchased a Lincoln-Page plane for entry in the annual trans-continental race, which started September 5. Wfilliam Foster was appointed safety commissioner of the city commission and Frank Harm street commissioner Septemb 4.

Al Smith Here.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, with his official party, spent an hour in Lincoln September 19. Two days earlier the S. A. R. unveiled a tablet on the Chapin building, marking the site of the first permanent dwelling in Lincoln. The Luke Lavender log house. September 21, the cornerstone for the Shrine's new club house was laid, under the auspices of the Masonic grand lodge.

The Lincoln post of the American legion was awarded the Kinder trophy for the most outstanding community service during the year. Mrs. Raymond Westover was re-elected national treasurer of Mortarboard. The first eight-day Nebraska state fair opened August 31. William E. Borah was a guest in Lincoln September 29, and spoke at the coliseum. The Rev. T. J. Hinkin came from Muskegon, Mich., to be superintendent of the city mission, succeeding Guy Rodgers, who resigned. October 10, Clarence Kittinger was chosen park executive, to succeed Philip Edinborough, who had resigned.

Lincoln's park system received a large addition October 13, when John F. Harris of New York City and Palm Beach presented 500 acres to the city for park purposes. October 15, the community chest goal of $33,122 was reached. During October, Senator J. T. Robinson spoke in Lincoln. "The University of Nebraska," a march composed by John Philip Sousa was played for the first time at the Missouri-Nebraska game. Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, spoke on "Campaign Issues" October 25.

Election on November 7 was succeeded by the Armistice day celebration, when General Pershing reviewed the parade on Monday and S. R. McKelvie was the Armistice day speaker. Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion, was a guest of the local post November 15, and spoke in the evening. The Bethany Christian church was destroyed by fire November 20. Quite the most important event of the last month of the year was the awarding of the veterans' hospital to Lincoln.

Answers to Movie Fans

Dear Movie Editor—Oh why, oh why, do we have to see such bum pictures and some of them are worse 'n 'at! "Show People,' for instance, with William Haines was perfect rot,— and he is usually a perfect actor.

I have just finished reading "The Duke Steps Out" by Lucien Cary, and "Gee" it was a keen story. It ran as a serial in The Saturday Evening Post and was illustrated by Arthur William Brown. I have the Duke all pictured in my mind— William Haines can't play the part at all, and the papers have announced he's going to. I was just thinking how keen it would be if that story could come to the screen with Marion Davies as Susie Corbin, but I know just how Haines will do it and it's spoil it for me.

Another that's coming to the scren, "Me Gangster' by Charles Francis Coe, will be good, too, and I hope Victor Laglen plays in it. I saw him in "The River Pirate." (I think that was it) at the Lincoln and it was keen.

Why can't we have more pictures like Emil Jannings, "The Patriot," and "The Street of Sin," "Dancing Daughters" with Joan Crawford, or "Forgotten Faces?" Clive Brook was perfect and so was Olga Baclanova. But he didn't look any older after seventeen years in prison; everybody noticed that. "Two Lovers" was perfect, so was "Wings," also "Happiness Ahead" with Colleen Moore.

But "Warming Up" was terrible. Why don't Richard Dix get a good picture to play in? Norma Shearer is marvelous—just adorable. Why don't we see more of her? The last time she was here she played in "The Latest From Paris" and her pictures aren't at the good theaters at all.

Richard Barthelmess in "The Patent Leather Kid" was good. I saw it when it was at the Orpheum and wanted to see it again when it was at the Capitol but I couldn't seem to get round to it. "Sawdust Paradise" was another punk picture. "The Disputed Woman" was fair, but Eric Von Stroheim's "Wedding March" ended so queerly. Everyone wanted to know if that was all,— where the picture ended. Why didn't the fellow shoot and as he shot, Fay should have tried to point the gun skyward and accidentally hit the bride, killing her. The fellow would have been sent to prison and Fay could have been Princess and it would have had a different ending—it was so queer.

Now I supose you'll think I'm a crab but I'm really not. I'd just like to see some decent pictures and thought I'd air my views to see what the fans fould say.

Now don't get me wrong about William Haines. I like him and thought he was perfect in "The Smart Set" but he don't do at all in "The Duke Steps Out."

PAUL.

I too, read "The Duke Steps Out," but I pictured Reginald Denny in the role. However, William is making the picture under James Cruze's direction and that's a lot in his favor. In order to stage authentic fights, Jack Roper, noted heavyweight championship contender, has been engaged to fight with Mr. Haines, with Jimmie Dundee as one of his handlers, and Joe Rivers, former fighter and referee, as referee. Joan Crawford will play opposite Mr. Haines in the picture, and I notice that you liked her in "Dancing Daughters."

Norma is working on a talking picture, "The Trial of Mary Dugan" now. She has an unusually fine voice over the microphone in spite of the fact that she has had very little stage experience. She is charming.

Perhaps you will like Richard better as an Indian. He made his big hit in "The Vanishing American," you know, and now he is doing another super-production on somewhat the same order, "Redskin."

Richard Barthelmess' stock has gone up considerably since "The Patent Leather Kid," which shows what a good story will do for a star. Richard was on the downward trend for a time, but he has just signed a new contract which puts him almost to the top of the list of actors so far as salary is concerned.

Von Stroheim has promised to release a sequel to "The Wedding March" which will give the logical ending to the story. He took thousands of feet of film more than was necessary for the picture and when it came to cutting it into feature length they discovered that with a few more additions they would have enough for a "follow-up" on the "Wedding March." That's the reason it appears to be incomplete.

We hope you will come again soon. I'm sure the fans will be as interested in your comments as I am.

Dear Movie Editor—This is my second time to visit you and your fans. I read your column every Sunday and enjoy it very much. I will try not to make my letter very long as I know you are always very busy, but I hope I am always welcome.

One of the fans asked you if you were a man or a woman and you didn't answer it, so I would like to ask you the same question, because I would really like to know who is so interested in the boys and girls and grown folks and is so kind as to answer all their questions.

I would like to know the addresses of the following: Billie Dove, Charles Rogers, Nils Asther, Mary Brian, Marion Davies, Esther Ralston, Colleen Moore, James Hall, John Gilbert, Norma Shearer, Norma Talmadge, Ronald Colman, Laura La Plante, Sue Carol, Richard Dix, Ptsy Ruth Miller, Albert Vaughn, Phyllis Haver, Mary Pickford, William Collier, jr., Jean Arthur, Gary Cooper and Fay Wray.

Oh! here I have gone and given you such a list that I am ashamed of it, but I will not write for a long time again.

Why don't we see Alberta Vaughn any more? Has she quit the movies?

I just adore Buddy Rogers and Mary Brian. I surely like to see them play together and also Richard Arlen and Mary Brian. I just think Mary Brian is beautiful. I don't think any other word would fit her.

Well, it's about time for me to ring off. Hoping my letter will appear in print soon, and thanking you in advance. NORMA.

We are happy to have you with us again.

Now Norma, you would bring that up, wouldn't you, as to whether I'm a man or woman. I'm too much interested in answering questions about the stars to take time to discuss a mere Movie Editor. I'll give you three gueses on the subject.

Here are your addresses. Billie Dove and Colleen Moore, First National Studio, Burbank, Calif.; Marion Davies, Nils Asther, John Gilbert, Norma Shearer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, Culver City, Calif.; Charles Rogers, Mary Brian, Esther Ralston, James Hall, Richard Dix, Jean Arthur, Gary Cooper and Fay Wray, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif.; Norma Talmadge, Ronald Colman, Mary Pickford, United Artists Studio, 7200 Santa Monica Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.; Phyllis Haver, Pathe, Culver City, Calif.; William Collier Jr., Warner Brothers, 5842 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.; Laura La Plante, Universal Universal City, Calif.; Sue Carol, in care of Douglas MacLean Productions, Hollywood, Calif; Patsy Ruth Miller, 1822 N. Wilton Place, Hollywood, Calif.; Alberta Vaughn, Cal-Art studios, 5823 Santa Molica Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

Albert spent several months in Hawaii making pictures, but she is back in California again filming a new H. C. Witwer series with Al Cooke.

Dear Movie Editor—This is the first letter to you that I have written:

Will you please tell me the cast for "The Singing Fool." Also tell me the addresses of Mary Brian, Al Jolson, Phyllis Haver, Laura La Plante, Ruth Taylor and Colleen Moore.

That will be all for this time.
A Movie Admirer, DOROTHY.
Stromsburg, Neb.

You didn't pay us a very long call. We hope you will return soon so we can become better acquainted.

The cast for "The Singing Fool" is: "Al Stone," Al Jolson; "Grace, Betty Bronson; "Molly Winton," Josephine Dunn; "Blackie Joe," Arthur Housman; "Jon Perry," Reed Howes; "Sonny Boy," Davey Lee; "Louis Marcus," Edward Martindel; "Cafe Manager," Robert Emmett Corrigan; "Maid," Helen Lynch.

You will find Mary Brian and Ruth Taylor at the Paramount-Famous Lasky Studio, 545 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif.

Al Jolson is with Warner Brothers, 5842 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. Colleen Moore drives out to the First National Studio, Burbank, Calif., and Laura turns off at the fork in the road and goes to the Universal Studio, Universal City, Calif. Phyllis Haver is working for Pathe, Culver City, Calif.

Dear Movie Editor—Being interested in the movies, I would ask a few questions concerning the shows.

I saw "Under the Tonto Rim" and thought it was good. Who was the good looking man playing the part of Mary Brian's hero. Please give me his address, Mary is just darling.

Richard Barthelmess in "The Wheel of Chance" was wonderful.

We thought Alice White resembled Clara Bow in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Please give me the casts for "Under the Black Eagle," "Bringing Up Father" and "Old Ironsides."

AN INTERESTED FAN
from Deshler.

That was Richard Arlen who played opposite Mary in "Under the Tonto Rim.' You saw him again in "Wings," no doubt. He is married to Jobyna Ralston. Adress him at the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood.

Mary seems to be ace high with all the fans today. She is a sweet, winsome young lady, and "Buddy Rogers seems to think so too.

The cast for "Under the Black Eagle" is: "Karl," Ralph Forbes," "Margareta,' Marceline Day; "Hans" Eert Roach; "Ulrich," William Fairbanks; "The Colonel," Marc MacDermott; "Print," Flash. Present in "Bringing Up Father" were: "Jiggs," J. Farrell MacDonald; "Dinty" Moore," Jules Cowles; "Maggie,' Polly Moran; "Annie," Marie Dressler; "Ellen,' Gertrude Olmstead; "Dennis," Grant Withers; "The Count," Andre De Segurola; "Mrs. Smith," Rose Dione; "Mr. Feitelbaum," Tenen Holtz; "Oswald," David Mir; "The Dog," Toto.

Folowing is the "Od Ironsides" cast: "Esther," Esther Raston; "Beery," Waace Beery; "Bancroft," George Bancroft; "The Commodore," Chares Farre; "Stephen Decatr," Johnnie Waker; "First Mate," Gy Oliver; "The Cook," George Godfrey; "Somers," Eddie Fetherston; "Esther Mother," Effie Ellsler; "Esther's Father," William Conklin; "Second Mate," Arthur Ludwig.

Dear Movie Editor—Back again and flowing over with questions.

Who was the baby-faced actress in "Powder My Back." I believe Irene Richwas leading lady. When I saw her it seemed that the studio had robbed the cradle. She was simply darling. And who played opposite her? Could you tell me something of them. Where they were born, age, color of hair and eyes, etc.

Maybe some of the fans will throw bricks at me for the next statement, but I am prepared. I believe that Billie Dove is the most appealing face I've ever laid my eyes on. She has the most beautiful eyes and the way she dresses her hair and wears her cloths is really charming. What is her next picture? Her leading man? Has Lloyd Hughes played opposite her? I wasn't sure. Tell me something about her, please.

I thing Clara Bow's actions and she herself is cute, but I thought her much cuter when her face was nto quite so fleshy. But just the same I go to see her pictures and I'm not bored either. I should say not! Could you tell me her address?

Ramon Novarro is a dream and no mistake! Could you tell me something about him? Who's his leading lady? His next picture? His address?

Have the studios any actors from England or France? If so, who are they?

Are the Chinese and Japanese able to enjoy moving picture shows? If so, do you know any of the leading ones?

Whew. I just happened to glance at the questions and I guess the Fans are not the only ones who will throw bricks at me, but I wish to say that I believe your work would certainly be a most interesting one. I'm not just saying that to sweeten you up after all the questions, but I truly believe so.

Could you give me the cast of "Wild Geese?" The addresses of Mark Jordan, the teacher, Judith and the boy she marries. They played in "Wild Geese." It was truly a wonderful picture.

Thanking you, this is station BLAH signing off. Sincerely,
BILLIE, Crete, Neb.

Step in and make yourself comfortable while I "listen in" on Hollywood for you.

The vivacious youngster in "Powder My Back" was Audrey Ferris, just eighteen. She is now a Warner Brothers star and she's only been in pictures since the fall of 1926, when a scout from the Warner Brothers' studio happened to see her in a prologue at Grauman's Million Dollar Theatre in Hollywood.

She is a brunette, a graduate of Los Angeles high school and a talented dancer.

Carroll Nye was the good looking boy who took the part of Jack Hale. He is another California product, in his early twenties, but married to Helen Lynche. He has brown hair and gray eyes. His mother is a prominent Los Angeles newspaperwoman.

Oh, Billie, what a nice big bouquet you have! And all unsolicited, too. Miss Dove's poularity is almost as great as Clara Bow's, if fan letters mean anything. She is working on an Elinor Glyn story, "The Man and the Moment." Rod La Rocque will play opposite her. Lloyd Hughes was her leading man several times. Among their pictures together were "The Stolen Bride" and "American Beauty."

It took Billie a little over four years to work her way from a "bit" player up to a star, but her popularity has increased with her rise to fame.

Billie is a native of New York and started her career when she was only sixteen, posing for artists. Sh studied dancing and amateur dramatics and soon got her chance before the camera. Her beauty and personality won her recognition and it wasn't long before she was chosen to play opposite Douglas Fairbanks in "The Black Pirate," which he filmed in color.

Billie is five feet five inches tall, weighs 115 and has brown hair and blue-grey eyes. She is married to Irvin Willat.

Address Clara Bow at the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Studio, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif.

Novarro, as you may know, was born in Mexico twenty-nine years ago. He was quite an athlete in school and it was because of his athletic ability that Marion Morgan chose him as a member of her dancing troupe.

From there he drifted to the "extra" line and soon received his "break" from Rex Ingram, the man who made Valentino famous. Novarro's first noteworthy screen part was in "The Prisoner of Zenda." He was popular from the start and since his popularity didn't go to his head, he has kept the friends he won and added to the list.

Novarro has an unusually pleasing voice and we may have the opportunity of hearing him sing in his future productions which will by synchronized with sound.

"Yeses" Producer

Lots of mere males would run a temperature at being close to so much loveliness, but Phil Tyrrell, Chicago theatre man, must get used to it. You see, he and Vanessi Jardiniere—Vanessi of the beautiful figure—of the musical comedy stage, tripped into the Municipal building, New York city, and when they came out they were man and wife.

(International Newsreel.)

"The Pagan" is the picture upon which he is now working, with Renee Adoree as his leading lady. Address him at the Metro-Goldwyn Studio, Culver City, Calif.

There are a great many players in our midst who hail from both England and France, as well as other countries in Europe. Ralph Forbes, Reginald Denny, Clive Brook, John Loder, Walter Byron, Donald Colman, Dorothy McKill, Percy Marmont and ever so many others, are from England.

Maurice Chevalier, called the the French Al Jolson, is the latest recruit from that country. Renee Adoree, and Jetta Goudal are also natives of France.

Japan and China are both movie minded. They even send representatives here to investigate our methods of picture making. There are several famous Chinese and Japanese players in Hollywood, but most of them are American born. So Jin, and Anna May Wong are the most prominent. Sessue Hayakawa and his wife, Tsuru Aoki were among our first popular screen player. They are foreign born.

The cast for "Wild Geese" is: Amelia Gare, Belle Bennett; Caleb Gare, Russell Simpson; Judith Gare, Eve Southern; Sven Sandbo, Donald Kieth; Mark Gordon, Jason Robards; Lynn Archer, Anita Stewart; Martin Gare, Wesley Barry; Ellen Gare, Reta Rae; Charle Gare, Austin Jewel; Mrs. Kloxatz, Evelyn Selby; Mr. Klovatz, Frank Austin; Bart Nugent, Bert Starkey; Parson, Jimmie Mack.

Address Miss Southern, Jason Robards and Donald Keith at 616 Taft Bldg., Hollywood, Calif.

Sounds like a lot of taffy to me, Billie, but I must confess I like it. I have a sweet tooth.

Screen Siftings

Quit Stage—There seems to be a general exodus from the legitimate stage to the movies now that talking pictures are definitely "in." Frederic March is the latest stage celebrity to face the camera. He had a part in "The Dummy," produced by Paramount from the stage play by that title, and has signed a long-term contract with Paramount. His next screen appearance will be opposite Clara Bow in "A Wild Party."

Tries Matrimony Again—William J. Mong has decided to sail the matrimonial seas again. He has filed notice of intention to marry Miss Esne Ward, a non-professional. Mr. Mong was divorced from his first wife a year ago.

New Makeup—Eleanor Boardman wears a gas mask for one entire sequence in "She Goes to War," in which she plays the leading role. Henry King is producing the picture. John Holland plays the role opposite Miss Boardman.

New Type of Vamp—Aileen Pringle bids fair to outdo Theda Bara in her number of vampire roles. She will add another type of "vamp" to her list as the exotic "Cora" in "The Five O'Clock Girl." The picture will mark Marion Davies debut in a talking picture. It will be filmed with the original music and lines of the stage hit under the direction of Al Green.

Now They Cut—More than 1,500,000 feet of celluloid have gone through the camera during the filming of "Hell's Angels," which started a year ago in October. The sensational air battle is now being ground out at the Oakland airport, Oakland, Calif. Ten cutters are busy reducing the film footage to feature production length. The picture has cost the producer, Howard Hughes, a neat $2,000,000 and is not yet ready for release. Ben Lyons, James Hall and Greta Nissen are the principals in the cast.

New Contract—Richard Barthelmess will have no fears for the future for another two years to come. He has just signed a new contract with First National calling for three pictures a year for the next two years at the highest salary he has ever received. It will make him one of the highest salaried male stars on the screen. Mr. Barthelmess is working on "Weary River," his last picture on the old contract, which will come to the screen with dialogue and sound.

Gwen Loaned Out—Gwen Lee has been loaned to First National by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to enact a siren role in Billie Dove's, "The Man and the Moment." The picture is based on the story by Elinor Glyn. Rod La Rocque plays opposite Miss Dove.

Lon Goes the Limit—Lon Chaney will go to any extreme to make-up for his role in pictures, and it may be that he will have to subject himself to a real tattoo job for "Where East is East." The part calls for a lavish tatooing, and unless Mr. Chaney can find a way of counterfeiting the marks that will "take" before the camera, he will have to submit to the real needle. Tod Browning has been assigned to the megaphone for the new picture. The scenes are laid in Siam.

New Role for "Sonny Boy."—Davey Lee, the youngest who made such a hit with Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool," will be seen and heard in Rin-Tin-Tin's new picture, "Frozen River." And Rinty, not to be outdone by his human associates on the Warner Brothers' lot, makes his voice heard, too.

Another Mystery—Mystery plays seem to be especially adaptable to sound productions. Paramount has added "The Hole in the Wall" to the list of future sound features. It will be an all-dialogue film, abounding with shrieks and spooky noises. Robert Florey has been presented with the megaphone for the screen version of this stage thriller.

Colleen takes Prize—A dance contest was staged at the First National studio last week with two hundred Los Angeles dancers participating. Colleen Moore and her dancing partner, Neil Hamilton, won the prize. The contest forms one of the scenes for Miss Moore's new picture, "That's a Bad Girl," which William Seiter is directing.

Just Her Husband—

When the police questioned her regarding the whereabouts of her husband on a certain night when murder was done, she deliberately lied to screen herself more than him—yet he loved her until—

Lincoln Symphony Orchestra Offers Interesting Program

BY ERNST HERMINGHAUS.

Programme.

Overture to Preischutz, Weber.

Rustic Wedding Symphony, Goldmark.

Piano Concerto, Schumann.

Waltz, Roses from the South, Strauss.

Les Preludes, Liszt.

This afternoon's concert begins promptly at 3 p. m. Last time we were a bit late and the joke was on us, for after we had so assiduously announced our promptness in starting one of our musicians was five minutes late. Four additional ushers have been secured, affording twelve in all, so prompt seating is assured.

Our stage set at the last concert was a beautiful thing and made a fine picture but was unfortunately not so good acoustically. The innumerable folds of the drop absorbed the sound and it was necessary for the basses to exert themselves to even approach the volume essential to proper interpretation of the music. Consequently you may expect to look into a garden or forest at the concert this afternoon.

Herbert Schmidt, our soloist, is a native of Lincoln. His early work was taken at a local school of music and was augmented by rather extensive study with Rudolf Ganz. He has given recitals in New York City, and recently gave one at the Temple theater. He is certainly an outstanding member of a group of very fine pianists that Lincoln may call its own. In fact, Lincoln is more strongly fortified with fine pianists than in any other branch of music. Mr. Schmidt rehearsed with the orchestra last Sunday afternoon at the chamber of commerce dining room and it was interesting to observe four women in the balcony reading scores as he played.

The concerto is one that can't help making an impression. Of the three movements comprising this number, the first movement is being omitted. The piano begins with intermezzo which is merely a conversation between orchestra and piano. There is no pause between this movement and the last, but beginning of the last movement may be easily detected as the "fireworks" commence. You will note a form of syncopation in this work.

Your attention is called to a very fine spirited article on municipal music by Mr. E. B. Stephenson, which sets forth the reasons and advantages to Lincoln of a quarter-mill levy for music to make all concerts free. Mr. Stephenson spent the summer in Europe where he was greatly impressed by free concerts and the great numbers of people attending, enjoying and listening with intelligence.

TULLIS STUDIO.

Miss Dorothy Beever, soprano, will be soloist with the young ladies' choir at St. Paul church Sunday evening.

Miss Marie Quick, contralto, will sing "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings," from the Messiah on the Christmas program at Epworth Methodist church next Sunday evening.

The chorus of the college of agriculture presented a convocation program Tuesday morning, singing excerpts from Faust. Edwin Boehmer was guest soloist and Mrs. Tullis directed. The same program was repeated Wednesday evening over KFOR.

Sixty Camp Fire girls sang a thirty-minute program of Camp Fire songs and Christmas carols Wednesday evening over KFOR. Mrs. Tullis arranged and directed the program.

WHEATLEY VOCAL STUDIOS.

Walter Wheatley apeared before the state normal at St. Cloud, Minn., last Monday. As associates he had Elizabeth Kerr, soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company, and Lester Spring, Chicago basso.

Helen Hill, soprano, appeared in Omaha Wednesday with the University Girls' octet.

Katherine MacKechnie and Lucile Woods appeared in duets before the republican luncheon at the Lindell hotel recently.

Saint Saens Christmas oratorio will be performed by the vested choir at the First Presbyterian church this morning, under the direction of Mr. Wheatley. The soloists are Margaret Colby, soprano; Katherine MacKechnie and Mrs. L. E. Hover, contraltos; Mr. Wheatley, tenor, and Dr. Oldfather, basso.

THE ROBBINS STUDIOS.

The annual Christmas party, open to members of both the voice and piano departments of these studios, will be held Tuesday evening this week in the new suite at 7 o'clock. The program members omitted from last week's recital will be heard on this program. The Bel Canto Oratorio society will sing two choruses from the oratorio "Ruth". Two quartets will sing. The following additional musical numbers will be heard:

The Cave—Schneider.
Wohin—Schubert.
One Night—Lieurance.
Mrs. Floyd Robbins.
Rejoice Greatly, from "The Messiah—Handel.
Eva Philips.
Spring-Night —Schumann-Liszt.
Ich liebe dich—Grieg.
The Maiden's Wish — Chopin-Liszt.
Waltz in D-flat—Chopin-Rosenthal.
Floyd Robbins.

The following students with Edith Lucille Robbins appeared in studio recital Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock: Blanche Greenland, Jessie Mouden, Laureola Stover, Gladys Loetterle, Helen Lund, Lila Wagner, Harriett Burr, Martha Peters, Ruth Randall, Ruth Stednitz, Sarah Vance, Bernice Nickel, Mary Passmore, Olga Koch, Hazel White, Bernice Geiger.

These studios will continue lessons during the holidays. Pupils may enroll any time.

Vladimir Horowitz, pianist, will be the second artist on the series being presented by The Tuesday Musical club of Omaha. This will be on Tuesday, December 18, 8:15 p. m. at the Knights of Columbus auditorium.

In Detroit, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Chicago Horowitz has appeared with their symphony orchestras, he has been re-engaged for the coming season. Besides that, recitals by Horowitz alone have been booked in every one of these cities, showing the tremendous success he has had.

The Chicago papers of November 24, called Horowitz the greatest pianist they ever heard. The Chicago Herald-Examiner called him the "real succor to Paderewski." He has his fourth appearance this season in Chicago on December 16 in his own recital. Since the first week in December the house for this recital has been sold out.

The monthly meeting of the Evening Musicale will be held Wednesday, December 19, at the home of Mrs. Glen Case, 2440 South Eighteenth street. The following program will be presented:

Cello—Andante Movement, 'Concerto,' Goltermann, Mrs. Vernon Forbes.

Members of the choir whose pictures do not appear above are Merrill Flood, Margaret Melville, Ruth Haberly, and Mary Frances Graham.

The above group comprises the Lincoln A'Cappella choir which has grown to be one of the most interesting musical organizations in the city. Under the direction of John M. Rosborough, the choir sings each Sunday morning at Westminster Presbyterian church. It has accomplished much in the few years it has been organized and has gained a worthwhile reputation not only throughout Nebraska, but neighboring states as well.

STEPHEN LEACOCK.

BACK AT SCHOOL
A Confidential Study, for Parents Only

We parents all of a sudden bumped into recurring decimals and square root and we're stuck.

Here we are, back at school again, plunging into the third declension of Latin and busy with recurring decimals.

I don't mean the little boys and girls themselves, who put in the actual attendance. I mean the parents at home who sit up at night and puzzle over the "home work."

Speaking for myself, I am getting on nicely, but I find the work this year distinctly harder. We have been promoted and have moved up from plain vulgar fractions into decimals. It is likely that in this school year we shall do three whole chapters of the arithmetic. It's terrific the way we mow it down. It is expected that in the brief space of ten months we shall "finish" recurring decimals, square root, and the measurement of soil bodies.

Our Problems.

Compared with this, last year's arithmetic was a cinch. I, and the other parents similarly employed, were busy last winter with measuring paper for rooms (a snap) and reducing square miles to square furlongs (a mere nothing.) Looking back, the whole thing seems ridiculously easy.

But this year we parents are right up against it. We bumped all of a sudden into these recurring decimals and square root and we're stuck.

For us, of course, there is no help, no one to go to; we get a certain number of hints from the children themselves, but beyond that nothing. I've tried looking into the arithmetic text book; but it's no good: you can't understand it.

The other evening I happened for a moment into the house of my friend McDonyall. As I went into his study he swept some papers off the table in a rather shamefaced way and muttered something about some work that he had brought home from the office. But I knew better. He was working at his recurring decimals and he couldn't get them straight.

How We Stand.

I also caught a glimpse of a ruled sheet of paper on which he had writting in beautiful clear script, "by, with, from, or in the table." So I knew that he was working at Latin home work as well. So far I have beaten McDonyall in Latin, but Willie Castle's grandmother beats us both. There is in fact, onlyone brighter parent in the class, old Mr. Edward Galloway, bachelor brother of the grandfather of Edward Galloway, jr., who has been head of the class in Latin home work for two continuous weeks.

The four of us, McDonyall and I, and Willie Castle's grandmother and old Mr. Galloway, have been running neck and neck in general home work for all the year so far. I know McDonyall, but I don't know the other two, but I have to admire the dogged way in which they go at their home work.

In one subject, French, Miss Gillespie (aunt to little Walter Gillespie) in the same class has been beating us all out. But then she took an unfair advantage of us by going over to France for the summer so as to be able to do Walter's exercises. It seems there is no rule of the school about parents studying abroad: they apparently are allowed to do so if they wish.

The Pace That Tells.

This condition of things, which happens not only at my little boy's school, but at all the schools like it, has led me to think that it would be well for us parents to try to "get together" in the matter. This is why I am taking this opportunity to put the matter before the other parents through the press.

As things are, we are working too much in the war. Our competition is too keen. We are cutting one another's throats. Going on as we are, the only result is that we shall all get promoted againand strike a whole lot of new work. The pace is getting too swift.

For example, this third declension in Latin is fierce, and there seems no end to it. I realize, of course, that there must have been a time when I was a little boy at school, forty or fifty years ago, when I must have known. But I am not so sure even of that; my mother was very good at Latin and I had an uncle who was simply splendid.

Simple Definitions.

The first thing that I think we need is some way of pooling our information so as to get light on how to do work, particularly the mathematics. In the books there is no light. The pages in arithmetic that explain how to do things are always skipped over because nobody understands them, and the schoolteacher explains to the children how to do the sums. The children have no time to explain it all to us, the parents, and so we are pitchforked into the ring without a proper chance.

For example, the arithmetic book that we use in our school says, "Arithmetic is the art of calculation by symbolic integers to which is attached a place value in ascending multiples of a given magnitude." I don't get it; and I doubt whether Willie Castle's grandmother has any real grip on it either.

In the same way it says, "A recurring or repeating decimal is the name given to an indeterminate fractional magnitude increasing to infinity by an increment which constantly diminishes in a given inverse ratio." Oh, it? ell I wish old Mr. Galloway would get on that and let me have his views on it. If he is so darned clever as to rank head of us all in his home work for two weeks, perhaps he will tell the rest of us what that means.

The Unseen Decimal.

The trouble of it is that there is nothing in our grown-up lives that corresponds at all to the problems in our home work. In forty years of honest, self-support I have never yet met a recurring decimal. At my club on the price list of things for lunch I look in vain for them. If the club will serve a filet mignon at a price of $1.03—let me write it, one dollar decimal nought three repeater—I'll order four portions and watch the waiter try to add them up. If the railway companies will sell tickets at 3.141159 (the nine is a repeater) cents per mile, I'll travel five decimal four repeater miles just to get on to the system.

But as it is, we're lost.

Of course, we all admit, as parents, that it wouldn't be fair to try to make the children do the home work themselves. They are too busy, too happy, for it. When my little son and John and Ian and Lawrence and the rest of the crowd in our form come up the street with their schoolbooks after school and deliver the home work, door by door, who could have the heart to stop them and call them in from their play? No, no—let McDonyall and old Mr. Galloway get busy—but spare the little boys.

The Tenseness of It.

But let them, the parents, take warning. I doubt if their health can stand the strain. McDonyall has had to give up golf since he got into square root and old Mr. Galloway's light has been burning in his study till one and two in the morning after they put him into the third delension. It's too tense. There are some bright parents in our school, but at this pace, they'll break down.

Surely, if we took thought about it, we could make it a little easier for ourselves. Can't we slacken the pace? In all departments of business it is found that competition is useful only as a stimulus; as a final principle, as a goal, it fails. It is everywhere replaced by some kind of concerted action.

We parents must follow this general rule. What if we do get proficient this winter in square root? The teachers will merely rush us forward into the cube root in the spring. Already algebra is looming up dead ahead of us; they talk of starting us in it next month. How will Willie Castle's grandmother like that?

The truth is, I fear, that we are hindered by our own petty conceit in our achievements. We like to come out at the head of the class and have the teacher write "excellent" on our exercise. And, of course, each of us has something that he fancies he can do better than the others.

Slacken the Pace.

Willie Castle's people are brokers and so, of course, in straight arithmetic we can't hold the pace with them. And if Miss Gillespie beats it over to France so as to be able to do all the exercises in Walter's book and knows which nouns are feminine, we can't stop her.

I don't mind pleading a little bit guilty myself too. I've had a certain training as a writer and I admit that the essay I did last term on "Spring" had a snap to it that McDonyall can't touch. This week we are all doing eassays on "An Afternoon at the Zoo," and I feel that I've got the crowd cold before they even begin.

But I'm willing to agree, if they are. Slacken off the pace, ease it up. Never mind about promotion after New Year. I'll stay back in the same old class if Willie Castle's grandmother and the rest of the gang will stay with me.

Come, let us be reasonable about it. Let us get this home work cut down to where we can still dine in comfort and spend our evenings in seemly leisure. I will, if the rest will. What about it?

University Notes

Prof. G. D. Swezey, instructor in astronomy, will lecture on "The Planet Venus" Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when the observatory will be open to the public. The telescope will be available for observation before and after the lecture.

Dr. Susie P. Souther, who took undergraduate work at the University of Nebraska and is now connected with the United States children's bureau, is the author of an article in the November number of Hospital Social Service entitled "Turning Sunlight into Health." Dr. Souther took a considerable portion of her work at the university in sociology.

Prof. Esther Anderson of the geography department is preparing an article on Nebraska for the World Book to be published by a Chicago company.

Miss Anderson spoke Thursday noon to the Knife and Fork club on the subject of "Geography of the Sugar Beet and Potato Industries of Nebraska."

Louis A. Wolfanger, who obtained a degree of master of arts at the University of Nebraska in 1924 and was a graduate assistant in the department of geography here, will read a paper at the annual convention of the Association of American Geographers in New York City during the Christmas holidays. His topic will be "The Influence of Climate as a Factor in Soil Evolution as Illustrated by the Loessial Soils of the United States." Mr. Wolfanger is now an instructor on geography at Columbia university.

The committee to handle preparations for freshmen engineer's day, which takes place each year during registration week, has been appointed by Dean O. J. Ferguson of the college of engineering. It includes Prof. P. W. Norris, chairman; Prof. C. J. Frankforter, Prof. J. W. Haney, Prof. W. G. Hill, Prof. H. J. Kesner, and Prof. C. W. Smith.

Dean Ferguson recently returned from a trip to New York City where he attended the meeting of the national nominating committee of officers for the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and a board meeting of that society. He reported visiting with William L. DeBaufre, formerly chairman of the mechanical engineering department at the University of Nebraska, and now in charge of research laboratory at Newark, N. J. Dean Ferguson also attended the seventh power exposition in New York City.

"Classical Allusions in the Poetry of John Donne" is the title of an article in the last issue of the Publications of the Modern Language Association of America by Miss Beatrice Johnson, graduate of the University of Nebraska. Miss Johnson is now a member of the English faculty of the junior college at San Matteo, Calif. She was formerly assistant here to Dr. Louise Pound.

Gets Her Chance—Cecil B. De Mille still lives up to his reputation of elevating comedy stars to dramatic roles. Carol Lombard, who was formerly a Mack Sennett player, will have her big chance in Mr. De Mille's first big feature for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "Dynamite." Conrad Nagel has already been announced for the leading male role in the picture.

Going To Europe—June Marlowe is on her way to Europe where she will make two productions for Universal. The pictures, "Fallen Angels," and "The House of Glass," will be directed by Josef Levigard, who preceded Miss Marlowe to Berlin. The remainder of the cast will be signed in England, Germany and France. Miss Marlowe expects to be abroad three months.

Cotner Notes

Dr. Alexander Paul, oriental secretary for the United Christian Missionary society, and A. F. Hensey, missionary on furlough from Africa, were on the campus Thursday and Friday. Both spoke at the chapel Thursday. They had private conferences and interviews with students interested in missions or religious problems, and spoke to several classes and other groups. Dr. Paul has visited the college several times, and Mrs. Hensey was a visitor nineteen years ago, since which time he has served two terms as missionary at Bolenge, Coquilhatville, Congo Belge, W. C. Africa.

Ralph R. Tietsort, '28, who has been minister to the Christian church at Edgar, has accepted the pastorate of the Christian church at Arlington, South Dakota. Mr. Tietsort was one of the eight seniors ordained last commencement.

Everett Kemp read "That Printer of Udell's" Thursday evening as the first number of the year's lyceum course. Lew Sarett, woodsman, poet and university professor, will give the second program January 8.

Three national honorary organizations are represented by chapters on the campus. They are Nebraska Beta of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic fraternity; and Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity, and Alpha Upsilon of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity. Besides these there are Aylsworth chapter of Oxford Fellowship, interdenominational fraternity for undergraduate ministerial students; Women's Athletic association, affiliated with the Athletic Conference of American College Women, and the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. both connected with national organizations.

Professor Gregg Dean of Leadership School

Professor F. M. Gregg of Wesleyan university is the dean of the fifth annual leadership training school to be given under the auspices of the First Methodist church January 12-18, 1929.
Professor Gregg needs no introduction to church school workers anywhere in the state. He has made many valuable contributions to the work of the state association. He is now general superintendent of the First M. E. church school. His leadership as dean in 1927 was greatly appreciated.
He has a strong faculty this year composed of: Rev. H. P. Fox, Prof. E. E. Emme, Prof. E. R. Lewis, Prof. O. H. Bimson, Rev. Reuben Porter of Chicago and Mrs. W. E. Van Patten of Topeka, Kans.

Everyday Questions

his own comfort, his mistress and himself.
I have lived this unhappy life for the sake of my poor boys and girl, hoping he would come to his senses, but he remains happy and contented with himself.
Any help you give us will be deeply appreciated by three unhappy children and a heartbroken wife.
The callous immorality you describe is unendurable. This man is simply a walking pesthouse of sensuality and filth. Even when allowance is made for "other nations, other manners," the infamous complacency of your miscalled "husband" about his iniquity belongs to the code of a rotter, not to an American home. Such an alien wallower in fleshly mire who, nevertheless, conceives himself an enlightened gallant, should be deported.
Get rid of him. A legal separation may not be all you deserve, but it is a case of choosing the lesser of two evils. Shut down on his apologies for male prostitution. Give your attorney a complete statement of the facts so as to place him in a position to inform the court of this man's conduct, and see to it that your financial interests and those of the children are safeguarded.
One sometimes hears th eprotest that English-speaking peoples are hypocritical concerning their sexual vices. After reading your letter I am thankful that save for absolute degeenerates my countrymen rarely boast of their philanderings or regard them with satisfaction. If this is hypocrisy, make the most of it. The mistress "on the side" is an acknewledged institution in other lands that could be named. But unless the pagans win out, this good land will continue to maintain some reserves about lust and its open debaucheries.

SOME INDIAN PLACE NAMES IN NEBRASKA

buys or trades" hence it has been rendered as "traders." Another derives it from an Indian word that means "tattooed-on-the-breast-people."
Kiowa is the name of a precinct and former post office in Thayer county. It takes its name from the Kiowa Indians who at an early date moved southward and were at one time in war with the Cheyenne and Arapahoes. Plainsmen state that they were the most cruel and bloodthirsty of the plains tribes and that they killed more whites than any other tribe in proportion to their numbers. Some derive the name Kiowa from "Ka igu wa," meaning "principal people." Mr. J. P. Harrington who has lately completed a dictionary of the Kiowa language states that he has made a special study of the etomology of the word with several Indians and states that there is no word or combination of words that would explain the meaning of the word Kiowa.
Leshara, Saunders county, was named for Pita Lesharu, a Pawnee chief who lived near this town that bears his name.
Yutan also in Saunders county, was named for a chief of the Otoes and Missouri. His name is commonly given as Itan, Ietan and Jutan. A former Otoe village was near the present site of the town.
The Indian names thus far mentioned are some of the Indian names in Nebraska that are associated with Indians that once lived in the state, and names that still appear on the map of Nebraska.
We also have a number of names that have been translated, or that relate to the Indian history of the state. Redwillow is a translation of an Indian word that has given a name to a stream, former post office, precinct, and county, of this state. The name Redwillow is a mistranslatin of the Dakota name "Chan shasha wakpala;" "Chan" denoting wood and "shasha" is a duplication of "sha" meaning red, from the winter coloration of its bark and "wakpala" is the Dakota appelation for creek, so we have "wood-red-creek" or "Redwood Creek," "Chan shasha" is the Indian word for the Cornus Amomum, commonly called the red dogwood or Kinnikinnick. The Indian name does not mean redwillow but means red dogwood.
The word "Loup" as we have it in the name of a tributary of the Platte and also in the county name is a translation of the word "Skidi," the name of a band of the Pawnee nation. It means wolf, and Loup is the French word for wolf.
The Republican river has not an Indian name but one derived from the white man's appellation of an Indian tribe, the Republican Pawnee. About 1795 this band separated from the Grand Pawnee and established themselves upon this river where they had their own form of government. On this account and partly because their form of government was more liberal than that of the other Pawnee, it was referred to as the Pawnee republic, and the people were called Republican Pawnees. From them the stream derived its name.
Kaya Paha county takes its name from the Keya Paha river, which in turn derives its name from a hill near it called by the indians "Keya Paha. This is a Dakota word signifying: "Keya," turtle, and "Paha", hill—Turtle Hill. There are two versions given as to the reason for so designating this hill, one is that it was named from its shape which was that of a huge turtle, another is that many turtles were found on it.
Pawnee county, one of the eight original counties of the state commemorates the name of an Indian tribe that once lived in Nebraska. The origin of the name is somewhat obscure. The Handbook of American Indians states that the name is probably derived from "Pariki" which means "horn." This name was given to the tribe on account of the peculiar manner of dressing the scalplock, by which the hair was stiffened with paint and fat and made to stand erect and curved like a horn. Capt. Lute North of Columbus, a former Pawnee scout and an authority on matiers pertaining to the Pawnee nation, says that the Pawnee used to shave their heads, except a strip about two inches that was roached and stood up from the forehead to the crown of the head, where they let it grow long and braided it into a scalp. They say that at one time they had two braids, one on each side of the crown and they braided it so tightly that it would stand up three or four inches, and other tribes called them the "Horned people" until they accepted it and took the name of Pawnee or in Skidi "Pawreeks", which means "horn."
Otoe, another of the eight original counties of Nebraska, was named for the Otoe Indians. The significance of this name has been lost. Some say it means "Leacher", others would have it means "Wife-stealers," from a love scrape of a young Otoe. Major A. L. Green of Beatrice, who lived among the Otoes and Missouris as Indian agent for many years, states that he doubts the correctness of any of these derivations.
Cheyenne, one of our western counties, has an Indian, or rather a corruption of an Indian name. It is derived from the Siouan name of this tribe which is "Sha hi ye na," meaning "people of alien speech." According to Mr. Grinnell the literal meaning of the name is "red-talkers." The Sioux speak of people whose language they do not understand as "redtalkers", while people whose language they understood were ""whitetalkers."
Ogallala, the county seat of Keith county, takes its name from the Oglala Sioux. The word means "scatterers", or "spreading". This tribe received its name from its nomadic habits. The Indians of this tribe were more nomadic than the eastern tribes of the same nation. This was no doubt due to the leaner and less productive land in which they lived, which made a greater area necessary for sustenance of a given population. The instability of habitation prevented the development of agriculture which obtained to some degree among the Dakota tribes situated in a more favorable and humid region further east.
Omaha, the metropolis of the state, has an Indian name, the name of one of Nebraska's prominent tribes that was here when the white man came and the only one of this number that is still in the state—in Thurston county. The name Omaha is a corruption of "Omanhan" and signifies "upstream" or "against the current". Tradition states that the tribe in its westward migration down the Ohio river came to the Mississippi, and in crossing this stream a separation took place, some going up stream who thus became the upstream people or the Omahas, while those going downstream became the downstream people or the Quapaws.

Doane College Notes

A scientific article by Miss Myrna Jones, '24, of Washington, D. C., has recently been published by authority of the secretary of agriculture. This bulletin deals with a certain parasite with an unpronounceable name which lives at the expense of the chicken and the robin. The article presents the results of an original study which Miss Jones has been making in the bureau of animal industry, Washington, D. C.

Word from President Dean indicates that his broken ankle is mending as rapidly as cuold be expected and that he hopes to be able to return home early this coming week.

Doane College Notes

The many friends of Rev. Clyde S. Noyce, '21, were shocked to learn of his sudden death on Dec. 12, in Duluth, Minn. After several years successful pastorate of a suburban church in Chicago, Mr. Noyce was called two years ago to take charge of the religious educational work of a prominent church in Duluth. He was very much devoted to this new line of work and was making a rare success in it. His death was caused by pneumonia following an attack of influenza. The funeral and burial will occur at Duluth Sunday Dec. 16.

New Excavations in Biblical Beth-Shan

Excavations at Beisan, Palestine, during the seventh season of the Pennsylvania Museum's archaeological field expedition showing the latest work at Biblical Beth-shan this fall. Native workmen are shown clearing the rooms of a great Canaanite fort tower found in the level dating from 1411 to 1314 B. C. The cylindrical stones are part of debris remaining from a great Hellenistic temple whose foundations had cut into the earlier level.

Bringing Up Father

Registered U. S. Patent Office

SAY- EVERY ONE TELLS ME THAT YOU AN' YOUR WIFE NEVER QUARREL- IS THAT POSSIBLE? YOU MUST BE A HYPNOTIST-

NO INDEED- IT'S VERY SIMPLE- I KILL HER WITH KINDNESS- JOLLY HER ALONG- IT'S A CINCH-

NOW IF I INTEND GOING OUT OF AN EVENING- I BRING HOME SOME ROSES TO HER- SHE CAN'T REFUSE YOU AFTER THAT-

BY GOLLY- IT LISTENS LIKE A FAIRY TALE- I'LL TRY IT-

IF THIS WORKS- I MAY HAVE SOME BRIGHT DAYS AHEAD OF ME-

TONY- FIX ME UP A BUNCH OF ROSES-

DO YOU WANT GOOD ONES- OR DO YOU WANT THEM FER DA WIFE?

FER DA WIFE- EH? DAT'S WHAT DEY ALL SAY- BUT TONY IS A WISE GUY-

YOU'RE WRONG TONY- I'M GOIN RIGHT HOME WITH THESE-

EVERYTHING WILL BE FINE IF MAGGIE DOESN'T THINK I'M FOOLISH-

STAGE DOOR

BY GOLLY- I DIDN'T KNOW THAT I SPENT ALL ME MONEY FOR THESE FLOWERS- NOW I'LL HAVE TO GO HOME ON A STREET CAR-

I HOPE THE- DE PYSTERS ARE LOOKING OUT THE WINDOW SO THEY CAN SEE MY NEW HAT-

STAGE DOOR

I SHOULD HAVE HELD OUT TAXI FARE- GEE, THE STREET CAR IS A LONG TIME COMIN'-

AND IF I EVER CATCH YOU HANGING AROUND THAT STAGE DOOR AGAIN WITH FLOWERS- YOU'LL BE GETTING A LOT OF FLOWERS FROM YOUR FRIENDS IN A HOSPITAL-

YOU MAY BE A ROSE TO SOME PEOPLE, BUT YOU'RE JUST A LEMON TO ME-
